SENATE STARTS TALKING ABOUT RAISING TAXES

330 More Millions Are Needed.

House Is Active

Suspending its rules in order to get speedy action, the house of representatives yesterday passed the administration's sugar control bill, the Johnson bill prohibiting foreign nations in default on debts owed the country from selling securities in the American market, and adopted a resolution ordering a federal inquiry into power rates. Details on page 6.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 4.—[Special.]—The woes of the nation weighed heavily today upon the weary shoulders of the senate as it considered the tax bill designed to add 330 million dollars to the country's revenue. While most of their colleagues listened in pained silence, several Democratic senators confessed their belief that the United States is in just as bad shape now as it was a year ago.

It also was "swat the rich" day and a number of orators relieved their minds by assailing the wealthy. More definite action was added in the shape of approval of a tax of one-tenth of 1 per cent on the capital stock of corporations, designed to raise 95 million dollars a year. Tentative approval was given to a large surtax on "improperly accumulated" surpluses of corporations.

Too Good to Last.

For about an hour after the session opened at noon the galleries were treated to the unusual spectacle of a senate actually making some progress on the legislation before it. Then Senator Homer T. Bone [Dem., Wash.] arose to express his alarm at the fate of the American youth of today. This was the signal for relaxation and the rest of the day was given up to good old-fashioned speechmaking, while Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.] and Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] chairman of the finance committee, fretted and fumed at the delay.

"What is going to become of the great army of young men whom our schools and colleges are turning out today?" demanded Senator Bone. "They can't get jobs. They roam the streets. Some of them shoot themselves."

There was a glint in the eye of Senator Huey Long [Dem., La.] at this challenge.

"That's right," he exclaimed, excitedly. "Phi Beta Kappas in Louisiana are glad to get jobs as dish washers."

Fault of the Trusts.

"It's all the fault of the trusts," declared Senator Bone. "The money is all in their hands. And when we protest they tell us that depression is good for the soul; that men lose sight of their God when they are making money. I quote Roger Babson, who said that hard times have reformed us all and bankers are learning to practice the Golden Rule."

When a ripple of merriment went through the galleries and the chair pounded for order Senator Bone pleaded that the public be allowed to enjoy his remarks.

"Let 'em laugh," he said. "I think the senate should relax from some of its dignity and let every one laugh."

Departing slightly from his theme, Senator Bone turned a withering glance upon the Republican side of the chamber.

And Republicans, Too.

"The dear old Republican party brought us to this," he asserted. "It brought us to the abyss where just one more slight push would have sent us over."

He paused to shudder at the nearness of the escape.

"If we have another war," he continued, "who will be called upon? The sons of those who own only 5 per cent of the wealth of the nation. They will put on their uniforms and die on the battlefields. We must tap the sources of wealth and decentralize it."

"Some day," he warned, solemnly, "this brawny group of the poor will put their arms around the pillars that uphold the country and pull them down."

Several other senators had words to say about the perils that beset the government, but it remained, of course, for Huey Long to put all their efforts to shame. The hands of the senate clock ticked away one hundred and twenty minutes while Huey screeched his scorn of the entire senate, Democratic as well as Republican.

"You all sit here twiddling your

ICKES INJECTS HIS VIEWS INTO CONGRESS RACE

Objects to Simpson; Reason: Sports.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The battle between Congressman James Simpson Jr. and Ralph E. Church for the Republican nomination for congress in the 10th district roused the primary campaign out of lethargy last night with a new political sensation.

Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, interjected himself into the contest with a letter against Mr. Simpson. The Roosevelt cabinet member, declaring that he spoke as a private citizen and as a voter in the district, raised a new issue in Illinois politics.

Ickes Speaks for Sports.

Hung on the hook for the night were the NRA, the AAA, the PWA, and the rest of the alphabetical symbols, while Mr. Ickes trotted out the questions of polo playing, hunting, and boating. These sports, he held, gave no training for office. He did not mention golf.

The Ickes letter was made public in a radio talk for Mr. Church by Walter F. Dodd of Winnetka, the manuscript of which was sent out by Mr. Church. At once the 10th district, which stretches from the Chicago river at North avenue to the Wisconsin boundary, embracing the north shore suburbs and all of Lake county, began to reverberate.

"The pleasing pursuit of polo, fox hunting, grouse shooting, and yachting," said the Ickes letter against Congressman Simpson, "while unobjectionable in itself, offers neither training nor experience for public office in a time of crisis."

Simpson Makes Reply.

Congressman Simpson in brief comment declared:

"It's typical of the underhanded attack one may expect from Mr. Church. It's true I played polo ten years ago and it's true I had horses in races before I went to congress. But I rode my horses myself and did not ask any one else to risk his neck on them.

"I'm standing on my own two feet, without asking aid of Socialists or college professors or the Brain Trust at Washington. It's typical of the Socialist tactics of the Church camp to make backhanded attacks on any one standing for the fundamental forms of American government."

The Ickes letter remarked that as a congressman Mr. Simpson "is and will be merely a faint echo of the school of thought best typified by Mr. Samuel Insull." It said: "In my judgment it would be a wise and kind act for the 10th district to recall him so that he may devote his talents to his proclaimed major occupation of farming."

Some Political Offshoots.

While Mr. Simpson and his managers dwelt briefly on the new issue of sports as raised in the Ickes letter, both Republican and Democratic politicians in the district sought to trace the political implications further. As some viewed it, the New Deal was perhaps slipping a jack from the bottom of the deck.

Ward leaders in both parties voiced the question of whether Secretary Ickes is seeking to build up a personal machine in Cook county and Illinois. Some of them asked whether he spoke for the White House, and on learning that Mr. Ickes expressly said he spoke in this Republican primary contest as a private citizen and a 10th district voter, they questioned the propriety of a member of a Democratic cabinet swinging his pen in a local political contest.

It has been done before, however, and friends of Mr. Ickes in the district contend that at least in the past he had been a Republican and had a perfect right to state his views.

Dodd States His View.

Mr. Dodd, in his radio manuscript, said he had asked Mr. Ickes for an expression of opinion.

"I do not know Mr. Simpson and have no feeling against him," said Mr. Dodd, "but I do know that a man of no legislative experience can have had little influence in the present session of congress."

Some of the Simpson adherents waxed a bit satirical on this question of "influence."

"This Mr. Dodd," remarked one of them, "was in charge of the collection of data for the Illinois constitutional convention in 1919 and 1920. But when the proposed constitution was submitted to the voters they rejected it by a vote of five to one, Cook county voting twenty to one against it. Yet he talks about 'influence.'"

HIS INSPIRATION?

SOVIETS RENEW DRIVE TO BRING ALL FARMERS INTO COLLECTIVE UNITS

[Copyright, 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, April 4.—A campaign to bring the remaining private farmers into collective units by friendly means, in sharp contrast to the coercive measures which aroused such resentment two years ago, is being launched as the spring planting gets under way.

Instructions are going out to village soviets to give every help to individual farmers, supplying them with seed and even procuring for them machines and horses where necessary. The individual peasants will then be shown the advantages of belonging to collectives, such as lower taxes and the facilities to sell surplus grain in the open market. The next and final step will be to encourage groups such as individuals living in the same neighborhood to form their own collective units of five or ten individual households.

The principal object of this plan is to carry out one of the important objectives of the second five year plan—100 per cent collectivization of farms. It is estimated about 80 per cent of the soviet union's vast agricultural territories is now collectivized, and 75 per cent and perhaps more of the peasants are now operating in collectives.

JAPANESE BABY PRINCE TAKEN TO PALACE SHRINES

TOKIO, April 5.—[Thursday.]—(AP)—The infant crown prince, Akihito Tsugo No Miya, was formally presented today to more than 100 generations of his august ancestors. In the arms of his nurse, oblivious to the awesomeness of the occasion, the three months old babe who is to become the 125th mikado was carried before various palace shrines.

Here, according to orthodox Japanese belief, he "worshiped" the national deities, the spirits of his predecessors on the Japanese throne. At the Koreigen, first of the palace sanctuaries, are enshrined the spirits of all the 123 mikados who have reigned before Emperor Hirohito.

At the Shinden ..re worshiped the "eighty myriad" deities of the Shinto pantheon; and at the Kashikodokoro, or holy of holies, is treasured the sacred mirror, symbol of the soul of the sun goddess Amaterasu-O-Mi-Kami, divine ancestress of the imperial family and the Japanese race.

Insull Gets $10,000 for New Battle

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 4.—While Samuel Insull today replenished his monetary arsenal to continue his legal battle against extradition to the United States, Turkey patiently awaited action by the American government to take the fugitive Chicago utilities promoter off its hands.

Up to a late hour tonight no instructions had been received from Washington, though Ambassador Robert P. Skinner at Ankara, the capital, is said to be in constant touch with the American state department.

In any event, it is declared, the Turkish government has pronounced its final decision that Insull, who is being held in a house of detention here, must be returned to Chicago for trial. This decision, it is asserted, all heaven and earth cannot shake.

Seeks Means of Escape.

Insull's lawyers today racked their wits and thumbed through volumes on international law in an effort to find a loophole for their client.

Insull cabled his London lawyer urgently for money yesterday. Today $10,000 was placed to his credit in a bank here, so he now has plenty of ammunition.

Insull was laced mercilessly today in the newspaper Akcham, which termed Insull a "brigand in gentleman's clothing." It asserted that the only place for such a "bandit" is in prison and declared that "in arresting Insull we have given the world a lesson in morality and virtue."

The Greek government today abandoned any plan to protest because Insull was taken off a ship flying the Hellenic flag. It appears after a study of the straits convention that the Greeks never had grounds to protest.

Contrary to common opinion, neither the straits of Dardanelles nor the Bosporus nor the sea of Marmora are international waters. According to the convention signed at Lausanne on July 24, 1923, the Turks were forbidden to fortify either coast line. At the same time, Ankara guaranteed "freedom of transit and navigation by sea or air," but the waters are in no sense international, for police control over the channel never has been relinquished.

Hope to Start Him Home Soon.

Washington, D. C., April 4.—(AP)—The United States hopes to start Samuel Insull back to this country on an American vessel sailing from Istanbul next Tuesday, if arrangements cannot be completed by that time another American vessel is scheduled to sail from the Turkish port April 24.

Plan to Air Case in Commons.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 4.—Samuel Insull's friends in London today decided to petition every member of the house of commons with a demand to know why Mrs. Insull was refused permission to land in England.

"The whole thing looks like cheap politics in favor of the United States," one of the friends asserted. "If the home secretary feels called upon to do certain things in the 'interest of the country,' then he can be called upon to explain why. We are going to make a special effort to get Lady Astor interested in Mrs. Insull's case and think she will have something to say when she knows the full facts.

"With regard to Sam, he is still a long way from the United States. The United States knew Sam was making for Turkey, yet after deliberately violating international law, the American ambassador to Turkey still is without instructions on what to do with his prisoner. And we know why."

Claim U. S. "Fears" Insull.

"There is a large number of influential people in America who do not want Sam back.

"If Sam ever gets back to America, a lot of well known American people will suddenly decide that it is a good time to take a vacation in Europe, and if they have any common sense, they will profit by Sam's experience and take a holiday in a country which has no extradition treaty with the United States."

ANCIENT GREEK TABLET TELLS OF SILVER MINES

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

ATHENS, April 4.—American archeologists excavating the Agora [assembly place] under the leadership of Prof. Shear of Princeton university have discovered a nearly intact marble tablet inscribed with 96 lines averaging 47 letters each, dating from the middle of the 4th century B. C.

Its complete translation will require weeks of work, but Prof. Shear has deciphered enough to indicate that the inscription relates to the famous Laurium silver mines, which were then at the height of their prosperity.

Laurium, a range of hills forming the southeast part of Attica, contains both silver and lead mines that were important in ancient Greece. The mines have been worked again in more recent times.

MRS. ELBERT H. GARY, STEEL CHIEF'S WIDOW, SERIOUSLY ILL IN N. Y.

New York, April 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Elbert H. Gary, widow of the steel magnate, was reported critically ill today at her home, 856 5th avenue.

Details were withheld at her home and at offices of the United States Steel corporation.

Mrs. Gary was formerly Emma T. Townsend. She married Mr. Gary, who became chairman and chief executive officer of the United States Steel corporation, in 1905.

Mr. Gary died in 1927.

Lake Forest Goes Wet for the First Time

For the first time in its seventy-three years of history Lake Forest will permit the sale of hard liquor, and beer of any strength.

Announcement that an ordinance to this effect had been unanimously passed by the city council was made yesterday in a statement signed by Mayor Albert D. Farwell and all the aldermen.

While saloons and roadhouses are banned, as well as the sale of liquor by the drink at hotels and restaurants, provision is made to permit members of such private clubs as Onwentsia and Knollwood to have their drinks dispensed in the clubhouses.

Ordinance 20,000 Words Long.

Main provisions of the ordinance, which is a 20,000 word document and will be effective May 10, are:

Restaurants and hotels may sell beer of any alcoholic content, but they cannot sell hard liquor, either in package form or by the drink.

Merchants may sell liquor in package form, but may not sell it for consumption on the premises.

No saloons or roadhouses will be allowed.

No one not a resident of Lake Forest may receive a license to sell either beer or liquor.

The license fee will be $25 a year for either the sale of beer or hard liquor.

In regard to the private clubs the ordinance says:

"It is the belief that private clubs should be accorded the same privilege as private individuals, and the sale of alcoholic liquors on such premises should not be banned."

Broad Powers to Mayor.

Mayor Farwell, however, explained this refers only to bona fide clubs, and the council would not tolerate the sudden springing up of clubs organized solely for the purpose of drinking.

The mayor is given broad powers to grant and revoke licenses, and will base his judgment on the character of the applicant in granting them. The mayor may summarily revoke a license if the business is not conducted in an orderly manner. Each person receiving a license must post a $100 bond, which is to be forfeited if the license is revoked.

At present only 3.2 per cent beer may be sold in Lake Forest and the charter, granted on Feb. 21, 1861, provides that no intoxicating liquor can be sold within the city limits. In addition, the deeds to a number of pieces of property in Lake Forest provide that no intoxicating liquor can be sold on the premises.

Something to Debate Over.

Just how such clauses would affect the ordinance, or vice versa, is still a matter for the legal minds of Lake Forest to debate.

In the meantime, on the north shore, Evanston, Glencoe, and Winnetka, all went dry by large margins in the balloting Tuesday, as did the western suburbs of Oak Park and River Forest. In none of these suburbs did the wets even make the race close.

A MOTHER TABBY MAKES ROOM FOR 4 BABY SQUIRRELS

Jack Klein, 15 years old, 346 Linden avenue, Wilmette, created a domestic problem yesterday when he rescued four little squirrels from a nest after he found their mother injured and unable to get to them. The problem was how to feed little squirrels. It was solved by Tabby, the Kleins' cat, who made her two kittens move over and let the little rodents share their lunch. According to Jack, the old cat is more fond of the squirrels than of her own offspring. The injured parent squirrel was taken to a pet hospital for treatment.

PICK COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE ALL ACTIVITIES

Wirt Will Be Asked to Testify.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 4.—[Special.]—New fires blazed under the seats of the Roosevelt brain trust today as after days of delays a committee of the house was finally named to investigate charges that the professors are hatching a communistic revolution in the United States.

Speaker Rainey late today named five members on the investigating committee, and the committee chairman, Representative Alfred L. Bulwinkle [Dem., N. C.], who initiated the inquiry, indicated the group would get to work quickly.

Will Invite Wirt to Testify.

It is expected a first meeting of the committee will be held tomorrow, and that an invitation to appear will be dispatched without delay to Dr. William A. Wirt, the Gary, Ind., educator whose charge that the brain trust is scheming to put a Stalin in the White House stirred up the whole matter.

Although the administration Democrats have a firm hold on the action of the committee and can at any time halt the whole investigation should it get too hot for the ease of the New Dealers, the critics of the brain trust drew some comfort from the fact that one of the minority members appointed is Representative Harold McGugin [Rep., Kas.].

Mr. McGugin, a brilliant young lawyer, has sprung into national prominence by conducting a masterful and sincere attack on the workings of the brain trust and by frustrating, almost single-handed, the efforts of administration Democrats to stifle and hamstring the Wirt investigation.

Demands That Public Decide.

The Kansan today, in a speech before the house delivered prior to the appointment of the committee, capped his previous efforts on the subject by sounding a dramatic plea that American business and industry and agriculture be saved from the communization planned for it by the brain trusters.

Crying out that the nation cannot survive half under government control and half under private initiative, because the private half would be snuffed out under the heel of government competition, Mr. McGugin insisted that the American people have a full right to show their desires in the matter by an election before it shall be too late.

In addition to Representatives Bulwinkle and McGugin, the other members of the committee which will call Dr. Wirt and then determine how far the investigation shall proceed from that point are William W. Arnold [Dem., Ill.], J. J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.], and Frederick R. Lehlbach [Rep., N. J.].

New Attack on Brain Trust

Meanwhile from another source came a fresh attack on the brain trust at the agricultural department. Roy M. Pike of California, chairman of the cooperative dairy defense committee, declared in an interview with newspaper men today that "President Roosevelt has been stabbed in the back and his plans for agricultural recovery are being 'sabotaged' by radicals within the farm administration."

Mr. Pike named Jerome M. Frank, general counsel for the AAA; Fred C. Howe, consumers' counsel; Victor Christgau, assistant administrator; Mordecai Ezekiel, economic adviser, and E. J. Froker, chief of the AAA dairy section.

Mr. Pike alleged that the farm administration, headed by these men, is attempting to destroy cooperative farm marketing organizations by taking over their duties and subjecting them to the control of federal milk administrators.

"The group of young liberals within the AAA," Mr. Pike declared, "is not interested in recovery but in changing the economic structure of the country."

Attacks Theory of Retribution.

The theme of Congressman McGugin's plea to the house was for a reaffirmation of the rights of Americans to succeed by their own initiative, for restoration of the rights of private business. If wrongdoers in industry and finance were to be punished, he declared, the proper method under American ideals was to try them in the courts for their crimes, not to ruin all business and all finance in order to bring retribution to a few miscreants.

Finding a tendency under the New Deal and the brain trust to put the government in control or in actual possession of industry and agriculture, Mr. McGugin declared this to be communism. He asserted that before the United States should be placed under a communistic form of government the people should be given opportunity to vote their will in the matter.

The Kansan charged that the Democratic party platform and the speeches made by Mr. Roosevelt in his campaign were flatly contradictory to the New Deal as it has been developed.

Believes in Rights of Citizens.

"I believe," declared McGugin, "in the inalienable rights of the individual American citizen. That does not mean that individuals in managing private corporations have the right to pilfer the country, as was done by international banking, fake stock selling projects, and any number of other corrupt and dishonest acts which were practiced during the heyday of our supposed prosperity during and following the war.

"When I express my belief in individualism and the hights of the individual I refer to the right of an American citizen to work on a farm, in the factory, in the mine, or to engage in business without being crushed either by concentrated wealth or by the ruthless hand of government.

"I say to you frankly, if there is no room left in American life for the individual citizen to operate in a free and independent manner, with equal and fair opportunities, then there is but little public service which I can render."

Attacks Agricultural Policy.

Congressman McGugin declared the agricultural adjustment act was passed as an emergency measure to meet a temporary price maladjustment.

"However," he declared, "in the administration of the act we find that it is being administered in a manner which leads to the permanent government control of the land of this country. This means that the farmer must first obtain permission from Washington before he can decide what crops he can plant or how much food he can produce.

"I regard this as a nationalization of American agriculture. If this becomes permanent we may operate under a different name, but it will not be far different from the program which is now being practiced in Russian agriculture. The Russian soviet tells the Russian farmer how much he can produce and how much he can keep for his own."

Says Ickes Diverts Purposes.

Discussing the allotment of funds from the 3 billion 300 million dollar public works appropriation, Representative McGugin asserted emphatically that the purpose of congress was that it all should be used to relieve unemployment. Instead of carrying out this intent, the Kansan said, Secretary Ickes has used the money to carry out "some of his long possessed cherished ideas of governmental ownership of various public utilities."

"One does not need to be a defender of all the sins of the power industry in order to be opposed to the use of government funds to build power projects to be operated by the government," he continued. "There is a way to handle Insull and the other sinners of the power industry without the government using public funds and public credit to nationalize and socialize the power industry.

"The proper function of government is to stamp out corruption and to punish the criminal in any activity. It is not necessary for government to step in and destroy private business and private activity in order to stamp out the criminal conduct on the part of some one engaged in private business, it punishes ten innocent bystanders for every one whose conduct has been such that he deserves punishment."

Going into the extraordinary powers granted the Tenessee Valley authority under a corporate charter given it, powers discussed in a special dispatch published in THE TRIBUNE last Sunday, Congressman McGugin commented:

"In short, through this subsidiary corporation, the Tennessee Valley authority can engage in any and all lines of business, manufacturing, retailing, wholesaling, farming, lending money, and speculating in stocks and bonds. In brief, the business of no citizen of the country is safe from being destroyed by the vicious competition of a corporation financed with government money which was appropriated by congress for public relief in the name of social and economic emergency."

Finally, in an extraordinary windup of his speech, the young Kansan asserted dramatically that there can be no half way ground in the struggle between government and individualistic domination of the nation's economic life.

People Should Decide.

"The business of this country is either all going to be privately owned and operated or all nationally owned and operated," he emphasized. "In the middle of the last century, this country could not survive half slave and half free. Today it is not going to be able to survive half nationalisticly owned and operated and half privately owned and operated.

"If the people want to turn to a nationalized industry that is their privilege and right. When they turn to it, they are turning to a plan which is communism in Russia and nationalisation in America. About all that there is to communism is that the government owns and operates everything, therefore, every one must work for the government.

"When the people turn to this plan it should be after a free and open election where that is the issue and the people by a majority vote have declared that they choose to quit the traditional American plan and to take on this new plan which is modeled after modern European plans.

"The people should not be insidiously forced into this nationalistic program by the use of money which has been appropriated to take care of emergency unemployment, but has been diverted for the primary purpose of nationalising industry.

Not in Roosevelt Platform.

"There has been no election when the issue before the people has been whether or not they wanted to take on a plan of the government's owning and operating industries. In the election which elected the present administration, the public chose this administration on a platform which specifically pledged taking government out of private business, yet, through a wholly unexpected perversion of public works funds and money appropriated for the Tennessee Valley authority, we find in one instance after another, that the government is rushing head long into business at the expense of the people in competition with private industry.

"In doing so, it is practicing the worst kind of unfair competition, destroying private capital and driving thousands of our citizens who are employed by private capital into unemployment."

Legion Commander Visits Chicago

Will Support Wirt

Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, Ill., national commander of the American Legion, declared last night in an address in the city council chamber that "it is not our form of government that needs to be changed, but the attitude of our people toward our form of government." The address was delivered to the Cook county council of the Legion.

"Our Legion," he continued, "believes in and supports the constitutional form of government. It believes that most of our ills arise from a lax or improper enforcement of laws. It believes in a free press and froe speech, but it will remain on guard to see that the liberty of speech and of the press is not abused."

The American commission of the state department of the Legion yesterday forwarded to Dr. William A. Wirt of Gary, who has accused the Washington brain trust of an effort to overthrow the present social order, a letter assuring him of moral support and demanding from congress a full and open hearing on his charges.

LONG CURSED BY RACING MAN, AND HUEY TAKES IT

Clash Comes at Gambling Hearing.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 4.—[Special.]—The acknowledged master of abusive profanity in Washington, Huey P. Long, the kingfish senator from Louisiana, met with his match today at a senate committee hearing. He heard some very nasty epithets applied to him by Col. John P. Sullivan of New Orleans, and the usually voluble Huey didn't talk back.

The occasion was a hearing on the confirmation of D. D. Moore as internal revenue collector in Louisiana. Moore was nominated for the job by President Roosevelt and Long opposed the nomination, declaring that Col. Sullivan and Edward R. Bradley, Kentucky turfman, dominate Moore.

Loses Advantage Quickly.

The raucous Louisiana senator was having things all his own way at the opening of the hearing. He faced Sullivan and Bradley and shook his finger at them.

"These two men," he shouted, "own their own betting kitty in which they bet and have their system of adding, multiplying and subtracting the bets at the expense of the suckers of the United States."

Col. Sullivan, a tall, heavy set man with the ruddy complexion of the sportsman, rose slowly to his feet. He stared at Long until the latter subsided.

"You know you can't prove that," he said slowly and deliberately to Long. Then he added, even more slowly, "You rotten —— —— ——." The phrase was one of those usually referred to, especially in the south, as "fightin' words."

Interference Not Needed.

Attorney Edward Righter, representing Moore, grabbed Sullivan's arm as the latter moved forward threateningly. But there was no need for interference. Long's round face paled and his mouth opened, but he uttered no word.

"All right," he muttered somewhat feebly after a moment. "Let him say it. Let it go into the record."

After that incident the hearing lost most of its interest for Long. He was a subdued figure. There was a hurt look in his eyes.

Questioned by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Mississippi], chairman of the committee investigating Long's charges against Moore, Col. Bradley said he did not know Moore and knew nothing about his appointment.

"Sullivan and I own stock in the Louisiana Jocky club," he testified. "We have no other connection."

A question by Long concerning Bradley's gambling operations was ruled improper by the committee. Long has charged on the floor of the senate that Bradley and Sullivan were associated in gambling operations and that Sullivan placed several employes in the internal revenue bureau at New Orleans who still worked for Sullivan part of the time.

Bradley said his own gambling consisted of betting on horses. When Long attempted to press him about gambling in all sections of the country, Senator Bennett C. Clark [Dem., Mo.] objected.

"It's bad enough for the senate to wash Louisiana's dirty linen," he commented, "without investigating racing activities all over the country."

Bradley said he had owned about 50 per cent of the stock of the New Orleans track, but had sold out recently. He said Sullivan owned 33 1-3 per cent of the track. He said he did not know how much Sullivan drew from the track.

"You can ask me all the questions about that when it's my turn to testify," interrupted Sullivan. He will take the stand tomorrow.

The meeting broke up soon after Sullivan had cursed the Louisiana senator. The latter hurried from the hearing room, carefully avoiding Sullivan, who, chewing a big cigar, scowled after him.

COURTNEY TO ADD TWO CHARGES TO INSULL WARANT

Following receipt of a telegram from Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general, State's Attorney Courtney yesterday put three assistants to work on extradition papers for Samuel Insull, so that the fugitive may be tried on state as well as federal charges when he returns to Chicago.

Mr. Keenan acquainted the state's attorney with the status of the Insull extradition matter and advised him to make direct application to the state department with respect to any charges he wished added to the Presidential warant for Insull's return.

In the state court Insull, together with his brother, Martin, is charged with larceny and embezzlement. The federal charges are using the mails to defraud and bankruptcy fraud. Mr. Keenan informed the prosecutor that the state department was now preparing a warant specifying the two federal charges.

Rob South Side Theater; Peril Girl in Ticket Box

While two companions waited for him in a car, a bandit stepped up to the box office of the Piccadilly theater, 1443 Hyde Park boulevard, last night and forced a ticket girl, Miss Alice Gallagher, 23 years old, 7542 Stuart avenue, to turn over $100. A few moments before their arrival about $1,000 had been placed in a safe on the floor of the office.

THREE BALTIC NATIONS EXTEND PEACE PACTS WITH RUSSIA 10 YEARS

MOSCOW, April 4.—(AP)—Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, through their respective ministers here, today signed protocols prolonging for ten years their present nonaggression pacts with soviet Russia. The treaties now are effective until the end of 1945.

In prolonging the treaty with Lithuania, Russia reaffirmed its recognition of Lithuania's claims to Vilna—a circumstance foreign observers here considered interesting in view of the fact that Poland has not yet acted on soviet Russia's invitation, understood to have been tendered some time ago, to prolong their nonaggression treaty for a similar period.

2 CHICAGOANS SENTENCED FOR BANK ROBBERY

Mauston, Wis., April 5 [Thursday].—(AP)—Mike Destefano and John Monaco, both of Chicago, were convicted by a Circuit court jury of participating in the holdup of the New Lisbon State bank July 10, 1933, and were sentenced early today by Judge C. M. Davison to terms of 14 to 40 years in the state prison.

The jury of five women and seven men deliberated three hours. Judge Davison received the guilty verdict and immediately imposed sentence.

Monaco took the sentence calmly, but Destefano, whose legs were paralyzed by gunshot wounds inflicted by police of Pittsburgh, Pa., where he was captured, struggled futilely with Sheriff Morgan Rider and deputies when they approached him.

Lyle Wright, former "boy" sheriff of Juneau county, was convicted several months ago of having had a part in the $5,000 robbery, and he and other associates now are serving sentences in the state prison.

The state based its case against Stefano and Monaco on identification of Destefano by three bank employes.

Give Up $975 to Robbers Who Force Auto to Curb

Four armed men, riding in an automobile, early today forced the car of William Shurman, 933 Margate terrace, to the curb at Berwyn and Kimball avenues. They then forced Shurman, a wholesale meat distributor, and his son George to surrender $975, which they had collected yesterday.

GET THAT COLD OUT— ROOTS AND ALL!

Give it No Chance to Sprout Anew!

A half-cured cold is a cold never cured! And once a cold gains foothold in your system it can make serious trouble for you. Many remedies merely suppress a cold only to have it pop out again. A cold, being an internal infection, requires internal treatment. And it requires a remedy that is distinctly a cold remedy and not good for half a dozen other things too.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold calls for. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is internal and direct. It is complete in effect. It does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly. It combats the cold germs in the system and reduces the fever. It relieves the headache and grippy feeling. It tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is absolutely safe to take. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world. the formula always keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Every druggist sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Good druggists will not try to talk you into a substitute for the sake of a little more profit.

When a cold threatens, don't wait or delay, but go right to your druggist for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Always ask for it by the full name and look for the letters L B Q stamped on every tablet.

FRANCE DECREES 'COMMON SENSE' RECOVERY PLAN

Premier to Clean Up State, Let Industry Alone.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 4.—Gaston Doumergue, France's septuagenarian premier, today laid before the country his "common sense recovery plan."

The program, which was officially approved by a special council of ministers at Elysée palace this afternoon, is comparable in scope with Russia's five year plan and America's NRA. It reflects, however, the typical distrust of experiments by the French peasant. It is marked by the same simplicity and absence of ballyhoo which has characterized all of "Gastounet's" actions since the dramatic February morning when he arrived in the civil war littered capital.

This French program is based on the theory that if the government puts its own house in order and minds its own business, industry will recover by itself.

Called Revolutionary Plan.

It all boils down to a question of restoring confidence, but the methods laid down for achieving this purpose are nothing short of revolutionary for France. The keystone in Doumergue's edifice of recovery is the leveling of government expenditures down to income, which means eliminating immediately the budget deficit of some $270,000,000. This is to be achieved by the following methods:

1. Discharge of 60,000 members of the vast army of French burocrats.
2. Reduction of civil and military pensions by from 15 to 25 per cent.
3. Important economies on supplies in all government services.
4. Suppression of double jobs and pensions.
5. Reduction in all civil servants' salaries ranging from 5 per cent for the low salary classes up to 15 per cent for ministers and 20 per cent for the president of the republic.
6. Elimination of subsidies and of boards and commissions to regulate private industry.
7. Demand of "voluntary" sacrifices on pensions of war veterans.

6 Measures in Effect Now.

The first six measures are effective immediately through the application of fourteen decrees enacted under the extraordinary powers voted Doumergue before the chamber of deputies went on its Easter vacation. The ticklish problem of cutting down veterans' pensions is left to future decrees.

That is the deflation part of the program. In addition the government is planning the following constructive measures to stimulate economic life.

1. Simplification and reduction of taxes.
2. Extensive public works to be financed by lending funds from reserves of the state-supported social insurance organism—money now frozen in the treasury.
3. Reorganization of railroads by closing all lines which do not pay and replacing them by buses.

Called Emergency Program.

In drawing up these measures Doumergue asserted it is an emergency program which must be enacted to avoid state bankruptcy and avert a threatened Fascist or leftist revolution.

In a letter to President Lebrun Doumergue emphasized the gravity of the crisis.

"If parliament, in accordance with the wishes of the country, had not accorded the government exceptional powers, or if the government had hesitated to use them, the state in a short time would have had to close its windows, suspend all payments and dishonor its obligations," the letter says.

"Either that or else we would have had inflation, and inflation does not solve any problems. It simply leads to bankruptcy and thus to all sorts of social troubles and political upheavals. At this moment order in France and even peace in Europe depends on the soundness of our financial situation.

"If confidence is lacking, it is because the French government in the past has not always respected the principles which govern the personal budgets of every citizen. Our present difficulties are due to the fact that for several years we have been unable to adjust our income to our expenditures."

In a parallel statement to the press Finance Minister Louis Germain Martin warned the country that continued government extravagance would inevitably lead the country to socialism through confiscatory taxation.

"Some people think that the deficit can be filled by manipulating currency," he said. "This amounts to saying that unbalanced augmentation of state expenses authorizes the government to ransom private fortunes to obtain financial resources."

Sees End of Hoards.

Germain Martin concluded with the opinion that by a program of rigid economy combined with lower taxes confidence would be restored and that 40 billion hoarded francs would return of their own accord to circulation, stimulating buying power.

The principal obstacle in the path of the Doumergue program is the opposition of civil servants, some of whom are openly threatening mutiny. Communist unions of civil servants already have called a revolutionary strike for May 1 and appealed to all workers to join with them. The powerful syndicate of postal employés met today to decide what action to take.

WOMAN AND FIVE GUNMEN HOLD UP HOTEL; GET $1,250

While three squads of policemen were searching the neighborhood for them a robber gang of five men and a woman entered the Chelsea hotel, 920 Wilson avenue, last evening and took $1,250 in pay roll money. Several members of the gang took positions at strategic points in the lobby, while others took the money from the hotel cashier, Miss Mary Buxton, and then locked her and half dozen other employés in a side room so they could make a leisurely getaway.

A few minutes before the holdup police received information that a car containing five men and a woman and a number of guns was at Wilson avenue and Broadway. Three squads were immediately dispatched to look for them, but while the search progressed the gang drove a short way east of the intersection and executed the holdup.

TERRIERS CAUSE A. M. ARREST OF MRS. VANDERBILT

Girl Neighbor Claims She Was Bitten.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Logan Vanderbilt, former wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., was placed under arrest at her St. Davids home today and forced to appear before a justice of the peace despite protests that she had not yet had her breakfast.

She is charged with maintaining a public nuisance in the form of two Scottish terriers.

Thomas Shaughnessy, constable, served a warrant on Mrs. Vanderbilt and escorted her forthwith to the office of Justice William Buckland.

Miss Louise Norton Wright, 13, neighbor of Mrs. Vanderbilt, made the charge after, she said, one of the Scotties bit her leg last Saturday. She insisted her stockings ought at least to be paid for.

And, added Edwin Wright, Miss Wright's father, she ought to get an apology as well.

Doesn't Think Dogs are Vicious.

"I don't think the dogs are vicious," said Mrs. Vanderbilt, "and I think all this publicity is silly.

"I never saw the dogs biting anybody and I never heard of their biting anybody. I've had Scotties for 20 years."

The Wrights expressed surprise and pain earlier in the day, when informed of Mrs. Vanderbilt's apparent unsympathetic attitude. "She's not going to thumb her nose at me," said Mr. Wright.

Mrs. Vanderbilt had flatly refused to pay or apologize. "I see no reason why I should," she said.

Buckland then issued a warrant, but Mrs. Vanderbilt failed to put in an appearance. She promised, however, to appear at today's hearing voluntarily, and did.

The arrest therefore came as a surprise.

Former Wife of Chicagoan.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was the former Mrs. Waldo Hancock Logan of Chicago. She obtained a divorce from Logan at Reno, and ten minutes after the decree was handed her she was married to Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Two and a half years ago she returned to Reno and secured her second divorce. Only two months before that her husband had staged a spectacular scene with Peter Arno, comic artist, on the ground that Arno was "paying attention" to Mrs. Vanderbilt.

It was reported that Vanderbilt chased the artist down the street brandishing an empty revolver.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's complaint in securing her divorce was cruelty. Vanderbilt, it was understood, agreed to a settlement which included $500 a month alimony.

TWO DIE IN MINE ACCULENT.

Wheeling, W. Va., April 4.—(AP)—Two men were killed and a third seriously injured today in a mine accident at the Powhatan Mining company at Powhatan Point, O., 15 miles southwest of Wheeling.

SON OF WEALTHY BROKER IS HELD IN AUTO DEATH

A coroner's jury yesterday ordered Alfred Codman, 31 years old, 2757 Pine Grove avenue, Harvard graduate and the son of a wealthy New York and Boston stockbroker, held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter for causing the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Freytag, 33 years old, 3145 Cambridge avenue, whom he fatally injured with his car on Feb. 3.

Mrs. Freytag was killed and her husband, Arthur, seriously injured when Codman run them down at Sheridan road and Briar place as they stepped to the street from a motor coach. After the accident Codman sped on but was curbed a block away by another motorist. He then leaped from his machine and ran to his room in the Commonwealth hotel, where he locked himself in. Police opened the door with a pass key and seized him.

Police said Codman had been drinking and that there was a bottle of whisky in his car. Testifying in his own behalf at the inquest, held at the Lincoln Park police station, Codman said he lost control of his automobile when another car swerved too close to him and forced him to veer sharply away.

STEAL LOADED TRUCK IN LOOP.

Walter Conley, a truck driver for H. J. Heinz & Co., 342 North Western avenue, was robbed of his truck and merchandise valued at $500 yesterday by a man who drove away in the machine as the driver made a delivery at 66 West Washington street.

DOUG AND MARY MAY CHOOSE TO MEET IN ENGLAND

Fairbanks Back from Italy and Spain.

LONDON, April 4.—(AP)—Douglas Fairbanks Sr., returning here today from a trip to Italy and Spain, was believed to be nearer complete reconciliation with his wife, Mary Pickford.

There were reports that point remains to be settled only whether England, instead of the United States as first anticipated, would be selected as the scene for the actual reunion.

"Ask me about my work if you like, but don't ask me about my private life," said Doug as he bounded from a plane at Croyden airdrome after a flight from Barcelona. He was greeted by a crowd of friends and curious persons.

Bicycle Trip Together.

Despite his refusal to discuss the expected reconciliation, it was learned he talked with Miss Pickford over the trans-Atlantic telephone several times while he was in Barcelona. When the Associated Press learned early in March of the plans for the reconciliation, it was expected then that the arrangements would not be made public for a few months until the elder Fairbanks returns to the United States for premieres of his latest pictures.

Now there seems to be a possibility that Miss Pickford may come to England, and after the reconciliation, the two famous movie stars may take a bicycle trip through the English countryside. Miss Pickford always has wanted to make such a trip.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. is at present in Mallorca, visiting the British actress, Gertrude Lawrence, with whom he has discussed marriage, and with whom he will appear in a play soon.

Estranged Long Time.

The elder Fairbanks and Miss Pickford have been estranged for a considerable period. Miss Pickford filed suit for divorce Dec. 8, 1933, charging Fairbanks with mental cruelty, indifference and neglect.

In February this year Lord Ashley named Doug corespondent in his divorce suit against his wife. It was then claimed that Fairbanks and Lady Ashley had been seen together, but Doug said he was completely surprised by the action.

On March 12 Doug was reported to have talked over the trans-Atlantic telephone with Miss Pickford relative to a reconciliation, and it was stated authoritatively then that "It is just a matter of time now."

SUSPECT IN JAIL PLOT GETS 99 YRS. AS A MURDERER

Alec Cisa, under indictment for participation in the [illegible] was sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Francis S. Allegretti in the criminal court. Cisa was found guilty by a jury last week of the murder of Michael Walsh, a gambler, shot to death in his home at 4626 Hoyne avenue, New Year's day.

Cisa testified he [illegible] a shot was fired at [illegible] to the Walsh home to get [illegible] Walsh had stolen from Mrs. Cisa. The money, Cisa said, had been intended to [illegible] and another [illegible].

Neither Breen, who Cisa said fired the fatal shot, nor the other man has been apprehended. The state, basing its case on testimony of Walsh's wife, held that Cisa strode into the home and shot Walsh to death. Judge Allegretti overruled a motion for a new trial before sentencing Cisa.

16 ARE FEARED DEAD IN FLOODS OF OKLAHOMA

Recover Body of Girl, 10; Fifteen Missing.

Elk City, Okla., April 4.—(AP)—A death toll of sixteen was charged to the roaring flood waters of the Washita river by rescue workers tonight.

One body, that of ten year old Stella Mae Fenter, was recovered. Fifteen others were missing and were believed to have no chance for survival in the swirling torrent that struck before dawn.

The missing:

Mrs. A. M. Adams and five daughters.

Mrs. Lawrence Taylor and one child.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bush and one child.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fenter, parents of Stella Mae, and two other children.

Chief White Shield of the Red Moon reservation said all the Indians on the reservation had been accounted for.

Rescue Workers Meet Mishaps.

Several rescue workers met mishaps. A youth named Taylor of Lone Wolf, whose motor boat collapsed, found refuge in a treetop just above the eddying waters. Watchers on the bank could hear his shouts, but were helpless to aid him. Calvin Paxton, a state game ranger from Mangum, hurried to Lake Altus for a boat to attempt a rescue at dawn if Taylor could hold on that long.

Two other rescue workers, "Rusty" Teller and Harry Kemp of Custer City, were missing after leaving on a rescue expedition in a motor boat.

The damage was estimated at more than $500,000 by C. P. Smith, Clinton district engineer, assigned to relief headquarters by Carl Giles, state chief of the federal emergency relief administration.

Smith was given $3,500 FERA funds for relief purposes.

Rescued from Roof Tops.

About 20 persons were rescued from roof tops after the usually placid Washita roared out of its banks before dawn and spread to a width of two miles along a seven mile front.

Dozens of farmhouses were swept away, few of the occupants being aware of the deluge until they found themselves being carried along in the murky torrent.

Airplanes, motor boats, ambulances and doctors were rushed to the flood area. The Red Cross, the Federal Emergency Relief Administration and the National Guard also lent aid.

Willy Beene, his wife and three children rode a mile down the Washita river flood waters today without knowing it. The 31 year old farmer told about it after he had rescued his family from the torrent. Mrs. Beene, Mary, 5; Jane, 2; and a 5 day old baby were in the house.

"We were all asleep when the flood came," Beene said, "but I woke up when the house tipped heavily to one side. Right away I knew the foundation had been washed out.

"I put the bed up on chairs to keep it out of the water and put all the children on the bed."

Later the Beenes were rescued.

Wisconsin Floods Recede.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 4.—[Special.]—Receding waters in Wisconsin's rivers and creeks, swollen with spring rains and winter snow, today left the death toll from floods at nine. Property damage was roughly estimated in the millions, chiefly from wrecked dams and buildings.

The worst of the flood today was in the St. Croix territory near Hudson. The middle dam of the Willow River Power company, east of Hudson, gave way during the night, sending a great wall of water down stream, tearing down small buildings and uprooting trees. The floating debris wrecked the bridge on Highway 35 between Hudson and East Hudson.

CONDITION OF WOODIN BETTER, DOCTORS SAY; RESTING COMFORTABLY

New York, April 4.—[Special.]—The condition of William H. Woodin, the former secretary of the treasury, was reported at the Manhattan Eye, Ear, and Throat hospital today to be improved.

He is suffering from a recurrence of the throat ailment which forced him to retire from the cabinet.

Dr. Robert E. Buckley and Dr. Jerome Wagner, who have been attending him night and day, issued the following bulletin at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon: "the throat hemorrhage which necessitated Mr. Woodin's removal to the hospital has been arrested and he is now resting comfortably."

OFFER REPLICA OF LINCOLN LOG CABIN TO PARK

The Lincoln log cabin, a half size replica of the original home of the martyred President which was exhibited last year at the World's Fair, has been offered as a gift to the commissioners of Lincoln park. The tender was made yesterday by the Lincoln Historical society, to whom it was presented by the Lincoln Life Insurance company.

Alfred D. Plamondon, president of the park commissioners, said that he and Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke and L. H. Harrison would inspect the cabin today and make a recommendation on the offer to the full board Monday. He indicated he favored acceptance of the building.

SURVEY FINDS FAIR POPULAR IN EVERY STATE

55% of Out of Town Visitors Returning.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Fifty-five per cent of the out of town visitors to A Century of Progress Exposition in 1933 will return to Chicago to see the 1934 edition, according to the results of a nation-wide survey made public yesterday by the Association of Commerce. In addition those out of town visitors who are making a return visit to the Fair have signified their intention of remaining longer in Chicago and of making more visits to the Exposition, according to the survey.

Survey in Every State.

Working in cooperation with the official magazine "Commerce" the association questioned 1,100 persons in every state in the union. Out of every hundred questioned 55 were planning on vacations in Chicago, 22 were undecided, and 23 were definitly not coming for the 1934 Fair.

A similar survey among families which did not visit the 1933 Exposition showed 45 per cent planning on a visit this year, 36 per cent undecided, and 19 per cent with vacation plans already made for other trips.

Arrangements were completed yesterday for a patent exhibit in the General Exhibits building, one of the many new features to be presented in the 1934 Fair. The exhibition, presented by Patent Exhibits, Inc., of Illinois, will feature the history of many everyday devices, show trade-mark derivation, and patents of a productive, freakish, and odd nature.

New Patents to Be Shown.

Officials of the exhibit have in the main given the majority of space to new patents, some five hundred being shown. Among them is a device for dating an egg the second it is laid, an electrical device to test the ripeness of fruit, a garlic sauce with no after odor, a self-cleaning rake, cooking dishes with windows, and similar commercial devices. The patent exhibit of last year, that in the Federal building, was restricted in its commercial applications.

The Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company, the first large public utility to take part in the Exposition, signed a contract yesterday. The company signed for 3,625 square feet of space in the Home Planning hall, and will devote the greater part of the exhibit to the domestic use of gas, showing furnaces, refrigerators, and other domestic devices.

JAILED AS TIPSY DRIVER.

Martin Quinn, 42 years old, of Woodstock, was fined $10 and sentenced to 10 days in the bridewell yesterday by Judge Edward S. Scheffler on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

HORNER REGISTERS IN SPRINGFIELD BUT TO VOTE IN CHICAGO

Springfield, Ill., April 4.—(AP)—Gov. Horner will continue to vote in Chicago despite the fact that he had registered to vote in Springfield.

Under the impression that his registration in Chicago was no longer valid, the governor recently registered in Springfield so as to be certain that he would be able to cast a ballot in the Democratic primary April 10.

It was then discovered that his Chicago registration was still good, so he has asked the Springfield election commissioners to strike his name from the rolls here.

AIRPORT NEEDED ON LAKEFRONT, A. OF C. IS TOLD

Chicago as air capital of the United States has a great need for the proposed lake front airport, Lester B. Seymour, president of American Airways, Inc., yesterday informed 200 members of the Association of Commerce at luncheon in the Palmer House. The trafic at Chicago airport, 63d street and Cicero avenue, has outgrown the limits of the field, he said.

"Chicago's airport is the busiest in the world," said Mr. Seymour. "In eight years since air transport and mail carrying came to this city we have increased our business so rapidly that the facilities offered by the field are insufficient to carry the load.

"I want to urge the support of the association in the movement to build the fland port in the lake off Grant park. Our experience has shown that such a port would be ideal for passenger terminal facilities, leaving Chicago airport where the private air lines have already put $2,000,000 into shops and hangars, for our overhaul and repair bases."

Ties String to Trigger of Gun and Kills Self

With a string rigged to the trigger of a shotgun, Gus Strader, 52 years old, an unemployed bartender, discharged the weapon and killed himself yesterday in his room at 5452 Broadway.

ENTERS GUILTY PLEA AND ROCKS HANDBILL TRIAL

Takes Stand Immediately —Tells of Cheating.

CRIMINAL COURTS.

John Arnold, attempted robbery, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary; John Donisty, attempted robbery, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Robert E. Simms, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Albert Ciha, murder, sentenced to 99 years in the penitentiary by Judge Francis Allegretti.

James Fairchild and Jesse Johnson, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Graves C. Niemeyer.

William J. Johnson, co-defendant with Horace J. Claremont, owner of the Claremont Hand Bill Distributing company, on a charge of conspiracy to cheat three department stores out of $30,000, suddenly entered a plea of guilty to the charge yesterday afternoon before Judge Thomas J. Lynch. He immediately took the witness stand as a prosecution witness and testified against his employer.

Johnson admitted it was the practice of the Claremont company to distribute only 65 per cent of the handbills of the various clients of the company and to sell the other 35 per cent for old paper. This practice he said was also true of the handbills distributed for the Wieboldt Department stores, the L. Klein department store and Sears Roebuck and company, the complaining witness in the present indictment.

Defense Attorney Samuel Hoffman attempted to stop the trial because of Johnson's sudden change of attitude. He contended it would prejudice the cause of Claremont. Judge Lynch overruled his motion. The state is expected to conclude its side of the case today, but no disposition will be made of Johnson's case until the one against Claremont is disposed of.

STUDENT AND FRIEND FREED OF CHARGE OF ABDUCTING GIRL, 17

St. Joseph, Mich., April 4.—[Special.]—Abduction charges against Vincent Denardo, 18 year old Notre Dame university freshman, and Anthony Gancer were dismissed here today. They were accused of luring 17 year old Ruth Strunk, high school girl, from her home in Buchanan, Mich., to Chicago. A conference between the girl's father, Frank Strunk, and prosecutors led to dropping the case.

TWO POLITICIANS HELD ON BALLOT FRAUD CHARGES

Two Democratic political workers in the 34th ward were held to the grand jury yesterday by Judge Win G. Knoch of Du Page county, sitting in the Cook County court, on charges of aiding and abetting election officials in making false returns. The two are Joseph Brownstein, precinct captain in the 41st precinct of the ward, and Maurie Grufman, assistant precinct captain.

Mrs. Angela Devere, 1517 South Turner avenue, a polls watcher in the election of Nov. 8, 1932, testified that after the polls closed Brownstein and Grufman drew up a tally of returns the way they wanted the votes counted. That tally, she said, was the official one turned in by the election officials.

Three election officials have already been tried in connection with the affair and found guilty.

HUNT SHOE FACTORY ROBBERS.

Warren avenue police were searching yesterday for thieves who entered the factory of the Custom Built Shoe company, 2808 Fifth avenue, Tuesday night and took 30 pairs of men's shoes valued at $180.

SQUIRES CALM UNDER STATE'S HOT CROSSFIRE

Completes His Testimony in Racket Trial.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, University of Chicago economist, was subjected to an all-day cross-examination yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Dodd Healy. Dr. Squires is one of a group of 18 defendants on trial before a jury in Judge Philip J. Finnegan's Criminal court on charges of racketeering in four service industries.

Prosecutor Healy tried in vain to ruffle the calm of the slow speaking professor. He used every cross-examination artifice in an effort to shake the story told by Dr. Squires on direct examination to the effect that he is the victim of a conspiracy rather than a participant.

Uses Grand Jury Testimony.

Transcripts of both federal and state grand jury proceedings were used by the prosecutor in his effort to show that Dr. Squires was an associate of Al Capone, Murray Humphreys and others in a conspiracy to make a racket out of the cleaning and dyeing industry.

Prosecutor Healy frequently shouted at the witness until finally warned by Judge Finnegan "not to talk so loud and to ask fair questions."

Several times Dr. Squires' face reddened as the prosecutor tried to connect him with gangsters, but to the end of the strenuous day he managed to keep his temper and to speak only after careful consideration of his answer. On many occasions the witness expressed a desire to answer questions of the prosecutor, even though objections by Defense Attorneys Floyd Thompson and Benedict J. Short had been sustained by Judge Finnegan.

Quizzed on Gangsters.

Mr. Healy—with Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber at his elbow whispering suggestions—delved into the alleged efforts of Capone and Humphreys to dominate the cleaning and dyeing industry. This was in 1931 while Dr. Squires was director of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute, which he established "to stabilize the industry."

At one point in the cross-examination Dr. Squires admitted that he had inadvertently told the racket trial jury a story about a $500 check which differed from the testimony he had given about the check before the federal grand jury. He appeared before the federal jury during an investigation of Humphreys' income tax. Humphreys was indicted for tax evasion. He is a fugitive on that charge and also in the racket case.

Dr. Squires also admitted to Prosecutor Healy that there were differences between the wording of part of his testimony before the federal grand jury and the racket trial jury, but he insisted that the meaning was the same. The prosecutor, however, made much of these discrepancies.

Judge Stops Questions.

On one occasion he asked Dr. Squires if it were not true that while under oath he had given false testimony to the grand jury. Judge Finnegan stopped this line of examination by sustaining defense objections. The questioning proceeded as follows:

Q.—Why did you make checks out to Attorney Morris I. Kaplan [a defendant who, according to the state, had gangster connections]? A.—They may have been for legal services. He was serving as his counsel.

Q.—As a matter of fact, they were to finance a union strike against the Michigan Cleaners and Dyers, isn't that correct? [This plant had a strike soon after Dr. Squires took command of the industry.] A.—Some of them were for that purpose. I have already testified I paid $3,000 for that purpose.

Defense Objection Sustained.

Q.—Tell this jury then why you made out the checks to Kaplan and not to the union officials. [An objection was sustained.]

Q.—They were made out to Kaplan to pay to Humphreys, isn't that right? A.—Absolutely not.

Q.—Didn't you know that Kaplan had connections with Humphreys? A.—No. Later Mr. Hostetter [Gordon Hostetter] of the Employers' association told me of reports that Humphreys was seen at Kaplan's office.

Dr. Squires said he had asked Kaplan about this charge and that the attorney told him Humphreys was in his office only once. Dr. Squires said he did not ask the reason for the one visit.

Q.—Weren't you interested?

This question brought a flood of objections from the battery of defense attorneys and the objections were sustained.

War With Gang Recalled.

Q.—Didn't you tell us that you were in a war at that time with the gangsters? A.—I was helping in such a war.

Q.—And Kaplan was helping you? A.—I think he was.

Q.—And still you didn't ask him why Humphreys was in his office? [An objection was sustained.]

Prosecutor Healy then went back to the money paid out by Dr. Squires to finance the strike against the Michigan Cleaners. He asked if the money had not been carried on the books of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute as payment for legal services. Dr. Squires said he learned of this fact in 1933.

Q.—And so that was the first time you knew what was in your books? [Objection sustained.]

Q.—Were you afraid to have it appear in your books that you were financing a strike for the union against an employer? A.—I didn't deny it when it was asked of me.

He Refers to Humphreys.

Dr. Squires said he at first objected to financing the strike from the institute's funds, but later paid out the money when he discovered that Humphreys was on the side of the employer. He was asked if he had made a public statement to that effect or if he had kept it secret. An objection was sustained.

"I should like to answer that, your honor," interjected Dr. Squires, but Judge Finnegan said he had already ruled.

Prosecutor Healy wound up his examination by questioning Dr. Squires about Capone's direct proposals that he take over the cleaning industry for 5 per cent of the gross sales.

At this point Mr. Healy referred to the transcript of Dr. Squires' testimony before the federal grand jury to show that he told the jury there was some talk of means of "keeping people in line."

Q.—What means did you refer to in that statement? A.—The means I have already described, peaceful persuasion.

Q.—Did you mean forceful means? A.—Not by me.

Q.—Did you tell the grand jury that a majority of the industry would have favored killing off the Capone syndicate? A.—I think so.

Q.—Did any of the defendants in this case urge you to accept the Capone proposal? A.—No.

Q.—Was a proposal made to turn the money over to labor and allow it to buy Capone off? A.—Yes, that suggestion was made.

Q.—How long after that proposal was made did you put Gorman (James P. Gorman, a defendant, who is president of the Retail Cleaners and Dyers' union and was labor commissioner of the Squires institute) on the pay roll? A.—About two and one-half months.

More About Gorman.

Q.—Did it ever occur to you that such action may have indicated an acceptance of the Capone proposal? (Objection sustained.)

Q.—Did you ever make a statement that you turned down a proposal to put Gorman on the pay roll because it looked like an acceptance of the Capone proposal? Answer yes or no. A.—The answer to the question as you put it is no.

Dr. Squires testified that in all he paid Gorman $20,000 and expenses and received oral reports from him as to the expenditures of this money.

He said he had turned down a proposition to enter the carbonated beverage industry because of reports he had received that gangsters were invading that field. He said that Jerry Donovan, a labor official who is also a defendant in the trial, had told him that he [Donovan] had been approached by Humphreys and had turned the gangster down.

This finished Dr. Squires' cross-examination and his third day on the witness stand.

FOLSOM ARGUES SPEEDY O. K. OF U. S. SCHOOL BILL

Measure Would Enable Loan to Chicago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 4.—[Special.]—The urgent necessity for speeding up legislation enabling the Chicago board of education to borrow from the Reconstruction Finance corporation was argued by Richard S. Folsom, Chicago school board attorney, in a series of interviews today with congressmen and government officials.

A bill sponsored by Mayor Kelly of Chicago and introduced by Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.], which would permit the school board to borrow from the government, pledging school property as security, is now being considered by a subcommittee of the house banking and currency committee. Hearings on the bill have been held but a report has not been reached.

Confers with Chairman.

Attorney Folsom conferred with Representative A. S. Prall [Dem., N. Y.], chairman of the subcommittee, and pictured the plight of the school teachers of Chicago as a reason for early action on the Sabath measure. He pointed out that the teachers have more than $35,000,000 in back salaries due them and that many are in destitute circumstances.

The pending bill would enlarge the powers of the RFC to permit it to make loans to school districts and school municipalities to be secured by lands owned by such bodies. Attorney Folsom told Representative Prall that an extremely conservative estimate of the value of school property in Chicago was $30,000,000.

"A loan to the Chicago school board would be made on a sound credit basis," he declared. "We believe we could qualify for a loan of $10,000,000, perhaps more. Such a loan could be made at absolutely no risk to the government and the payment of the back salaries would be a substantial contribution to recovery."

Prall Assures Early Report.

Congressman Prall assured the lawyer that a report on the bill would be drafted in the near future and intimated that it would recommend favorable action by the banking committee and the house.

Attorney Folsom also talked to Representative Sabath and other members of the Illinois delegation who promised their influence would be used to hasten action on the bill. He planned later meetings with Representative John J. Douglas [Dem., Mass.], chairman of the house committee on education, and Representative P. H. Moynihan [Rep., Ill.], member of the committee. This committee is considering general plans for the aid of school systems.

In brief talks with Senators James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] and William H. McAdoo [Dem., Cal.], the lawyer was assured that every effort would be made to speed passage of the measure through the senate after it has been approved by the house.

Tomorrow, Mr. Folsom said he will request interviews with James H. Jones, chairman of the board, and Stanley Reed, general counsel of the RFC. He will explain to them, he said, the sound financial status of loans to the Chicago school board. He pointed out that a survey made by Representative James Simpson Jr. [Rep., Ill.] disclosed that not more than five school districts in the United States could qualify more readily for a loan than the Chicago district.

"Silent Husband" Ordered to Pay Wife $20 a Week

Mrs. Jessie Conway, 1424 Adams street, was granted $20 a week temporary alimony by Judge Walter La Buy yesterday. Through her attorney, Norman Becker, Mrs. Conway had filed a suit for separate maintenance, in which she alleged that her husband, Robert, never spoke to her.

NATION'S WOES WEIGH HEAVILY ON TIRED SENATE

Starts Talking About 330 Millions New Taxes.

thumbs," he yelled. "You're all helping to send the country to hell. Not a voice is lifted here for the poor. Let's adjourn this old congress and go back home where we belong."

He concluded with a remarkable figure of speech.

"You can spur a horse just so long," he said. "But finally the ship of state will sink."

SMALL INCOMES CUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 4.—[Special.]—While wealthy individuals and corporations reaped increased profits during the first year of President Roosevelt's New Deal, small wage earners saw their incomes dwindle, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. indicated today in making public income tax statistics.

Corporations and persons with net incomes of more than $5,000 a year both paid larger income taxes in March of this year than in March, 1933, Secretary Morgenthau revealed. Taxes collected from persons with incomes under $5,000, however, declined.

Treasury officials admitted that the gains in corporate and large individual taxes reflected underlying increases in income. Similarly the decline of taxes from persons in the lower tax brackets showed a loss of income there.

Secretary Morgenthau's figures, which he made public without comment, were considered a severe blow to the New Dealers, who have aimed at redistributing wealth and breaking up large corporate and private incomes. The figures also lent color to charges that the first year under the NRA produced large corporation profits at the expense of consumers.

Another Blow to New Deal.

Another blow to the New Deal revealed by the figures was that the income tax collections had fallen 20 million dollars below the treasury estimates. Secretary Morgenthau had expected income tax payers to pay in 250 million dollars during the month. Actual collections amounted to only 230 million dollars of which 215 millions came from taxes on 1933 incomes and the remainder from back accounts.

The treasury's March income tax collections were the first it has made on 1933 inomes. They showed a heavy gain over the tax collections of March, 1933, but the gain was confined to the payments by corporations and individuals in the higher income tax brackets.

Show Business Gains.

Corporation income taxes jumped 29 million dollars, bouncing up from 63 million dollars in March, 1933, to 92 million dollars in March, 1934. Persons with net incomes over $5,000 paid total taxes of 110 million dollars this March compared with 89 million dollars in March a year ago, a gain of 31 million dollars.

Small taxpayers, those with net incomes under $5,000, however, suffered a decline in incomes which was reflected in a drop in the taxes they paid. Their payments in March this year amounted to only 13 million dollars compared with 15 millions a year ago.

A part of the decline in small taxes and the gain in larger private incomes may be explained by a movement of individuals up from the lower tax brackets to higher income groups, the treasury points out. The figures show that there has been no compensating movement from the nontaxable groups up into the lower tax brackets.

Big Gain Over '32.

"Total collections for the month," Secretary Morgenthau said in making his announcement, "were $230,348,089.83 as compared with $177,242,351.38 for March, 1933. Total collections for March on current returns, that is those for the year 1933, were $214,904,345.73 as compared $166,375,118.17 for March, 1932. Back taxes collected during the month were $15,443,744.10 as compared to $10,867,233.21 for 1932.

"Personal income tax payments on the 1040-A class of return [incomes under $5,000] show a decrease to $12,936,734.76 for the tax year 1933, as compared to $14,974,689.63 for the tax year 1932. Payments on the 1040 returns, however, [$5,000 or greater] increased to $109,766,858.79 from $88,599,253.68 for 1932. Corporation taxes also increased to $92,200,858.79 from $62,801,192.86."

THE TENTATIVE TAX SCHEDULE AS SET BY SENATE

Washington, D. C., April 4.—(AP)—The income and surtax schedule tentatively approved by the senate today provides a flat 4 per cent normal income tax, as compared with the present 4 per cent on the first $4,000 and 8 per cent on the excess, and the following 28 brackets of surtaxes. [The present exemptions and credits in payment of normal tax are applied to the new surtax schedule.]

Surtax incomes			Rate, surtax.

$750,000	to	$1,000,000	58 per cent
$1,000,000 and over			59 per cent

The surtax is applied to the amount of income between the two figures given in the first column.

The present rates are from 1 to 55 per cent and begin at $6,000.

The house rates range from 4 to 59 per cent.

Senator La Follette's substitute, yet to be voted upon, makes the rates 6 to 71 per cent.

HOUSE PERKS UP AND PASSES 3 WEIGHTY BILLS

Administration's Sugar Measure Wins.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 4.—[Special.]—In a sudden burst of legislative speed the house of representatives today suspended its rules and granted quick approval of three important bills dealing with widely divergent subjects. They were:

1. The administration sugar bill—subject of heated controversy for months—which slid through to final approval without even a record vote. It includes sugar as a basic commodity under the AAA, quotas domestic production of sugar beets and cane, and gives Secretary of Agriculture Wallace power to quota imports of Cuban and insular sugar.

2. The so-called Johnson bill, prohibiting foreign nations which are in default on private or national obligations in this country from floating their securities in the American market. The measure is the upshot of a senatorial investigation several years ago into the nature of foreign borrowings in the United States.

3. A resolution ordering a federal power commission inquiry into rates charged for electric energy by private power companies throughout the country.

Provides Power Yardstick.

Results of the investigation are expected to provide a yardstick for determining the rates which the government will charge for power generated at federal plants at Muscle Shoals, Boulder dam, and other prospective government power developments.

Though each of the measures met brief opposition on the floor, all were passed without the formality of a record vote.

At the last minute, however, the house stopped its rapid fire enactment and refused, by a vote of 44 to 43, to approve the payment of some 3 million dollars of government money to Minnesotans whose property was alleged to have been damaged by fires "originating from the operation of railroads by the United States in the state of Minnesota on or about Oct. 12, 1918."

Assail Bill's Provisions.

Republican members of the house attacked a provision of the Johnson bill which permits government corporations to accept securities offered by foreign nations now in default on obligations in this country. The section, said Representatives Louis T. McFadden [Rep., Pa.], was designed to permit the RFC to extend further credit to the Russian government. But Chairman Sam McReynolds [Dem., Tenn.] of the foreign affairs committee, who had charge of the Johnson measure, put aside his objection with this observation:

"If the Lord's prayer were under consideration here, Mr. McFadden would either be against it or be trying to amend it."

LISTS 14 MORE CODE AUTHORITIES WITH OFFICES IN CHICAGO

A list of fourteen more national and regional code authorities, who will deal with complaints and violations of code regulations within the respective industries under the National Recovery administration, was made public yesterday by John E. Cassidy, state director of the NRA. The new list, which follows, brings the total of approved code authorities, who have established offices in Chicago to 28. The new ones are:

Disputes under the NRA codes which cannot be adjudicated locally are sent to Washington for settlement.

ROOSEVELT ON YACHT REMAINS NEAR BAHAMAS

Miami, Fla., April 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt found fishing to his liking off Elbow Key Light in the Bahama waters today and continued anchorage overnight.

Hooks were baited tonight for catches of big game fish, principally the huge marlin.

Vincent Astor, owner of the Nourmahal, sent the following tonight to Marvin H. McIntyre, presidential secretary, at the Miami Biltmore hotel: "Remaining on at present anchorage and in pursuit of elusive marlin to duplicate last night's success."

Full details last night's catch were not available here. Elliott Roosevelt son of the President reported upon his return from the ship last night a catch of three barracuda during the day.

MRS. LONGWORTH REFUSES TO RUN FOR U. S. SENATE

Washington, April 4.—(AP)—Alice Roosevelt Longworth does not see herself in the role of senator any more than she did in the role of representative from Ohio when her husband was.

That was made clear today by her friends following news of a Cincinnati movement to induce her to run for the senate. She herself refused to comment publicly.

Her friends pointed to Mrs. Longworth's firm refusal to follow the "widow precedent" in becoming a candidate for the seat of her husband, the late Nicholas Longworth. They said she had continued to let it be distinctly understood she had no personal political ambitions.

NATIONAL PARK YEAR

"The National Parks are a typically American institution. No other country has set aside for all time, such areas of great natural beauty."
(Signed) HAROLD L. ICKES
Secretary of the Department of the Interior

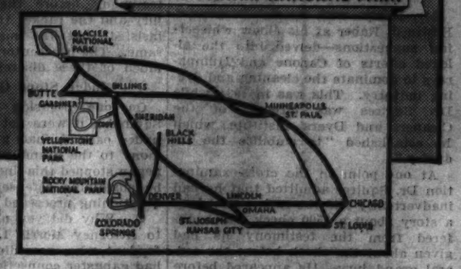
NEVER before have the eyes and thoughts of the American people been so directed upon a National Park vacation. Not for 17 years have rail fares for western vacations been so low as they will be this summer. And this year, the dollar goes much farther at home than abroad.

If you have missed the thrills of the great National Parks of the Rocky Mountains you don't know the grandeur of America. Here is scenery unduplicated anywhere else in the world.

Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado is an upland playground of unmatched charm where just to breathe is to rejuvenate. Tonic sunshine in the cool of snowcapped peaks; flowered meadows; twisting mountain trails; grandeur, recreation, health.

Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming is a wonderland of spouting geysers; pools that boil like witches' cauldrons; colossal Yellowstone Canyon; a waterfall twice as high as Niagara.

Up in Montana lies Glacier National Park where the Rockies reach their scenic climax—a glorious outdoor world of living glaciers, ice blue lakes, mountain peaks tangled in the clouds.



These three National Parks are served by the through trains of the Burlington and associated lines—the ARISTOCRAT from Chicago to Colorado; the EMPIRE BUILDER to Glacier Park; the NORTH COAST LIMITED to the Cody and Gardiner entrances of Yellowstone—all three trains superbly equipped, including air-conditioned observation-lounge cars and dining cars.

All three Parks are linked together by the Burlington north-and-south intermountain main line over which through Pullmans operate daily between Glacier National Park and Yellowstone and between Yellowstone and Colorado (with the Black Hills of South Dakota on the way).

This table of fares (effective June 1) illustrates the advantage of the Park-to-Park service:

	ROUND TRIP
Chicago to Rocky Mountain Nat'l Park	$42.20
Chicago to Yellowstone	46.95
Chicago to Glacier Park	48.20
Glacier, Yellowstone and Colorado combined in one grand circle tour	only 50.35

Come and have a real vacation this summer in the National Parks. THEY ARE YOURS. Mail the coupon for interesting National Parks Booklets.

MEET SUNDAY TO PROTEST ACTS OF GERMAN NAZIS

James W. Gerard, former American ambassador to Germany; former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, and Representative Edward A. Kenney of New Jersey will be among the principal speakers at a midwestern conference under the sponsorship of the Chicago Committee for the Defense of Human Rights Against Nazism, to be held all day Sunday in the Standard club.

More than 1,000 delegates interested in the anti-Nazi movement, drawn from twenty-five central western cities, are expected to attend. The afternoon session will be open to the public.

Salmon O. Levinson, chairman of the Chicago committee, and Dr. Paul Hutchinson, president, yesterday made public a letter from Leon Mandel, stating that Mandel Brothers' department store had discontinued all buying of German merchandise. In the letter Mr. Mandel stated:

"Due to customer resistance to German goods, the firm has discontinued all purchases of German merchandise. During the last six months Mandel Brothers has placed no orders in Germany. In line with Mandel Brothers' policy, every effort has been and is being made to develop successfully and patronize American sources of supply for such merchandise."

The committee also announced that the Associated Millinery Men of Chicago have indorsed the committee program for a boycott of German goods.

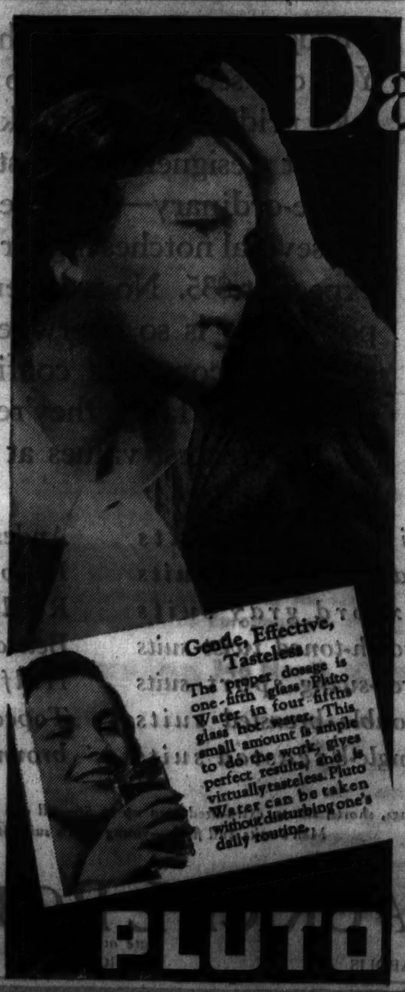
Danger Lurks in the LAXATIVE HABIT
Physicians Warn Against Irritating Drugs


Gentle, Effective, Tasteless
The proper dosage is one-fifth glass Pluto Water in four-fifths glass hot water. This small amount is ample to do the work, gives perfect results, and is virtually tasteless. Pluto Water can be taken without disturbing one's daily routine.
Everyone knows that dull, mean headaches are often due to constipation.
But few people outside the medical profession seem to realize that this condition is frequently made worse by the use of medicine-laxatives.
Why? Because most medicine-laxatives work by irritating the delicate membranes. Soon the intestinal muscles refuse to respond to an ordinary dose . . . compel you to take more and more. Before you know it, the laxative-constipation habit has you in its grip.
Nature's Way—a Flush
(The Water Way)
Nature's way is far more simple. It is merely to flush out the wastes and poisons—without impairing the intestinal muscles in the least.
That's why more than 50,000 physicians recommend Pluto Water. For Pluto is not a drug or medicine laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour—cannot give you the laxative habit!
Pluto Water is gentle—but speedy. That's because the proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water—promptly opens the pylorus valve . . . permits the flush to enter the intestines and complete its work without anxious hours of waiting.
Shake off Asthenia!
If you feel achy, listless, only half alive, that's nature's warning of Asthenia—a condition usually caused by the poisons of constipation. Pluto's famous ten-day treatment ends it promptly—makes you feel like a different person.

SPAIN INVOKES GAG RULE; VOTES PAY TO PRIESTS

Wipes Out One of Major Acts of Republic.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, April 4. — The liberal Spanish republic today discarded one of the major pillars upon which it was built. Marshaled by the nominally moderate Radical party that once was violently anti clerical, the cortes in an uproarious session put 7,500 clergymen back on the payroll of the state for life.

For three hours before passage of the law, which directly violates article 26 of the republican constitution, Premier Alejandro Lerroux's supporters and the shrunken left opposition hurled insults and waved fists at each other. Left filibusters were ready with some 300 amendments, but the gag rule was voted before a single one was proposed.

Turn Against Lerroux.

The climax came just before the vote on the law itself, when Indalecio Prieto, Socialist ex minister, turned on the Radicals who, with his own party and the rest of the left, helped to establish this nonsectarian republic, roaring:

"I can understand Catholics voting for this law, but by supporting it you Radicals are traitors to the republic."

The speaker finally established some sort of order and called for a vote. At that, the entire left bloc, helplessly outnumbered, arose and stalked out of the house. Votes for the law, which were demanded by the Catholics as a condition of Lerroux's remaining in power, totaled 291 against only six for the opposition.

Money for Clergy.

But the aged premier witnessed a split in his own party, as the more uncompromising Republican members, led by former Premier Diego Martinez Barrios, abstained from voting along with the left. Also in opposition were the Conservative Republicans led by Miguel Maura.

The law appropriates 16,000,000 pesetas [about $3,187,200] annually for pensions to the clergy. About 7,500 priests who were removed from the payroll when the church and state were separated will get 2,000 pesetas [about $273 per year each for the rest of their lives].

NAZIS REGIMENT CIRCUS ACTORS AND SONG CLUBS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, April 4. — The German vaudeville and circus world and all singing societies were "coördinated" today under Nazi auspices. The vaudeville and circus performers were coordinated by the formation of the Reich League of German Artistry, to which every worker and employer in those two fields of entertainment must belong.

The singing societies, numbering about 2,500 and with a membership of 800,000 have been coördinated in the German Singers' league and put under the control of the Reich Music chamber, which, in turn, is a part of the Reich Chamber of Culture.

Georg Brauner, heretofore leader of the German Singers' league, has "resigned" his post and Herr Meister, Mayor of Herne, has been appointed acting singing master. An "Aryan" paragraph, barring those of Jewish blood, was adopted by the Singers' league about a year ago and most of the "non-Aryans," including a number of music masters, have been excluded already. Under the new régime all individual societies will have to submit to the same racial discrimination or lose the right to sing in public. Professional musicians, including foreigners performing in Germany, were put under a similar régime last July.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrected His Constipation

If you are troubled by common constipation, read this letter:

"Just a word in appreciation of what your ALL-BRAN has done for my health. For years, I had been doping myself with pills and other dopes for constipation.

"I decided to try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Now I am in good health and haven't taken a drop of medicine for six months."—Thos. F. Little, 564 E. Wheeling St., Lancaster, Ohio.

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness—any one of these may be caused by common constipation. Yet this condition can be corrected, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to help promote regularity. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much safer than patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal.

If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green packages. Get ALL-BRAN, and not a part-bran product. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

NAZI AID SETTLES HARVARD PLIGHT; HE WON'T COME

Cambridge, Mass., April 4. — [Special.]—The controversy over the invitation extended to Ernst F. Hanfstaengel to act as chief marshal's aide at the June commencement ceremonies took a new and final turn today. It was announced that the Nazi lieutenant had declined the invitation to participate in the 25th reunion of his class.

Dr. Elliott C. Cutler, chief marshal of the class of 1909, who will lead the alumni in their festivities, issued a statement in which he "regretted to announce" that the friend of Chancellor Hitler had decided not to make the trip from Berlin to Cambridge. He declined, however, to divulge the reason for the German's refusal.

Harvard authorities maintained the same silence that has marked the affair since dispatches from Berlin revealed that Herr Hanfstaengel had received the invitation, would accept it, and would bring with him Nazi moving pictures to show at the celebration.

Benjamin Halpern of Dorchester, a graduate student whose letter to The Harvard Crimson in protest against the invitation began the agitation against Herr Hanfstaengel a week ago, expressed joy tonight that the Nazi would not attend the commencement. Previously he had announced that he would remain away from the activities.

Will Aid Loan Fund

Plans were completed yesterday for the second annual jamboree sponsored by the McKinlock Campus association of Northwestern university which will be held in George R. Thorne hall at Lake Shore drive and East Superior street Saturday evening, April 21. Proceeds of the affair will go to the university student loan fund. Stephen G. Janick, president of the association and chairman of the jamboree, said last year $1,100 was turned over to the fund from the proceeds of the jamboree.

22 HAT FORMS STOLEN.

Austin police were asked yesterday to search for the burglars who broke into the Hub Plating company, 4824 West Lake street, Tuesday night and stole 22 hat forms valued at $200, which weighed more than a quarter of a ton.

FORMER PUPILS ELECT TEACHER MAYOR OF TOWN

Taught at Beaver Dam for Half a Century.

Beaver Dam, Wis., April 4.—(AP)—At one time or another hundreds of Beaver Dam citizens have learned long division and the mysteries of least common denominator from Miss Mary Spellman, more than half a century a school teacher.

Yesterday the boys and girls whom she instructed got together and elected the little Irish teacher mayor. They moved her from classroom to city hall with a rousing two to one majority over the Socialist incumbent, Ras Weaver.

Today Miss Spellman, black haired and cleared eyes, was still excited by remembrance of the bonfires and the roman candles with which her victory was celebrated last night.

She's "About 70."

"Imagine, at my age, being at the business end of a snake dance!" she exclaimed.

But precisely what that age is Miss Spellman does not choose to tell. "About 70" wouldn't be a bad guess, she conceded. She has been a teacher in Beaver Dam schools 49 years, and for two years she taught in rural schools near here.

Beaver Dam knows Miss Spellman as a mathematics teacher whose answers never were wrong, and as the slight woman who thought nothing of battling a blizzard a mile and a half to get from her little home to her school. The city knows here also as a teacher who carried her interests in her pupils beyond the school room and school years. She watched the careers of her students, and found happiness in successes they attained.

Calls Election a "Plot."

Her election, she said, was a plot of her old students conceived behind her back. They talked it over among themselves and apparently had a majority "in the bag" before they prevailed on her to get into politics.

"Probably one of my greatest difficulties will be to avoid calling staid citizens by their first names," Miss Spellman said.

"To the world men may be president of the bank or secretary of the Commercial club, but to me they remain Charley and Bill who had so much trouble with square root.

EPISCOPALIANS URGE DEFICIT BE ABSORBED BY 6 YEARS' BUDGETS

The Chicago regional conference of the Episcopal church, meeting yesterday in the diocesan headquarters at 65 East Huron street, recommended the deficit of $529,000 reported by the national council of the church for 1933 be amortized in the budgets of the church during the next six years.

It was further recommended that the council advise the general convention to fix a year as the national budget for the next triennium, plus the amortization needs, and asked information on whether it would be feasible to cut the budget further to $2,250,000, the anticipated revenue. Also, the national council was urged to take steps to raise $500,000 to prevent a deficit in 1934.

"We reaffirm the partnership principle established in 1919 and feel any increased revenue resulting from a church recovery program should be justly shared by parish, diocese, and general church," the conference stated in its report.

The conference was one of a series called throughout the country by the Most Rev. James De Wolf Perry, head of the church, to discuss means of wiping out the deficit, which, with that of 1933 added to that of former years, now exceeds $1,000,000.

300 Strike for More Pay at Rubber Firm's Plant

Three hundred men and women employed at the Dryend Rubber company, 1014 South Kildare avenue, went on strike last evening for an increase in wages. The concern employs about 1,500 workers who are members of a company union. Fillmore street police were summoned to the plant to preserve order but no violence was reported. Officials of the company said they expected a speedy settlement of the dispute.

POOR BOX THIEF IS CAPTURED BY PRIEST, JANITOR

After looting the poor box in the SS. Peter and Paul Catholic church, 91st street and Exchange avenue, of 60 cents yesterday, Frank Langan, 30 years old, 7736 Rhodes avenue, was captured by Father Walter Lanus and a janitor, Joseph Jurtito. The janitor was in the choir loft and saw the thief creep in. As Langan was hurrying away the janitor leaped upon him. The struggle was heard by the priest and he helped overpower the thief.

ALICE IS RIGHT!

"Well," said Alice, smoothing her pinafore. "It seems that the family is having quite an argument about going to Europe this year."

"You can't go," said the Mad Hatter smugly. "Exchange rates are up and that lets you down."

"That's silly," said Alice. "Things don't cost any more in Europe."

"Pounds, francs, liras," snapped the Mad Hatter. "All those things cost more."

"But I don't want those things," exclaimed Alice disgustedly. "I don't want to know how much a pound costs, but how much a room-and-bath costs in England . . . not how much a lira is, but how much train fare I have to pay from Naples to Rome."

We agree with Alice, for if you add together all the real items, the total cost of a trip to Europe will be still less than living and travel on any comparable scale anywhere in the world! The facts are that Cunard steamship rates are down 30%, railroad rates abroad average 30% less, hotel costs are down 36% according to country. If you wish you may buy your complete European Tour in American Dollars before you start and also get the advantage of these reductions.

As an example, a 30-day tour of Europe, crossing via Cunard Cabin Service, today will cost you 23% less than in 1926, President Roosevelt's "Year of Normalcy."

Round-trip rates are as low as $234 Cabin, $188 Tourist. Your local agent or our nearest branch office will be glad to plan your individual itinerary. Send for special folder containing complete facts which prove European travel cheaper in 1934 than in 1926.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

SUMMARY OF ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1933

THE 87TH ANNUAL REPORT of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, covering operations for 1933, will be presented to the stockholders at the annual meeting on April 10th, 1934. The report shows that although total operating revenues declined over $6,600,000, or 2.0%, as compared with 1932, the Company earned a net income of $19,281,169 as compared with $13,573,536 in 1932. Net income for 1933 was equivalent to 2.93% upon the outstanding capital stock at the close of the year as compared with 2.06% earned in 1932 upon the amount outstanding at the close of that year. Net income per share (par $50.) was $1.46 as compared with $1.03 in 1932.

OPERATING RESULTS

	1933	Comparison with 1932 Increase or Decrease

Leaving Net Income (Equal to 2.93% of Capital Stock)	$ 19,281,169	I $ 5,707,633

A dividend of 2%, amounting to $6,783,848, was paid to stockholders on March 15, 1934, and charged against net income for 1933.

FINANCE

The Company met its maturing obligations, including $5,800,000 Equipment Trust Certificates. During the year an additional amount of $2,400,000 was borrowed from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to build cars, and this, together with the $27,500,000 borrowed during 1932, was paid off.

To enable the Company to complete its electrification program, financial arrangements were made with the United States Government, through the Public Works Administration, for a loan of $45,000,000 for the electrification work; $15,000,000 for electric locomotives, $17,000,000 for the purchase of 5,500 all-steel box cars, and 2,500 superstructure flat cars, and $3,650,000 for 100,000 tons of steel rails.

For the electrification work the Company will issue 30 Year Secured 4% Serial Bonds and for the steel rails 10 Year Secured 4% Serial Notes, secured by collateral from the Company's treasury. These securities will be sold to the Government. The equipment will be purchased through the issue of Equipment Trust 4% Certificates maturing in 15 years, for freight equipment, and 20 years for electric locomotives, these securities to be amortized over the respective periods. No interest will be charged for the first year.

The net increase in the investment in road and equipment for the entire System was $2,060,319.

IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

Electrification having been completed between New York and Wilmington and Paoli, it is now desired to complete the program and thoroughly equip the line for operation of both passenger and freight service between New York and Washington. To do this, it is necessary to electrify the line between Wilmington and Potomac Yard, south of Washington, complete station at Newark, make further progress on station at Philadelphia, install proper substations and other electrical equipment to take care of the freight business and to purchase freight and passenger locomotives, so that the maximum benefits from the large expenditures, already made for these purposes, may be realized. This is the work to be financed, as stated above.

The Management is gratified to be able to give this evidence of its support of the President's National Recovery program, and to provide, through Government cooperation and through expenditures from its own funds, a powerful stimulus to the revival of business and employment.

During 1933 progress continued on the improvement program in Philadelphia, Newark and Baltimore.

Important additions and betterments were also completed in Chicago, Cincinnati, Dayton, Pittsburgh, New York, and at other points.

OPERATING RATIO

The continued decline in revenue was, as indicated by the increase in Net Income, most effectively met by a still further reduction in operating expenses. The ratio of operating expenses to operating revenues was 69.6%—the lowest of any year since 1906. Total operating revenues in 1933 decreased 53.2% as compared with 1929. Operating expenses were reduced 54.7% as compared with 1929.

NEW EQUIPMENT

During the year, 10 electric passenger locomotives and 1 electric freight locomotive were placed in service. 41 steam passenger cars were converted for electric service. 425 freight train cars and 4 units of work equipment were purchased. 1285 all-steel box cars and 20 locomotive tenders were built at the Company's shops and placed in service.

BETTER PASSENGER TRAIN SERVICE

The Company's high-speed passenger service continues to improve. Schedules between New York and Philadelphia were quickened to one hour and fifty minutes. The Broadway Limited's time between New York and Chicago was quickened to 17¾ hours. Through service to New England was also improved, and two additional fast trains were put in service between New York and Washington.

Air-conditioned coaches, dining cars and parlor cars were put in service during last summer on all hourly trains between New York and Philadelphia and on through trains between New York, Philadelphia and Washington. Their use will be extended in 1934 to include all through trains between principal cities of the East and the West. The Pennsylvania Railroad will have 700 air-conditioned cars in service in the summer of 1934, and the largest fleet of air-conditioned trains of any railroad.

COLLECTION AND DELIVERY SERVICE

On December 1, 1933, the Company inaugurated a collection and delivery service for less than carload freight. Freight is picked up at the store or warehouse and delivered direct to the consignee at any point on the system lines. This service shows marked promise and the Company solicits the help of stockholders in further extending it to the shipping public.

STOCKHOLDERS

The capital stock of the Company at the close of the year was owned by 238,876 holders, a slight decrease as compared with December 31, 1932, and the average number of shares held by each stockholder was 33.2. The large investment represented by the stock and other outstanding securities, owned by the citizens and their institutions all over the country, constitutes the best kind of public ownership and that fact, as well as the necessity for the economical and efficient operation of the railroad, which the investment represents, continues to be a constant reminder of the duty and responsibility resting upon the Management.

Achievement of the results recorded above, notwithstanding the continuation of adverse business conditions, reflects outstanding credit upon the officers and employes. The stockholders and bondholders are again reminded that by continuing their cooperation of the past they will be of great assistance in promoting a return of prosperity which will be of immeasurable benefit to themselves, the Company and the Nation.

PLAN AN APPEAL TO TAXPAYERS WHO GOT 15% CUT

Meeting Today to Discuss Revenue Situation.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Public officials indicated yesterday that at a meeting called for today by the state tax commission they will issue a statement on behalf of all local governments urging taxpayers to pay immediately that portion of their tax bills not affected by the 15 per cent tax cut recently ordered by Judge Jarecki. The meeting was planned primarily to discuss application of the Jarecki order.

Since Judge Jarecki delivered his decision last week payments of 1932 taxes by small property owners have fallen off to what governmental heads consider an alarming extent. Statements will be made at the emergency meeting today, it has been indicated, assuring taxpayers that they may pay the major portion of both 1931 and 1932 tax bills without impairing their right to get the assessment cut and to consequent tax saving.

Law Bars Any Rebates.

The falling off in 1932 tax payments is attributed to the fact that those who paid the 1931 taxes in full are at present barred from enjoying the benefits of Judge Jarecki's ruling. That ruling applied only to 318,000 homes and small flat buildings on which objections were filed in a case sponsored by the Chicago Real Estate board. Even if a taxpayer filed an objection after paying his taxes in full, as thousands of the objectors did, the statutes at present do not permit his receiving a rebate.

The meeting to which the tax commission has invited all of the public officials whose duties include some phase of the tax assessment and collecting process, is primarily for the purpose of finding the most expeditious and economical way of getting revised bills out to the objecting taxpayers who won a cut before Judge Jarecki. The plight of those who paid their taxes in full, and thus are ineligible to receive that cut, will also be given serious consideration.

Show Need of Legislation.

Mayor Kelly, at whose suggestion the tax commission conference was called, and others have pointed out the need of legislation making it possible to prevent discrimination against this class of taxpayers who have already paid their bills. The Chicago Recovery administration, which Mayor Kelly appointed as an advisory body on government problems, included such a provision in a program suggested yesterday for solution of the whole "15 per cent" tax cut muddle.

That program, put out by a special committee headed by Newton C. Farr, chairman of the Recovery administration, also recommended: That Judge Jarecki's order be carried out with the least possible delay; that Assessor J. L. Jacobs, through certificates of error, grant the same cut [15 per cent of the building valuation] on 1933 assessments of 438,000 residences and small flat buildings in the county; that the assessor also extend the same cut to these classes of property for 1933 and 1934 in making up the assessment rolls, and that necessary clerical assistants be provided for making the immediate 1931 revisions.

A More Clumsy Process.

The board of tax appeals has announced that it will give the 15 per cent cut to all property owners in the classes affected who file complaints with it against their 1932 assessments. This process of granting the cut, the appeals board members themselves admit, is much more clumsy and will take more time to carry out than the issuance of certificates of correction by the assessor, recommended by the CRA.

Fred W. Brummel, Democratic member of the board, said yesterday, however, that if the board of appeal, in the event of the assessor's refusal to follow the CRA suggestion, finds it necessary to grant the cuts through complaints, he will recommend to his Republican colleague, George F. Nixon, that no complaints be received from taxpayers who have not paid the first half of their 1932 bills in full. The cut, under the law, would be subtracted from the second instalment bill, not yet due, and in no case would the taxpayer be impairing his rights by paying the first instalment.

Lose More Penalties.

Mr. Brummel also pointed out that unless those objectors who got the cut from Judge Jarecki have paid, or pay immediately, that portion of their 1931 bills not affected by the cut, they will lose more in tax penalties than they will gain through the cut. Already penalties of 7 per cent have accumulated on their bills, and the average cut will not amount to much more than that proportion of the total of the original bill.

It was also suggested yesterday that Judge Jarecki amend his order granting the cut, and provide that it shall apply only to those objectors who paid or who shall pay before some date in the near future, 75 per cent of the 1931 taxes. The last regular session of the legislature passed a bill providing that no taxpayer may object to his tax bill unless he had paid 75 per cent of it. Judge Jarecki, however, did not hold objectors in the 15 per cent case to compliance with this law.

Asked why he had not followed the law in this case Judge Jarecki said: "The new law has not yet been held constitutional."

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1932, were $250,078, making a total of $100,837,434 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Shaman act began April 26, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
April 4	$ 12,172	$ 17,746
Uncollected	14,723,035	30,037,365
	1930.	1931.
April 4	$ 116,466	$ 137,072
Uncollected	63,739,206	58,630,478

The day's collection of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $534,622, and of 1932 personal property taxes $71,205.

Orders Ex-Bailif's Arrest on Job Promise Charge

A capias for the arrest of Alek Anderson, 35 years old, 6959 Calumet avenue a former deputy bailif of the Municipal court, was issued yesterday when he failed to appear before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the South State street court to answer a charge that he had taken $100 from Eugene V. Allen, an unemployed painter, for a job he never provided.

ALL DRESSED UP, COUNTY'S PARKS AWAIT VISITORS

CWA Men Vastly Improve Forest Preserves.

With the first zestful days of spring at hand, the Forest Preserve district of Cook county awaits its influx of nature lovers, hikers, or early picnickers.

Modern improvements in the rustic manner have been installed throughout the entire area of 33,000 acres by an army of 10,000 CWA workers. Work on the projects is being continued at present by Illinois Emergency Relief men.

When questioned as to whether these improvements did not tend to mar or make artificial the natural beauty of the preserves, Charles G. Sauers, superintendent, said the projects were intended only to emphasize nature's handiwork and to add to the convenience of visitors.

Large Areas Undisturbed.

"Large areas of dense underbrush have been left undisturbed for birds and small animals," he said. "Detailments, such as mosquito breeding swamps, have been abolished.

"A vast area of mosquito breeding marsh land in Skokie Valley is now being converted into a series of lagoons, surrounded by trees, shrubs, and verdant landscape. At Pulaski Woods, a shelter house of stone was built to serve as a dance pavilion in summer and a warming house in winter. There are 34 of these throughout the preserves, with stone fireplaces constructed at one or both ends.

An old slough at Thatcher and Chicago avenues, River Forest, has been turned into a lagoon. Here visitors may fish or canoe. Parking spaces for autos have been cleared and fenced off in all preserves. Mr. Sauers said this will lessen the danger of having grass and flowers crushed by car wheels. Forty miles of bridle path have also been improved.

100 Bridges Built.

More than 100 bridges, built of stone and wood, cross streams, rivers, and gullies to make riding or walking easier and add to the picturesqueness of the landscape. Men have put in order 175 miles of hiking trails.

Baseball players will find eight diamonds at Daniel Ryan Woods, where a field has also been cleared for football games in the fall. Between the hills in these same woods, a muddy ditch has been transformed into a clear water stream in a stone casing with a walk ten feet wide along its one-half mile course.

New entrances of flagstone now ornament three swimming pools; the Cermak, at 7600 Ogden avenue, the Emmett Wheelan at Milwaukee and Devon avenues, and Green Lake, at 156th street and Torrence avenue. Four thousand markers have been erected for the guidance of hikers or equestrians and in picnic areas are new benches, tables, one hundred new pumps, and one thousand new fireplaces.

"Because of the help given us through the CWA and relief workers, the district today is six years ahead of its scheduled program of improvements," said Emmett Wheelan, president of the board of commissioners.

Quick Thinking Negro Saves 5 in Blazing Auto

Montgomery, Ala., April 4.—(AP)—Quick thinking by an Alabama Negro today saved the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Mizer of Muscelon, Mich., and their three children, after the Mizer auto collided with another car, overturned and caught fire. The Negro, Samuel Howard, sprinted more than 100 yards to the flaming car, broke open the door and dragged the family out before they were seriously burned.

ROB SUBPOSTAL STATION.

Two armed men yesterday held up the candy store and subpostal station of Wallace Breisford at 2448 Pensacola avenue and escaped with $153 in cash, $100 in stamps, a $10 money order, and a government check for $15.

PRESIDENT'S SON EXONERATED OF ACCIDENT BLAME

Boston, Mass., April 4.—(AP)—Morgan T. Ryan, state registrar of motor vehicles, today absolved Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., a freshman at Harvard, of being at fault in a recent automobile accident in which a woman was injured.

The President's son paid a fine of $30 in court for operating his car, registered in District of Columbia, beyond the 30 day limit set by law for out of state cars.

"With reference to the accident my inspector reports," said Ryan, "that he cannot find Roosevelt at fault because there was no evidence of excessive speed, the weather and road conditions were unusually bad, due to snow and ice, and because the person injured ran heedlessly from the side of her son, with whom she was walking, directly in front of the car, which then skidded as Roosevelt attempted to steer to one side to avoid hitting her."

Young Roosevelt, however, will be required to take an examination here now to obtain a Massachusetts license to drive.

Quicker Relief Now From Pain

There is now a quicker way to ease pain. A way that often brings relief from even a severe headache or neuritis in a few minutes. Millions are now employing it—the fastest safe relief, it is said, ever known for pain.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or, disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence, to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glasses, above, tell the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And this is ready to go to work almost instantly. This unique Bayer discovery means quick relief from pain for you and yours. Fewer lost hours from headache, neuralgia or the pains of rheumatism. And safe relief—for Genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

When you buy, though, see that you get the GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN. The best way is never ask for aspirin by the name "aspirin" alone. But if you want Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "BAYER ASPIRIN."

N. SHORE PARK BOARD WASTING FUNDS, IS CHARGE

Allege Plot to Saddle the District with Debt.

The Chicago park district campaign committee made public a bulletin yesterday charging that members of the north shore park board are attempting to rush through a contract involving an expenditure of $42,400 before April 10. On that date residents of Chicago will be given an opportunity at a referendum election to vote on the Chicago park district act which, if adopted, provides for the consolidation of the 23 park systems in the city.

Taxpayers living in the north shore district are striving to block any further public spending by their commissioners until after the referendum, "when they hope to have them removed from office through adoption of the park consolidation act," the committee bulletin states.

Seek State Approval.

The north shore park board, according to the bulletin, is seeking state approval of a contract to fill in the lake off Farwell avenue. A written protest against state approval of the plan was filed yesterday with Robert Kingery, state director of public works and buildings, by officials of the Rogers Park-Loyola Property Owners' Improvement association. The protest charged that granting of the permit to do the work would mean a waste of public funds and a saddling of the park district taxpayers with increased taxes for the next 20 years.

If the park merger is voted, outstanding bond issues of each park area will still have to be paid by the property owners of the respective districts.

The protest letter, which was signed by J. E. Prendergast, vice president, and Edward P. Brennan, treasurer of the association, further charged that in the last few days the north shore park commissioners also have let other contracts in great haste, but over which the state has no check since they do not involve state-owned submerged land.

"One of these—the filling in of a depression at Farwell avenue and the lake," the letter reads, "is already under way at the excessive price of $1.05 per cubic yard. The city has been getting the best grade of cinder fill for from 35 to 70 cents a yard delivered and is using civil works administration and emergency relief workers to spread it. Why haven't our small park commissioners been equally careful of their costs?

Why the Haste? Asks Letter.

"Just why our commissioners are in such haste to enter into these contracts on the eve of the election at which they may be voted out of office is a great mystery to many of us."

"The debt of the district is about $725,000," the bulletin quotes Mr. Prendergast as saying. "That calls for a yearly principal and interest levy of about $73,000. There is no market for park bonds, and the contractors in a number of deals have agreed to accept bonds in lieu of cash on warrants. Few contractors can hold bonds until maturity date and probably must dispose of them at a discount. This discount, of course, will be paid by the public in higher prices for the work.

"The north shore park commissioners before entering into any new deals should do like the city, county and state and the larger park districts to reduce their expenses and restore their credit. Instead, they have added to their pay rolls, and now we understand they plan to issue bonds to pay for unnecessary work. They were elected on a platform of 'no bonds without a referendum and reduced taxes.'

Funds for Campaign.

"The commissioners have appropriated $650 of park funds to fight the consolidation act. To this we object. They have no right to presume that the taxpayers are anxious to continue them in power. If they want to defend their official existence they should pay for their own campaign."

Members of the north shore park board are James B. Phelan, president; Irving Long, James J. Nussmaker, Thomas J. Myers Jr., and Hymen Kinzelberg.

The park district campaign committee is made up of representatives of important civic groups which favor adoption of the park consolidation act.

President Phelan of the north shore park board denied last night that there had been any waste in the administration of business in his district. He asserted that the district's outstanding, uncollected taxes amount to more than $478,000 and that the total tax anticipation warrant indebtedness is only about $65,000.

BURNED IN STOVE BLAST.

Attempting to quicken the fire in his kitchen stove yesterday, Frank Gawlowski, 1339 Roosevelt road, emptied a small can of kerosene on the blaze. He was severely burned in the resultant explosion, and was taken to the county hospital.

PARK DISTRICT WILL SUE BOND FIRM FOR INTEREST PAYMENT

A lawsuit to recover $35,000 paid out as interest on special bonds to the firm of R. E. Harnett & Co., 33 South Dearborn street, which raised to date up $1,400,000 of a $2,000,000 bond issue it had contracted to buy, will be started as soon as an audit of the Northwest park district finances is completed, it was announced yesterday by park officials. The audit is expected to be finished about May 15.

Records show that the money was paid over to the Harnett firm in August, 1931, by Francis X. Minano, who at that time was treasurer of the district. William J. Mansfield, counsel for the park district, said that the suit will fatally name the Lavezzaro-Minano, and a surety firm that had bonded Milano for $20,000.

According to Attorney Mansfield and Holland M. Cassidy, counsel for a group of bondholders who are seeking to recover the money for the park district, no evidence has been found that the $35,000 payment was anything but an error on the part of the park employes. It was stated that coupons of the unsold bonds had been presented for payment of the interest, which was paid.

LINEUPS IN G. O. P. PRIMARY BATTLE INDICATE RESULT

Predicts Regulars' Victory Except in Two Offices.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Developments during the last three days, political wise men said yesterday, have stabilized but the battle lines in the Cook county Republican primary campaign to such an extent that at least the general outcome can be foreseen.

It is the opinion of these observers that if the regular organization slate is broken it will be smashed in only two places. They say that the county committee group may lose one of the three nominations for the sanitary district board and that its entry for president of the county board may be defeated if the tendencies recorded so far this week hold good until primary day next Tuesday.

Even some of the leaders opposed to the present management of the committee concede privately that there is mighty little, if any, chance of even cracking the slate elsewhere. There are contests over the nominations for sheriff and County judge. But the observers say that there are too many entries in each of these races for any one to beat the organization favorite.

Factions Unite on Two Candidates.

The two opportunities for victory by non-organization candidates have arisen because the three factions opposing the committee are backing the same men in these instances. For other offices these minorities have their own candidates—their strength is divided.

The county committee leaders have admitted they have a handicap in the contest over the three nominations for the drainage board. On the ballot, directly under the title of the office will appear the words "Vote for Three." The names of the organization candidates, John J. Hoellen, John E. Northup and John B. Cipriani, occupy second, third and fourth places. It is expected that many voters will mark for the first three.

This is said to give a big advantage to Norman J. McLeod, who has first place on the list, an advantage which, on top of his support from the minority groups, may carry him through. He is said to have been brought into the race by Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, but the sample ballots of the Newton Jenkins group and of the ward units supporting Municipal Judge John E. Lyle for County judge, also are marked for him.

McLeod Indorsed by Union.

McLeod is a labor union man identified with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, the district council of which has indorsed him. But he is not so widely known as any of the three against whom he is running.

Dr. John B. Cipriani, the fourth man on the list and the one considered the most handicaped by the arrangement of the names on the ballot, has been in the active practice of medicine for 20 years. He is a graduate of the college of medicine of the University of Illinois and became a member of the faculty of the college in 1918. He served as a first lieutenant in the medical corps in the war.

John J. Hoellen, who will be in second place on the ballot, is known to the voters because of his having served eight years in the city council from the 47th ward. And Attorney John E. Northup is noted for his investigation of the sanitary district whoopee era.

Caldwell Given a Chance.

The only other candidate known to have the combined support of the Crowe, Jenkins and Lyle forces, is H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education under the last Republican administration, who is now seeking the presidency of the county board. This support and the fact that he landed first place on the ballot for this office is said to give him a chance to win.

The organization candidate for the same office is George F. Nixon, now a member of the board of tax appeals by appointment of Supreme Court Justice Lee Thomson. Before that appointment he was most widely known as former president of the Chicago Real Estate board and of the Illinois Association of Real Estate boards. His opposition charges that he was an insull agent in some of his past real estate business.

Nixon heads the list of candidates for city membership on the board and Caldwell, a resident of Oak Park, is in first place on the country tower list. It is said to be possible that both will be nominated for membership but the race for the presidency's place, an office listed separately on the ballot, is supposed to be close.

Crowe-Lyle Split Reported.

Recent developments among the organization forces are said to have included a rupture of a supposed working agreement between former State's Attorney Crowe and Judge Lyle over candidates for the nomination for sheriff. Crowe threw his support to Patrick A. Roche and Lyle stuck to his original choice, Christian G. Kiesling.

Dr. Ira Jenkins group has its own entry for this office, Kenneth A. Rouse, the non-organization forces are split three ways. Still another independent, Fred F. Ellert, chief of police of Dolton, may make a showing.

The county committee candidates, James P. Rigney, in addition to the support of the regulars, has hearty backing from service men who know him as former commander of the Illinois department of the American Legion. He is employed in the office of the chief operating engineer of the Commonwealth Edison company, a fact which some of his rivals have tried to...

...overcome here proving his direct personal connection with Samuel Insull. But the effort is not taken seriously.

Divide Over County Judge.

There is a similar split among the anti-committee forces on the nomination for county judge, Jenkins and his friends are supporting Miles W. Millis, Aratoga, Lyle. Some of the Crowe forces are said to have left Lyle for William J. Grace. This division is considered sure to the favor of the regular entry, Municipal Judge Samuel Heller.

One of the contests that catches the public eye little but has attracted some political attention by that for the nomination for probate judge. This is because of supposed gains of strength by an independent, William G. Schwartz, formerly an assistant to Henry Horner when the latter was probate judge. He is a resident of Chicago while the county committee entry, Harry G. Kinne, is a resident of Wilmette. Some ward committeemen are said to prefer their fellow townsman.

MAYOR KELLY CASTS AN ABSENTEE BALLOT FOR THE PRIMARIES

Mayor Kelly cast an absentee ballot last night at the election commissioners' office, since he plans to be out of the city when the primaries are held next Tuesday. He was one of 360 who have requested absentee ballots. The mayor expects to leave today or tomorrow for a visit with Mrs. Kelly and their son, Jacqun, who are recuperating in Atlantic City from recent illnesses. He is to return next week to preside at the meeting of the city council which is set for Thursday.

Five Weeks Newspaper Plant in Havana; 3 Killed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, April 4.—Fire tonight wrecked the plant of El Pais, one of Havana's leading Spanish language newspapers, owned by ex-Congressman Alfredo Hornedo. Hornedo estimated that the loss will exceed $700,000. Three looters were killed and several others shot by soldiers who surrounded the building.

U. S. MAY LINK BREMER CASE TO DILLINGER PAL

St. Paul Banker to See Wounded Gunman.

St. Paul, Minn., April 4.—[Special.]—Eddie Green, ex-convict, wounded by federal agents yesterday evening, may not recover. He is said to have aided last Saturday with a machine gun in the escape of John Dillinger from an apartment here.

The handsome, red headed woman, seized with Green, was questioned for more than 12 hours. She is believed to have been present at the Lexington avenue apartment when the gunmen shot their way out of a narrow hallway, routing a group of federal agents and city police.

The division of investigation, department of justice, announced today in Washington that Dillinger's finger prints were found in that apartment.

Bremer Sees Woman.

Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker kidnaped last January, was called into the office of department of justice agents today while the red headed woman, who calls herself Mrs. Green, was being questioned. She had about $1,500 when arrested. Mr. Bremer, it was understood, also will view Green to see if Green had a share in the banker's kidnaping. Mr. Bremer was kidnaped Jan. 17 and released 23 days later after paying $200,000 ransom.

Green is known to the police under five aliases. His real name is said to be Edward Green, but he also is known as Eugene Green, George Graham, Charles Ryan, Fred Rogge, and Fred Riley. He has been in custody of the law nine times.

Police Make Roundup.

Prior to the shooting of Green police and federal agents seized several persons for questioning. Among them were Eddie Gow, who was called a former bootlegger; Thomas P. Filben, reputed "kingpin" of the slot machine racket; Clarence Colton, acquitted of participation in the raid on the Third Northwestern National bank in Minneapolis in November, 1932.

JUDGE APPROVES PAY IN SPITE OF JURY CRITICISM

Judge William J. Murray of the Lake county, Indiana, Circuit court yesterday approved a payment of $420 to the members of the grand jury which investigated the escape of John Dillinger from the Crown Point jail and severely criticised the judge for failing to order the outlaw committed to the Michigan City prison for safekeeping.

"I consider this an act of Christian charity," said the judge as he signed the order. "If this grand jury couldn't make an intelligent report, it could at least have made a fair one."

The grand jury returned an indictment charging Deputy Sheriff Ernest Blunk and Turnkey Sam Cahoon with conniving at the flight of Dillinger.

ISAAC COSTNER GETS 30 YEARS FOR MAIL THEFT

Asks Immunity for Factor Story.

Charlotte, N. C., April 4.—(AP)—Isaac Costner, who left his minister-father's home in Newport, Tenn., to join the Touhy gang, contemplated tonight a 30 year federal prison sentence as he waited in the county jail here for the next move of his attorneys.

He was sentenced on two of the 12 counts in an indictment for which he was found guilty of participation in a $105,000 mail truck holdup here last November.

Serve Notice of Appeal.

His counsel served notice of appeal before Federal Judge Webb, but whether it would be completed was a question. Comment by counsel indicated their first interest would be in the possibility of a parole, due Costner, they contended, because of promises made him when he turned state's evidence in the Chicago trial of Basil Banghart for kidnaping John Factor.

Throughout the trial here delays were sought in an effort to get federal and Illinois officials to intercede for Costner as he said they had promised.

Judge Is Incredulous.

In pasaing sentence, however, Judge E. Yates Webb said he did not believe promises had been made to apply to this case. The judge asserted Illinois had done enough for Costner by allowing him to be tried here on a lesser charge when he would have been subject to a 99 year sentence—the same as Banghart got—if convicted in the kidnaping, in which he had confessed participation.

Marcus Erwin, district attorney, said he would take immediate steps to have Banghart brought here for trial. He pointed out that despite Banghart's long state sentence, he could apply for a parole within a few years, and that by then government witnesses would be lacking and evidence lost.

HELD AS LIQUOR "FENCE."

Harry Loewe, 33 years old, 8856 Buffalo avenue, described by police as the director of a gang specializing in robbing saloons of liquor, was held to the grand jury yesterday on two charges of receiving stolen property.

Manchu Ruler to Visit China; Fear New Intrigue by Japan

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 4.—Headquarters of the Japanese army in Manchukuo today notified Chinese authorities at Peiping that Emperor Kang Teh [formerly Henry Pu-yi] of Manchukuo wishes to visit the old Manchu tomb at Malanyu, near Peiping, to worship his ancestors.

The Japanese requested that China furnish adequate protection for the former boy emperor of China against "accidents."

Chinese authorities regard the Japanese request as an ultimatum. It is feared that the Japanese will cite the inability of China to guarantee sufficient protection as a justification for another invasion of the so-called demilitarized zone within the shadow of the Great Wall north of Peiping.

Time of Visit Uncertain.

The Japanese did not say when Pu-yi wishes to make his pilgrimage, but Japanese circles assert that he is planning to make the trip, accompanied by a large entourage of attendants and guards, by air. Japanese army planes will be provided for the visit and a military detachment from the Japanese garrisons at Peiping and Tientsin will encircle the park in which the Manchu tomb is located, it is said.

Gen. Huang Fu, head of the Chinese political committee in Peiping, left suddenly for an unannounced destination today. It is believed he plans to confer with Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Chinese military forces; Gen. Chang Hsueh-liang, vice commander and former Manchurian war lord, and Premier Wang Ching-wei. The parley, presumably, would take up the increasingly critical situation in north China.

Chang Chi, high Kuomintang official, and Tang Yu-jen, vice minister of foreign affairs, said today that the situation in north China is the most critical it has been since the signing of the Sino-Japanese truce in May, 1932. The crisis has arisen, they explained, because of the belief that Japan is planning to renew pressure to compel the Nanking government to recognize Manchukuo.

Fear Action on Yangtze.

Chinese newspapers call attention to recent visits of high Japanese naval officials at various points along the Yangtze river, indicating possible activities.

The Nanking government today, without mentioning the impending visit of Emperor Kang Teh, ordered Peiping authorities to "enforce rigidly the emergency law against Chinese traitors found plotting against the security of the state."

The Chinese newspaper Shun Pao published a dispatch alleging that Japanese troops and air forces are continuing to concentrate in southern and western Jehol and eastern Chahar provinces and that thousands of Chinese coolies are being employed in the construction of military roads.

NAZIS RESTORE PAY OF PRESIDENT EBERT'S WIDOW

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, April 4.—The pension of Frau Louise Ebert, widow of the first president of the republic, which was canceled when the Nazis came into power a year ago, has been restored to her.

It is reported the restoration was primarily due to the intervention of President von Hindenburg, Ebert's successor in office and sincere admirer of the "harnessmaker" president.

Frau Ebert has been living in modest retirement since the death of her husband. Her oldest son, Fritz Ebert Jr., was released from the Oranienberg concentration camp at Christmas. He had been confined there for six months.

It is also reported that the pension of Karl Severing, for 13 years Prussian minister of the interior, has also been restored to him. That of Frau Kaethe Stresemann, widow of the late foreign minister, will expire in 1936, the date originally specified.

Nazis Decree Separation of Boys and Girls in Schools

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 4.—German boys and girls must be taught separately, the Prussian minister of education decreed today. The minister ordered that girls henceforth will be admitted to boys' high schools only by his special permission and when other facilities for them are lacking. Girls already attending boys' schools are not affected by the decree.

AUTO TAX CUT PLAN UNCERTAIN, HUGHES ASSERTS

Over 300,000 Illinois Cars Lack 1934 Plates.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 4.—[Special.]—With more than 300,000 motor vehicles in Illinois without 1934 licenses, Secretary of State Hughes declined yesterday to urge police enforcement of the registration laws. He declined to indorse a proposed amendment to the statutes so as to penalize these delinquents in future years.

"The motoring public is so resentful of the high automobile taxes that I'm afraid any statement about enforcement would be unpopular," he asserted. "I would rather appeal to their patriotism to come in and pay their taxes."

In Doubt on Changes.

"Your press releases have announced that you'll advocate a reduction in the license fees by the 1935 legislature—how about including in this amendment a penalty for delinquents or a discount for those who pay on time?" he was asked.

"I don't know how the legislature would accept such a proposal," he replied. "Maybe the assembly would not approve."

"You could favor it, if it's equitable, regardless of what the legislators do, couldn't you?" he was asked.

"I don't know whether I'd favor it. You see, with a flexible fee, with either a penalty or a discount, there would be so many politicians asking the secretary to overlook the tardiness, and it would be easy to juggle the books."

The proposed discount would operate somewhat like the gas and electric light bills in Chicago. Those who bought their plates by Jan. 1 would not pay as much as those who waited until after the first of the year. Higher penalties might be imposed for each thirty days of delinquency.

To date 1934 plates have been issued for 1,006,093 passenger cars and 125,231 trucks. This compares well with the totals for the same date in 1933 when many banks were closed. On April 4, 1933, plates had been issued for 668,700 passenger cars and 90,102 trucks.

Registry Shows Delinquents.

However, on Dec. 31, 1,276,864 passenger cars and 186,186 trucks had been registered for 1933. Without allowing for the increase in automobile ownership this year, simple arithmetic indicates there are still 270,771 passenger cars and 60,655 trucks without 1934 plates.

The law specifies that the plates of the new year should be worn on and after Jan. 1. The registration of the state's motor vehicles is more than a matter of tax collections. The delinquency also impedes efficient policing of traffic since an important function of the plates is to identify ownership.

The secretary is required by law to furnish police departments with books listing the licenses numerically with the names of the persons to whom the licenses were issued. The first of such 1934 directories was being mailed today, including the numbers from 20,000 to 49,999. The book covering 1 to 19,999, with the "I gotta drag" low numbers, probably will be off the presses next week.

The main cause for the wholesale delinquencies is that Illinois automobile owners know from years of experience that their officials do not enforce the law until months after the first of the year. Another source of delay, however, is due to the secretary of state honoring whimsies for low numbers or trick combinations of numbers.

Police enforcement of the registration law in Chicago this year has been better than in former years and fewer 1933 plates are found in the city today than in other Aprils.

SAFETY GROUP PLANS MEETING ON DRIVERS' RESPONSIBILITY BILL

The Illinois conference on highway safety, meeting in the Palmer house yesterday, made plans for a mass meeting in Springfield on May 25 for the purpose of enlisting support for a drivers' license and financial responsibility law.

Under the proposed law, no person with a judgment growing out of an automobile accident outstanding against him could drive a car until he satisfied the judgment or established financial responsibility in some other way, such as putting up a bond or taking out liability insurance. To prevent him from driving the car, his license would be revoked.

The bill, drawn by Joseph Braun, counsel for the Chicago Motor club, was introduced in the last regular session of the legislature but was not passed. It will be brought up again in the next regular session.

The safety conference, which is headed by Attorney B. P. Alschuler of Aurora, added the following new members to its executive committee: Frank J. Loesch, Henry Barrett Chamberlin, Bertram J. Cahn, all of the Chicago crime commission; State's Attorney Courtney, E. L. Rickards of the National Auto Theft bureau; T. P. Sullivan, superintendent of the Illinois bureau of criminal identification and investigation; George Traver, Chicago safety council; Sidney J. Williams, national safety council, and Fred J. Sauter, insurance man.

SUSPECT SEIZED FOR SERIES OF THEFTS AT N. U.

John B. Roche, 32 years old, who twice escaped from an asylum at Iowa City, Ia., was arrested in Evanston last night, suspected of having committed a number of petty thieveries in Northwestern university offices and fraternity houses recently.

He was seized after being recognized as a man who took a typewriter from University hall on the campus on March 27. In Roche's pockets were found three fraternity pins and one fraternity ring. Five years ago Roche escaped from the asylum and was arrested after committing nine robberies in Evanston.

When it was learned he had escaped he was sent back. Police said they had not learned of his second escape until the arrest yesterday.

Kelsey Elected Head of Lake County Supervisors

Harold D. Kelsey of Barrington was elected chairman of the Lake county board of supervisors in Waukegan yesterday by a vote of 25 to 7. He has been a member of the board for six years and is supervisor of Cuba township. He replaces David Van Patten of Newport township as chairman.

WHY SUFFER ANY MORE?

Women! Pain stops with quick "pick-up" action of scientific yeast discovery!

Speedy relief for headaches, pains, discomforts due to periodic troubles of women and girls can be obtained from a scientific compound made with pure vitamin-containing yeast. This amazing discovery works without dope or strong stimulants and it's soothing and pleasant to the stomach. Yeast-Vite not only stops pains, it tones and benefits the system as well. Gives relief without a "let-down," or after-effect.

Does not affect the heart. Non-fattening. Keep Yeast-Vite on hand and keep feeling well. At all druggists, 15c, 25c, and $1.00. Yeast-Vite (U.S.A.) Inc., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

TWO GO ON TRIAL FOR SPEED TRAP IN NILES CENTER

Boy Tells of Instalment Payments.

Two former police officials of Niles Center, alleged to have operated a speed trap so highly organized that instalment payments were accepted from the victims, went to trial yesterday before Judge Daniel P. Trude on an indictment charging them with conspiracy to defraud and to accept bribes.

The defendants are Tad Groark, 65 years old, former chief of the village police, and Robert Bowman, 45 years old, suspended captain of the force. Groark has been removed from his place by the village board, but Bowman expects to be reinstated if he is not convicted.

Boy Tells of Payment.

James Thumley, 19 years old, was one of two witnesses who testified before court was adjourned yesterday afternoon. He told of being arrested by Bowman on June 8, 1933, while he was driving to the Evanston township high school, where he was a student.

"The captain said they had a tough judge in Niles Center," Thumley said, "and if I went to court there would be a heavy fine for speeding. He told me he'd let me go for $3. I only had $1.65, so he took that and let me take him the other $1.35 at the police station the next day. I paid him the balance according to the agreement."

The second witness was Harold Watson, president of George E. Watson Paint company, 164 West Lake street. His experience was similar to that of Thumley, he testified, except that he paid $5 to Bowman in a lump the day after he had been arrested for passing a stop light.

"He tore up the arrest slip when I paid him," Watson added.

Other Witnesses Ready.

Assistant State's Attorney Frank Donoghue announced that the state had between ten and fifteen witnesses who would tell of paying Bowman and Groark to drop speeding charges.

The two police officers, it is said, had no connection with any justice of the peace or police magistrate, as is usual in speed trap operations. Instead they acted as judge and jury themselves, it is alleged, settling with their victims on the spot or on deferred payments.

The indictments against the men were returned last August after the Chicago Motor club had made an investigation of numerous complaints. Groark and Bowman took charge of the Niles Center police in April, 1933, and are alleged to have started their racket at once.

COMPLAINT OF JEWISH NEWSPAPER OWNER HITS CONGRESSMAN

Boston, Mass., April 4.—(AP)—U. S. Attorney Francis J. W. Ford today asked postal inspectors to investigate a complaint by Alexander Brin, Jewish newspaper publisher, that a speech by Congressman Louis T. McFadden [Rep., Pa.], attacking Jews had been sent through the mails in a franked envelope bearing McFadden's name.

The complaint to Ford alleged that the literature bore the names of the Crusaders of the White Shirts, the League for Economic Liberty and the American Fascists.

Brin is prominent in Jewish affairs in New England. His newspaper is the Jewish Advocate.

KILLS NEGRO WHO RAPED DAUGHTER; IS EXONERATED

Bradenton, Fla., April 4.—(AP)—A few hours after Joe Kopman, prominent citrus grower, shot and killed a Negro prisoner accused of raping Kopman's small daughter, a coroner's jury today held the act "justifiable homicide," and the grower was freed immediately.

James Franklin, Negro yardman, was killed as he walked between two officers from a physician's office where he had had a physical and mental examination.

Kopman stepped between the officers, placed a revolver to Franklin's back and fired twice. Franklin died at a hospital shortly afterward.

Officers said the Negro denied raping the child who had previously identified him as her assailant.

ROBBERS LOOT BABY SHOP.

Harry Rice, proprietor of the Rice Baby shop, 3821 Fullerton avenue, reported to Shakespeare avenue police yesterday burglars entered his store some time Tuesday night and took 100 children's coats and a quantity of lingerie and hose, all valued at $800.

Company's Employes Will Vote on Bargaining Agent

Employes of the Container corporation of America plants in Chicago will ballot Saturday in the Racine avenue police station on a proposal that the Trades Union Unity league, a communist organization, headed by William Z. Foster, represent them in collective bargaining with the company executives. The election will be held under the supervision of the national recovery administration's regional board.

The company has about 500 employes.

Befitting Hosiery

It is surprising that so many men seemingly overlook the importance of choosing Hosiery commensurate in quality with other smart apparel. The mediocre grades simply do not belong with Shirts to measure and Custom Tailored Clothes. In fact, one should be most exacting as to the character of Hosiery for, admittedly, no item of dress is more conspicuous.

For fine quality Hosiery we are unexcelled. Our unlimited assortments afford every advantage in securing just the type preferred and qualities often difficult to obtain in average shops, especially in quantity. We call attention particularly to our marvelous presentation of fine French Lisle Hosiery, outstanding both in variety and in character.

"STANDARD-SERVICED CARS LAST LONGER"

You don't have to be a large purchaser . . . You don't have to be a regular customer . . . You don't have to be at the wheel of a high priced car, in order to get fast action and thorough, expert attention from a Standard Servisman. He's there to be courteously helpful to you when you drive in. And he's trained to be skillfully helpful, too.

Here are a few of the many attentions he gives your car—things that add a definite plus value to the good motor fuel and oil he may sell you—things that make Standard-serviced cars last longer:

- Windshield and rear window wiped clean for clear vision (it's done in a jiffy).
- Radiator filled, as needed, with fresh, clean water.
- Oil level checked for safety (he'll not try to sell you more than you actually need).
- Mechanism under the hood quickly inspected (he warns you if anything's out of order).
- Battery checked if desired (he adds certified water if needed).
- Tires quickly inspected (he inflates them accurately to proper pressure all 'round).

That's standard service where you see the familiar Standard Oil sign. Make use of it—you're welcome to it.

2 NEW OUTLOOK ARTICLES ATTACK ADMINISTRATION

Add Credence to 'Reason' Al Smith Quit.

New York, April 4.—[Special.]—The two articles, both vigorously critical of the Roosevelt administration and the "New Deal," which are reported to have caused the resignation of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith as editor of the New Outlook, are published today in the April issue of that magazine.

Although the formal announcement of Mr. Smith's resignation gave as his reason the pressure of other affairs, it was more or less open knowledge that for some months before his retirement, he had not been in agreement with Frank A. Tichenor, publisher of the New Outlook, upon the magazine's attitude toward the present government. Mr. Smith, it is understood, was unwilling to criticise the administration as severely as Mr. Tichenor wished.

Matters are reported to have reached an impasse which left the former governor little choice save resignation, when he rejected for the March issue the two articles published today.

Attack U. S. Policies.

One of these is by Edward Angly, called, when first announced for publication, "Oh, Yeah? Of the New Deal," but now entitled, "A Story Time Has Told." The other is a scathing attack on the administration's airmail policies by C. B. Allen, called "Trouble Aloft."

The Angly article demonstrates, by parallel columns of quotations, how the views of President Roosevelt, many of his advisers, prominent bankers, industrialists, etc., have changed during the regime of the New Deal. It contains no editorial comment whatever, the quotations being left to point their own contrasts.

Extracts from campaign speeches of Mr. Roosevelt in October, 1932, are printed alongside of extracts from the President's message transmitting the budget to congress on Jan. 4, 1934.

Cites Indianapolis Speech.

At Indianapolis on Oct. 20, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt is quoted as saying:

"Now the credit of the family depends chiefly on whether that family is living within its income. And this is so of the nation. If the nation is living within its income, its credit is good. But if, like a spendthrift, it throws discretion to the winds, is willing to make no sacrifice at all in spending, extends its taxing powers to the limit of the people's power to pay, and continues to pile up deficits, it is on the road to bankruptcy.

"We find that the expenditure for the business of government in 1927 was $2,187,000,000 and in 1931, $3,168,000,000. That, my friends, represents an increase in actual administrative spending in those four years of approximately one billion dollars, or roughly 50 per cent, and that, I may add, is the most reckless and extravagant pace I have been able to discover in the statistical record of any peace time government anywhere, any time."

At Pittsburgh, on Oct. 19, 1932, he is quoted as saying:

"I regard reduction in federal spending as the most important issue of this campaign. In my opinion it is the most direct and effective contribution that government can make to business. In accordance with this fundamental policy, it is equally necessary to eliminate from federal budget-making during this emergency, all new items except such as relate to the direct relief of unemployment."

Quotes Budget Message.

Opposite these the magazine prints the following quotations from the budget message:

"Let me put it another way: The excess of expenditures over receipts during this fiscal year amounts to seven billion dollars. My estimates for the coming fiscal year show an excess of expenditures over receipts of two billion dollars. We should plan to have a definitly balanced budget for the third year of recovery, and from that time on seek a continuing reduction of the national debt. This excess of expenditures over revenue, amounting to over nine billion dollars during two fiscal years, has been rendered necessary to bring the country to a sound condition after the unexampled crisis which we encountered last spring.

"In order to make clear to the congress what our borrowings problem is for the next six months, permit me to remind you that we shall have to borrow approximately six billion dollars of new money and, in addition, four billion dollars to meet maturities of a like amount."

PLAN PAYMENT ON DEFAULTED SANITARY BONDS

The sanitary district today will pay $353,625 on the principal of defaulted bonds due between Jan. 1 and June 1, 1932, Trustee Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the district's finance committee, said yesterday. This is a second payment, amounting to 12½ per cent of the $2,829,000 issue. The payment is prorated on each bond, and will bring the retirement of the issue to 27½ per cent to date. The money to redeem the bonds comes from delinquent tax collections.

Doctor's Wife Enthusiastic about New Washday Trick

Mrs. Charles H. Nammack, of New York City

Mrs. Charles H. Nammack, a doctor's wife, says: "Recently my maid was ill and I did my own washing several times. Here's a labor-saving trick I discovered.

"I used my maid's regular laundry soap, her regular washing method, then I added 2 tablespoons or so of Lux.

"This extra bit of Lux made much more suds. They got dirt out so quickly, so easily. My wash seemed so bright and fresh, too."

Try this trick next washday! It saves time and work, costs next to nothing.

NOTE: Use only Lux—no other soap—for silks, woolens, rayons. Delicate fabrics should never be exposed to harsh alkali or cake-soap rubbing.

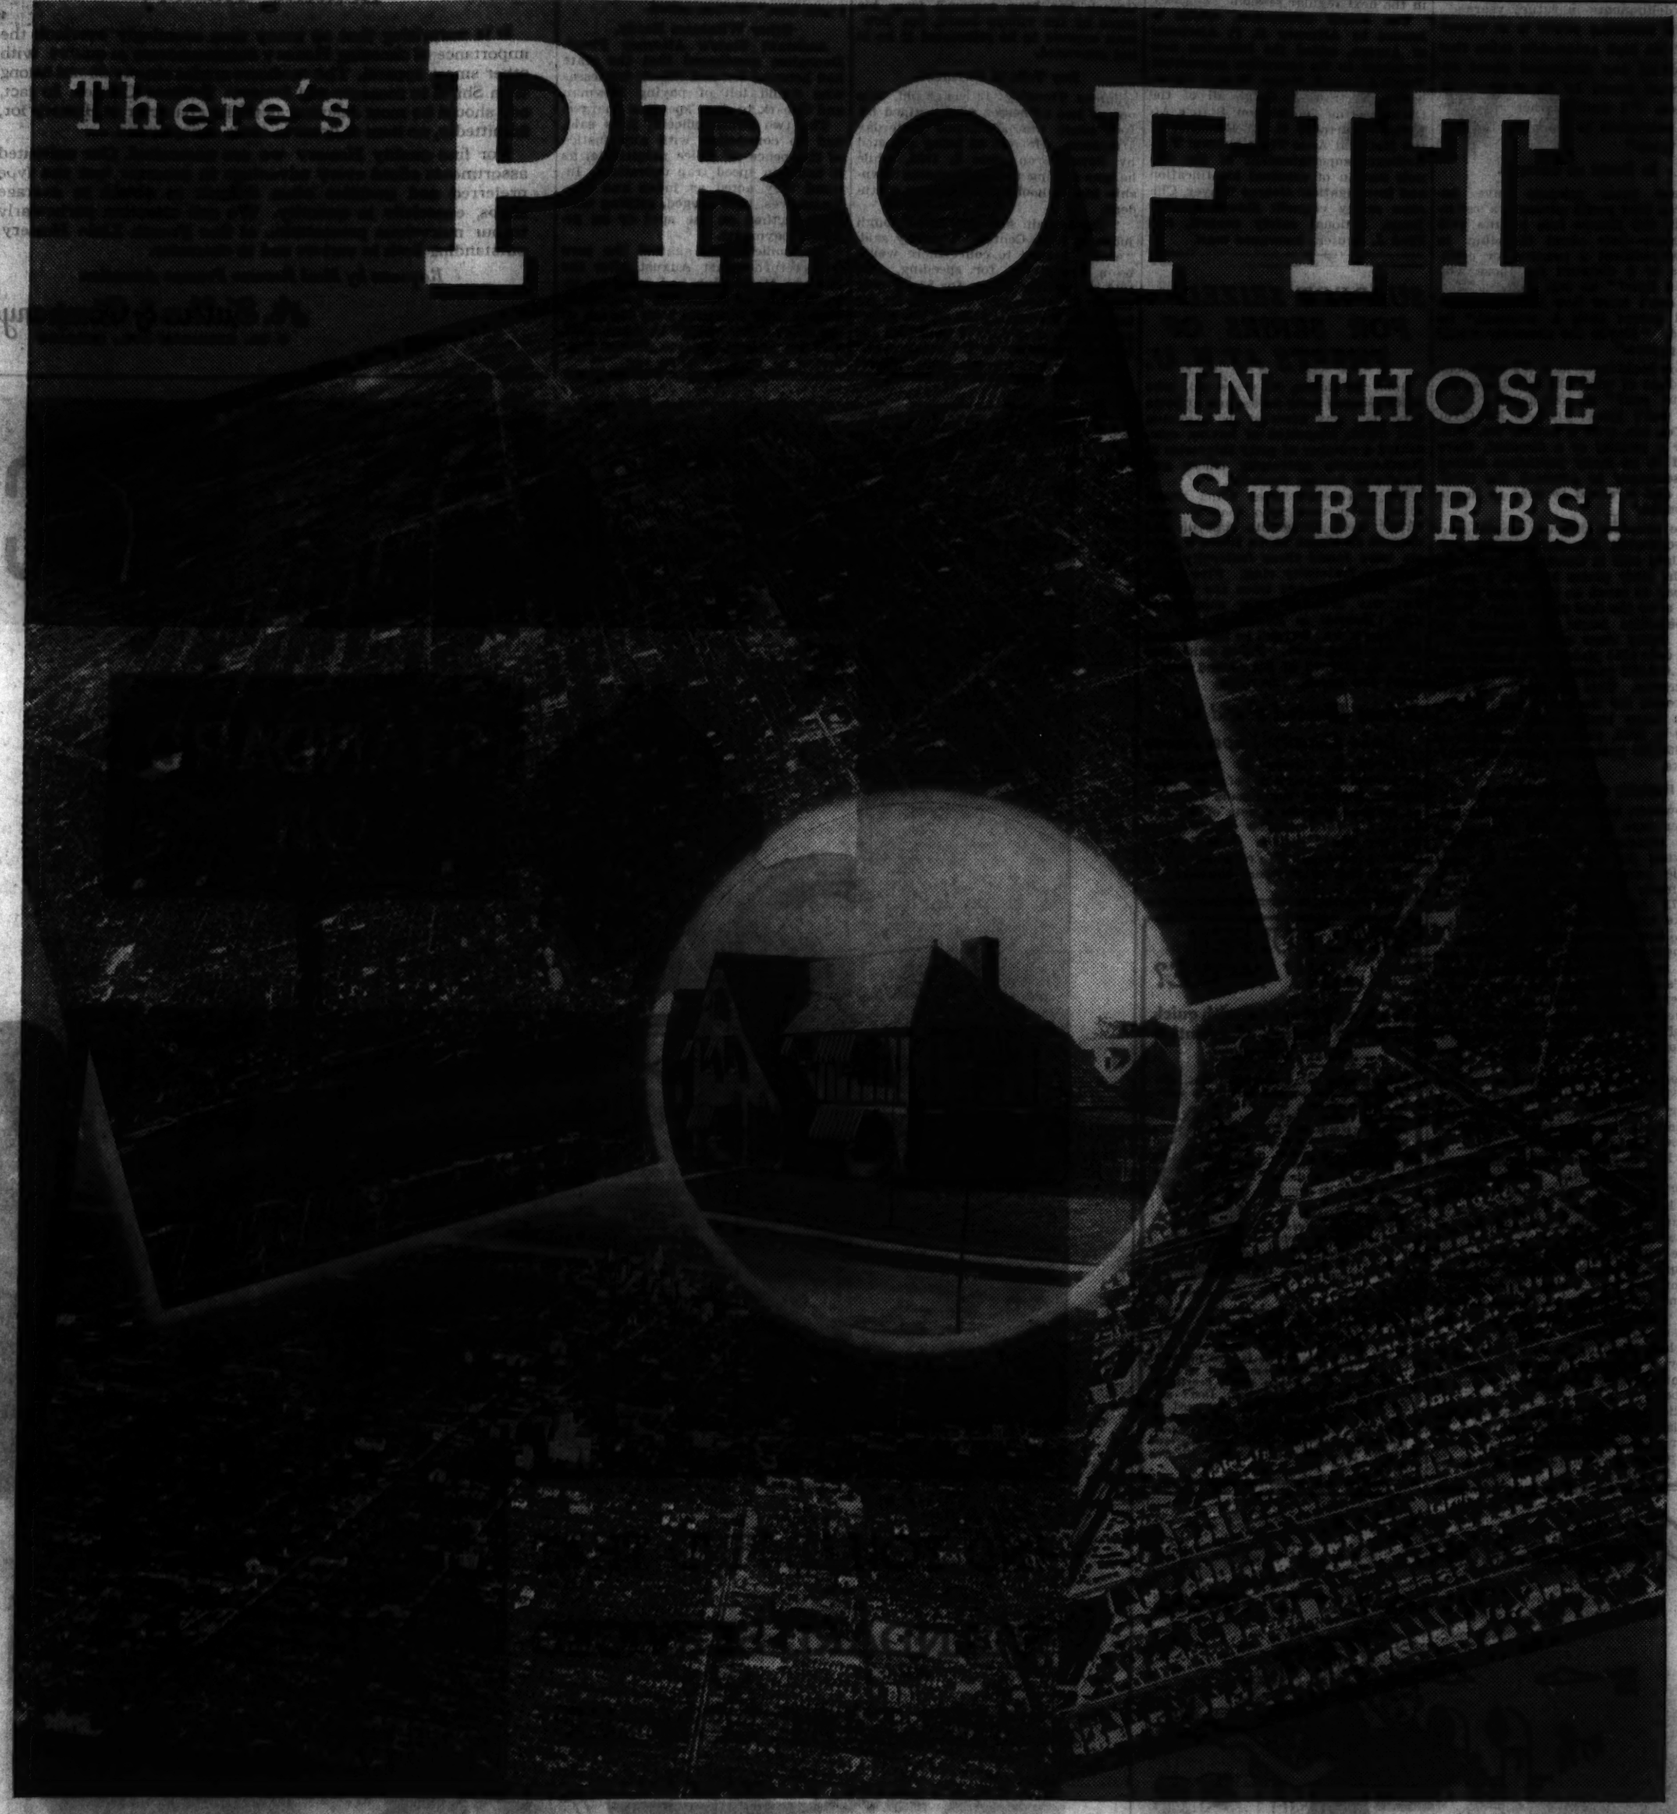
There's PROFIT IN THOSE SUBURBS!



YOU ARE looking at a city that has experienced, during 1933, the most remarkable rebound of any major city in the United States. You will notice in these views through the eye of our sky reporter that Detroit is not merely a mass of factories, congested, noisome. Those suburbs, stretching away by lake and river and out into the fertile inland fields, are among the pleasantest and most prosperous in the country. Yet they are all a part of the whole. Except in the purchase of commodities such as groceries, perhaps, those suburbs make their purchases in metropolitan Detroit. The whole vista is part of the Detroit trading area, the fourth richest market in America!

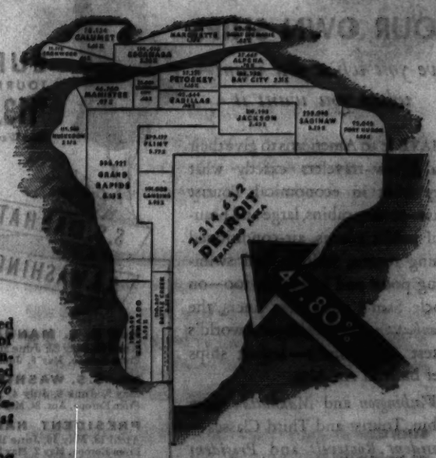
There are six counties comprising the Detroit retail trading area. Within that area live 2,300,000 people, almost half the entire population of the state of Michigan. Six counties that pay more than 59% of the entire Michigan state tax. Twelve municipalities that do their buying in Detroit.

In the Detroit trading area The News has 42,000 more Sunday and 33,000 more week-day circulation than the next paper. Furthermore, 84% of the Sunday and 94% of the week-day circulation is concentrated in the local trading area where resides 48% of the total population of Michigan.

The Detroit News is the outstanding home paper of Detroit. This has been demonstrated over and over again by the most painstaking surveys. But perhaps the greatest evidence of this is the importance attached to The Detroit News by the retail advertisers of Detroit, whose advertising is tested day after day by the actual response of readers.

In 1933, as in previous years, The Detroit News was the overwhelming first choice of each of the five largest retail advertisers in Detroit. These five largest department stores used 132% more space in The Detroit News than in the second paper—32% more in The News than in the other two papers combined. The Detroit News carried as much total advertising as both other papers combined.

The great leadership of The News is the result of natural demand. It is a newspaper edited by Detroiters for the people of Detroit.



● Here in the Detroit trading area is concentrated 47.80% of Michigan's total population; 37% of Michigan's wage earners; 65% of Michigan's income tax returns; and 59% of Michigan's assessed valuation. The Detroit News has better than 84% of its Sunday and 94% of its week-day circulation concentrated in this area—the largest circulation of any Detroit newspaper!

MISSING HEAD OF N. Y. AGED'S HOME FOUND, ARRESTED

Indicted for Treatment of His Charges.

New York, April 4.—[Special.]—Louis J. McNally, former superintendent of the City Home for Dependents on Welfare Iland, who has been missing since March 5, was arrested today by detectives of the district attorney's office. McNally was indicted yesterday on charges growing out of the investigation into conditions at the city home for dependents.

The arrest was made on lower Broadway on bench warants which were issued yesterday immediately after the indictment was returned.

"I've just come from the country," McNally was quoted as saying. "I am on my way to see a friend and arrange to get a lawyer."

Bail Set at $5,000.

McNally was taken before a judge and held in $5,000 bail for a hearing.

The prisoner refused to discuss his whereabouts since March 5, when he and his wife vanished.

Indicted with McNally was John J. Smith, head overseer at the city home. They are accused of violating the public nuisance statute and of violating section 1123 of the penal code, which relates to the injury to the life or health of incompetent persons.

McNally disappeared when the investigation of the management of the city home was begun by Commissioner of Accounts Paul Blanshard and his special counsel, Irving Ben Cooper.

Results of Inquiry.

That inquiry showed that aged and helpless inmates of the institution were deprived of their life savings by McNally and other officials of the home; that the aged, the sick and the dying were subjected to cruel and inhuman treatment, and that persons with no medical training or medical advice or supervision were permitted to "diagnose" cases of illness and administer treatment.

McNally resigned as superintendent of the city home for dependents in January, at the request of Commissioner S. S. Goldwater of the department of hospitals.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Good-by to Rats

APRIL 4, 1934.

WITH the rats in the horse barn having been fed red squill poison baits and waylaid with traps, things are pretty quiet around the barn this morning. Whereas a week ago the barn was simply overrun with big, well fed house rats, today the place is mighty quiet. You don't hear the shrill squealing of the animals or see them running through the horse stalls.

Trapping with strong spring traps was the first step in the rat campaign. Up to yesterday 24 were caught this way in the stalls. Two days ago, I shot four with a .22 caliber rifle. Then scores of small red squill baits wrapped in paper were distributed in the barn, pumphouse and granary. The rats went for them baits in a big way. It was good-by to all of them that enjoyed the feast of ground meat, sirup, and red squill powder.

Of course, not every rat has been killed by this attack. That is too much to expect. Today, however, a mop-up campaign will begin. Traps baited with chunks of bacon will be placed in the barn to catch the stragglers.

There is a strange love match under way at the pond where the mallard ducks, swans, and geese make their homes. A handsome, aristocratic white swan, just about the most striking bird you ever saw, is enamored of a wild goose. Last week, when the wild geese were mating, everybody was surprised to see this high hat swan paying court to the wild goose. Wherever the goose went Mr. Swan trailed behind her. They swam around the big pond utterly oblivious to the rest of the birds. We all wished we had some way of finding out what the rest of the swans and geese think about this scandal.

When Rawlings and I walked up to a big flock of mallards which had been visiting with the domesticated mallards they flew away with considerable quacking. Close to the water line we saw a pair of mated geese keeping an eye on their nest, which already has one egg in it. Some distance away a pair of swans had started their new home, a big nest, which already is five inches high. While tramping through the wet grass and bog at the edge of the pond we never were able to get more than seven or eight feet from Pat, the swan that acts as the watchdog of the place. This big bird followed us and threatened us every step of our inspection tour. We could hear and see many song birds on all sides of the pond. Starlings [now becoming far too numerous] sailed overhead. Flickers sounded their calls from the woods nearby. For the first time this spring we could hear the frogs giving a concert in competition with the melodious honking of the Canada geese.

Spring for 50 steers here on the farm means being taken off of rough feed and being put on a grain ration. Clarence has selected this bunch of 50 to get them ready for an early market. Possible shortage of pasture plus a fair prospect for a good market are reasons behind this move. These steers weighed an average of 637 pounds when purchased. In the lot are 37 black Angus steers, with the rest Shorthorns and Herefords. They are going to get cracked shelled corn, alfalfa hay, and a little oil meal to start. After three weeks they will be on full feed for fattening purposes.

SLUMS COSTLY TO CITY, SURVEY FIGURES SHOW

Twice as Expensive as the Better Areas.

Cleveland, O., April 4.—(AP)—Cold, hard figures showing that slum districts, despite their congestion, squalor and low standards of living, cost a city more than twice as much as an average metropolitan area of equal population were presented today in one of the most complete surveys of its kind ever prepared.

The survey, taking a Cleveland slum as an example, was prepared with the counsel of Howard Whipple Green, consultant of the PWA's division of housing, at the request of Robert D. Kohn, federal housing director.

Police and Fire Costs High.

In a typical area of Cleveland's slums the survey found 2.47 per cent of the city's population which, because of problems peculiar to slum areas, required 14.6 per cent of the city's fire department costs, 6.5 per cent of the police costs, and many other expenses as high or higher. The area's cost for all expenses was approximately six per cent of the city's total.

With a population of 22,236, an appraised value of $8,153,000 for private land and buildings, and a tax rate income of $225,000, this slum area in 1932 cost the city, county and board of education $1,857,000 and received an additional $615,000 from charity organizations.

Describing the slums as "perhaps the city's most expensive 'luxury,'" Green showed the district was receiving approximately $1,177,000 per year more than the $785,000 required by average areas here of equal population.

Economy in Rebuilding.

While not all of the excess cost could be elminated as long as part of it represents charity, the economies which could be effected, Green asserted, would more than justify a rebuilding of the area as a slum clearance project. He particularly pointed out that all private buildings in the district have a combined total value of only $4,985,000.

Probably the largest single economy which might be expected if the area were rebuilt would be in the cost of fire protection. This item, now costing $406,159, would be only about $70,000 if the district was at the average of the whole city.

The report asserted if the district were rebuilt police costs also should drop considerably, and added that "the misery of the inhabitants should become less acute and the menace to the entire community which any section of crime, vice, delinquency and disease is bound to be should be greatly reduced if not entirely eliminated."

BOY KILLED PLAYING WITH GUN.

Oliver Green, 11 years old, colored, shot and fatally wounded himself yesterday when a revolver with which he was playing in his home, 423 East Forty-fifth place, accidentally discharged.

TAMMANY FACES NEW CRISIS; SEEK SCALP OF CURRY

New York, April 4.—(AP)—Split by the dissension that followed upon its loss of the city government last fall, historic Tammany Hall appeared tonight to be heading swiftly toward a crisis that may determine whether the tiger will die or change its stripes and go on living.

Disgruntled by the loss of their prestige in the city, tantalized by the juicy plums of federal patronage just out of their reach, and none too optimistic about next fall's legislative elections, a band of insurgent braves is in full cry after the scalp of their chief—John P. Curry.

Curry, son of an Irish cattle drover and veteran of many a wigwam scuffle, turns a bland poker face on questioners and says he plans to keep his chieftain's haddress intact for some time.

The insurgents came out into the open after a meeting Monday night, when they claimed to have rounded up enough votes on the executive committee to depose Curry.

While their claim appears to have been a little premature, the fact remains that Curry's leadership has been openly challenged and the next few days may bring a showdown.

With 25 votes in the executive committee, the current division appears to be: For Curry, 15 1-2 votes; against Curry, 9 2-3.

NEW YORK ASSEMBLY MOVES TOWARD FREER LAWS ON DIVORCES

Albany, N. Y., April 4.—(AP)—The assembly of the New York legislature moved today toward liberalization of New York's divorce laws, which are among the strictest in the union.

Two bills were advanced for a final vote in the face of a strong attack. They make three years "willful desertion" grounds for divorce. At present New York grants divorces only for adultery.

Assemblyman Luke O'Reilly, Brooklyn, Democrat, described the bills as "work relief measures for starving lawyers," and said they would "place New York on the level with Hollywood, Reno, and other tank towns."

Several other Democrats attacked the bills as opening the way to "divorces of convenience."

Assemblyman I. Arnold Ross, who sponsors the bills said the measures were backed by "most of the religious organizations in the state."

"Do they have the support of any Roman Catholic organization?" O'Reilly asked.

"No," Ross replied.

LOTTERY BILL BEFORE NEW YORK STATE ASSEMBLY

Albany, N. Y., April 4.—(AP)—At the request of Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, a bill was introduced in the legislature today to permit New York City to raise relief funds through a lottery.

The plan, according to its sponsors, would raise between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 with prizes of $260,000.

Assemblymen Ernest Lappano, New York Republican, said he received the bill from Mayor La Guardia and James J. Lyons, borough president of the Bronx, this morning.

The measure avoids any reference to the term lottery. To get around the constitutional provision which prohibits lotteries in New York state, the sponsors of the measure propose to operate the plan as a membership corporation.

COUNCIL HEALTH GROUP INDORSES "SUNSHINE" MILK

The city council committee on health last night adjourned its hearings on the merits of adding vitamin D to Chicago's milk supply, as provided in an ordinance passed by the council Monday, with the understanding that in its final sessions this morning the ordinance would be recommended for the signature of Mayor Kelly.

According to Ald. Thomas J. Terrell [29th], chairman of the committee, the way would be cleared this week if possible to provide for the sale of "sunshine" milk in Chicago "at an early date." The ordinance under discussion would so amend the city's milk ordinance as to permit dairy companies to add the vitamins to milk under regulations of the Chicago board of health.

Benefits of vitamin D in the daily diet were cited during the hearings by representatives of dairies and by medical authorities who had been called in by the health committee for an "impartial opinion." Their statements were made, however, only after several aldermen led by Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th] expressed their disapproval of the haste with which the ordinance was being carried into effect.

Mayor Kelly on Monday assured the council that if the evidence presented this week on the value of vitamin D in milk did not meet all standards and requirements as he then understood them he would veto the ordinance. The evidence presented yesterday was considered sufficiently favorable by the health committee and the dairies so that steps are being taken to supply the new milk as soon as official approval is obtained.

Sues Hotel for $250,000 Over Amebic Dysentery

Suit for $250,000 was filed yesterday in the United States District court against the Congress hotel in behalf of Charles Coburn, Vancouver, B. C., a coal dealer and mining operator. The suit, filed by Attorney Laurence B. Jacobs, charges the plaintiff contracted amebic dysentery while a guest at the hotel between Sept. 30 and Oct. 3 last year.

Beans that HIT THE SPOT!

This is not for men. This is for ladies. Ladies with hungry husbands. Tall, husky husbands who pant ravenously for grub. Or husbands short and cherubic who muse and dally over meals. Or just hungry husbands.

Heinz Oven-Baked Beans hit the spot! Hungry husbands say "Boy, oh boy! Are they good!"

Vivid memories of long-forgotten boyhood feasts come to mind. And this is because our beans are oven-baked.

We buy "choice-hand-picked" beans, sort them under strong lights, wash them, soak them in clear, cold water, bake them in dry oven heat. We bake them through and through, replacing their original moisture with sauces sweet and savory.

All this gives our beans the alluring golden-brown look, the savory aroma, the glorious flavor and pleasing munchyness that hungry husbands sigh for.

So we say keep a supply on hand. (Four kinds,* all seductive.) Thrill your husband now and then with the dish that hits the spot—oven-baked beans. And remember!—

Four Kinds*

Oven-baked beans with choice bacon pork and rich tomato sauce.

Oven-baked beans Vegetarian style—with tomato sauce, but no pork.

Oven-baked beans Boston style with pork and sweet molasses sauce.

Oven-baked red kidney beans with bacon pork and special savory sauce.

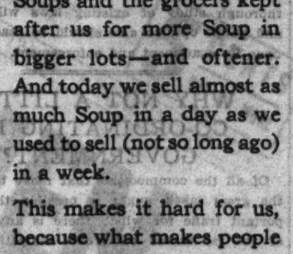
We started an EAT WAVE!

Frankly, we are flabbergasted. We thought our Soups were good—yes, and savory and delicious and satisfying, because we deliberately made them that way. We thought the people who liked good home-made foods would want to try our Soups and having tried them would come back for more. But, we didn't expect an avalanche! We didn't expect that millions of people would start craving Heinz Soups constantly, and demanding Heinz Soups insistently. And we didn't expect all the grand old die-hard home cooks who spurned and scoffed at "canned goods" to break down and admit our soups were just like theirs—only better—and easier—and thriftier.

Yet, they did! It became an Eat Wave! It swept the grocery stores bare of Heinz Soups and the grocers kept after us for more Soup in bigger lots—and oftener. And today we sell almost as much Soup in a day as we used to sell (not so long ago) in a week.

This makes it hard for us, because what makes people like our Soups at once and keep on, is the home recipe way we make them—the sound ingredients, conscientiously selected, the unhurried cooking in small batches. We have had to search far and wide to get the right good things to make them. We are working day and night over our slow, simmering kettles to keep up with the demand.



We are expanding our Soup Kitchens. And still, as always, we are testing and tasting a sample of every batch of every Soup to make sure of right flavor and food value.

We know you want soups made like this—Soup that is ready to heat and serve and enjoy with nothing to add or mix or blend, and pennies saved over home-made Soup costs. And furthermore, the Heinz Soup you delight over and insist upon will always be good enough for us to say:

ON APPROVAL!

RECOVERY, AMERICAN STYLE.

A glowing report on the local sale of automobiles during March was published in the financial section of THE TRIBUNE on Wednesday. Sales of new cars were more numerous last month than in any March since 1930. The year to year comparison was the most favorable in 13 years.

Making and selling automobiles is America's giant industry. When all is going well a half million people are employed in the auto factories. An equal number earn their livelihood selling cars and accessories for them. In addition a sizable share of the workers in a long list of other industries eat three squares daily because the automobile factories have use for their products. Even when business is humming all around, the motor vehicle factories use one-sixth of the steel, one-quarter of the lead and nickel, three-quarters of the plate glass, and seven-eighths of the rubber consumed in this country. The present active demand for automobiles is being felt through a wide range of industry.

For all this the Washington planners will claim the credit. But the car manufacturers have borrowed no money from Jesse Jones' RFC; Mr. Ickes has not spent his easy money prodigally among them, and Mr. Wallace did not on their behalf buy a million partially manufactured cars to be destroyed.

That some CWA, PWA and other gift money may have sifted through to the hands of those who have been buying cars will be granted. But this at most has been a minor influence. CWA has been pulling in its horns for a month and a half, while PWA activities have been kept at a minimum by cold weather. But it has been precisely during this period, when less and less easy money has been passed out, more and more automobiles have been bought.

The government's synthetic purchasing power has not been the initial nor even an important contributor to the automobile revival. Car buying began to pick up in an identical way in 1922, signaling the business revival of the early '20s, and at that time government expenditures of all kinds were being steadily curtailed. Then the replacement of inefficient, outmoded touring cars was prompted once it was evident that the country was not going to the dogs. And now the economy of the improved 1934 automobiles has proved widely appealing, with a world-wide recovery in progress.

Washington, however, has not been willing to let the automobile manufacturers alone. And the interference has been almost wholly detrimental. Working through the NRA, the steel companies have been enabled to combine to raise the price of the automobile manufacturer's raw materials. Shorter hours and higher wages, thanks to NRA, have added further to his costs of production. The result is that car prices have had to be raised, just as the public was beginning to be attracted in numbers by the prevailing prices. The price advances so far announced have been moderate, but any considerable further increase in costs resulting in forcing up of selling prices is bound to check an industry which is leading in business revival.

The government has tried to revive the railroads, but the blueblood New York Central is still hocking the family jewels with Uncle Jesse. Three billion dollars was scattered around in an upright manner in the construction industry by Secretary Ickes without bringing any customers to the city building permit office. We are all paying consumer taxes to help the farmer, but Secretary Wallace now says that they can't be helped where they are, but must be moved some place where the helping will be easier.

The ruggedly individualistic, competitive automobile industry is helping itself out of this depression and its success is stimulating other lines. Agriculture, railroads and the construction industry have had their recovery managed for them, and they are still on the dole. The contrast should throw some light on the merits of the two methods of securing business revival.

PORK IN CITY PAVEMENTS.

Eighteen million dollars is to be spent by the city, the county, the state, and the federal government in highway construction this year in Cook county. Pavements are to be laid here, there and everywhere. Some of them will be useful, but, if the program is viewed as a whole, it looks like pork. Local needs and ambitions (including those associated with real estate speculations) are being catered to, while the welfare of the motorists who will pay the greater part of the bill when it is paid is being pretty largely overlooked, as usual.

What the motorists of this community want is pure, elevated highways through the congested areas to the southwest, west and northwest. Such highways will provide the motorists with safe and speedy routes, and will, of course, promote the safety of pedestrians as well. Road money spent for any other purpose in Chicago is not being spent to the best advantage.

RESTRAINT OF RECKLESS DRIVING.

It is to be hoped the legislature will pass the driver's license and the responsibility bills early in the next session. The latter measure has been perfected by much discussion and is similar to acts in operation in 39 other states and the District of Columbia, where, the general counsel of the Chicago Motor club, Mr. Braun, testifies, they have reduced reckless driving. The bill drafted by Mr. Braun would suspend the license of any driver found liable in an accident suit if he fails to pay the judgment within 30 days after the judgment becomes final. He must also prove ability to pay judgment damages for future accidents before his license to drive is restored, and an insurance policy is declared by the bill to be evidence of such ability.

This plan does not provide for compulsory insurance, which has not worked well where adopted, and it is believed will bring better results, promoting safety rather than merely assuring money compensation for victims of bad driving.

A meeting to win public support for this well considered legislation will be called at Springfield within a month under the auspices of the Illinois Conference on Highway Safety Legislation. Invitations have been sent to 900 organizations and a vigorous campaign will be launched to direct public attention effectively toward insuring the enactment of the proposed laws at the regular session next year. The general assembly of 1933 failed to act through a conflict of proposals, and this failure, which is being paid for by a continuance of our deplorable conditions and by the maintenance of our high insurance rates, should not be repeated. Legislation founded on experience and thorough study of existing laws will be ready and public opinion also should be ready to insist upon its enactment and enforcement.

WHY NOT A LITTLE CO-ORDINATING BY GOVERNMENT?

Of all the commodities that move by water on the great lakes, sugar is possibly the only important traffic for which there is any semblance of the far famed cutthroat competition which appears to be Mr. Eastman's main excuse for recommending that the federal government enter the field of steamship management with its so-called regulation. The railways do not compete for the coal, ore, sand, gypsum or grain movements—genuine water transportation has put this tonnage beyond reach—but they do make a bid for the sugar.

For the last two seasons sugar rates as quoted by various interested barge lines have been well stabilized at $2.70 per ton for the haul west of Buffalo on sugar from New York, such basis having been adjusted to a nicety with the rates quoted by lines that do not break bulk in transit, and with the barge, barge-rail and all-rail rates from New Orleans to Chicago. But the whole adjustment bids fair to be wrecked this year by announcement of the Federal Barge lines that they will no longer be satisfied with eighty per cent of rail rates for the haul from New Orleans to Chicago and will, effective April 1, establish schedules based on seventy-five per cent of rail levels, thereby forcing the readjustment of the Buffalo-Chicago and New York-Chicago sugar rate levels.

A suggestion for a coördinator of government activities might be in order. Within a relatively short period the National Recovery administration has indicated that the code for the shipping industry must provide eight hour shifts for the sailors, thus increasing operating expenses to the extent of perhaps twenty-five per cent for additional wages and accommodation. In other lines of endeavor the increase in wages is presumed to be passed along to improve commodity prices, but in this particular instance a second government agency, the Federal Barge lines, starts a rate war, supported by the long pocketbook of the government, to decrease the revenues of the vessels.

Finally, a third government authority, the federal coördinator of transportation, futher complicates the situation by issuing a manifesto deploring the depredations of unbridled competition on the revenue of water carriers, apparently overlooking the fact that in this instance, at least, the government itself is the bad boy.

LOCAL OPTION.

Five suburbs of Chicago, Evanston, Oak Park, River Forest, Glencoe, and Winnetka, have voted to forbid the sale of liquor. It is to be hoped and expected that other residential areas in and around the city will not be slow to follow their example. This kind of liquor regulation is desirable and enforceable. It is impossible, as we now know, to prevent persons who wish to drink from obtaining intoxicants, but it is possible for a community which does not want saloons to keep them out. All of these suburbs opposed prohibition. They did so not because they wanted saloons in their towns but because they didn't.

KENTUCKY'S GREAT PARK.

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Approval by the national forest commission of the addition of 378,000 acres surrounding Cumberland Falls State park to the acreage already approved in the eastern Kentucky federal forest brings the total to nearly a million acres. The acquisition of so vast a tract to be devoted to timber and watershed protection is a rehabilitation project of the first rank, with great implications for Kentucky. From the start it should absorb the activities and provide a future for the young men of Kentucky's quota of the conservation corps now encamped and training in the region.

It has other aspects. When Boone came through the Gap he found, as Dr. Thomas Walker found before him when surveying for the Loyal Land company in 1750, an illimitable forest. By 1930 approximately five-sixths of Kentucky's forest wealth had disappeared. It is estimated that if this trend went on, in ten years the forests of Kentucky would lose all practical value.

Reclamation of this district promises the resumption of the original timber industry—this time upon a scientific basis. The choice of this section as the logical place for forestry, as it should be practiced for an annual profit and a livelihood for the population, is sound. The region is beyond the possibility of recovery by private means, and only such action could save it and its population from disintegration.

Here is a sign of great hope for southeastern Kentucky, and its friends will hope this beginning prove

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. —Ed.

IT WASN'T TWO MINUTES after I had read the front page story about Richard Joshua Reynolds Jr. coming into his fortune of $21,000,000 when a man stepped up and asked for a dime to get something to eat. "Shame on you," said I; "there is a young man I have just read of who has $21,000,000. Why haven't you got $22,000,000? Or maybe you have; you're concealing it from me." "No," said the man earnestly, "I haven't got $22,000,000, honestly I haven't." "Not this minute, possibly," I admitted, "but you'll probably come into your $22,000,000 tomorrow." "Not a chance in the world," said the man. "But," I insisted, "this is a land of equal opportunity. If, as you say, you haven't $22,000,000, why haven't you? That young man I was speaking of has $22,000,000. Then why haven't you got $22,000,000?" "I don't know," said the man; "I've worked hard since I was a boy. I've tried to save, but I never could get far ahead. I've had no regular work for the last three years, and I failed to get a job in the CWA. But," and he looked at me intently, "of course in this land of opportunity you have $22,000,000, so you wouldn't mind in the least letting me have a dime. Or perhaps, under the circumstances, I should say a quarter." I gave him the quarter and walked away quite rapidly. For, to tell the honest truth, I haven't got $22,000,000. I don't know why, it's hard to understand, but I just haven't. And I can prove it.

FREE AGAIN.

This is the end of sorrow,
This is the end of pain:
I shall be free tomorrow,
I shall be free again—
I shall be done with rapture,
I shall live fat and slow,
Never again to capture,
Never again to know
Love like the love we nourished,
Love like the love we've known,
Only, when it had flourished,
Only, when it had grown,
To see it give to sorrow,
To see it give to pain.
I shall be free tomorrow . . .
Free to find pain again.

EVANSTON, Oak Park, and other suburbs around Chicago have voted to remain bone dry. But that doesn't mean that if you're going out to any of those arid places for Sunday dinner or a bridge party on Saturday night you will have to carry your own grog. Oh, dear, no! Bone dry though they be, there'll be something in the cocktail shaker and Old John Barleycorn will come walking right in, now you just wait and see. What! You don't believe it! Well, then, you've never lived in a prohibition town, that's all.

THE END OF THE WORLD, or something like that, is in sight. The president of France has cut his own salary twenty per cent. When any Frenchman, any Frenchman at all, cuts his own pay twenty per cent that means the end of the world, that's all. Listen, was that Gabriel blowing his horn? No, that was just an auto backfiring. All right; nevertheless it's the end of all things, you'll see.

AUBADE.

Once I sat beside my window
Listening to a bird;
Listening to a complex language
But a few had heard.

A cardinal said to another,
"I have distaste for red."
And a sparrow to his brother,
"Duck your ugly head."

But a robin, eloquently
Sweeping down the walk,
Said: "Will these undergraduates
Ever learn to talk?"

AUDITION.

Robins in the apple tree,
Cardinals on the fence,
Wax-wing of bird hierarchy
Sings a bold defense,

An opus for the jay;
And those who sleep till ten o'clock
Decide to move away.

HUMAN ANTHRAX.

UNLESS precautions are taken, those whose occupations bring them in close contact with meats, hides, and bones are in some danger of being infected by the materials they work in. Tuberculosis of the hand in butchers has been known for a long time. It sometimes goes by the name butcher's tubercle. In certain parts of the country undulant fever is fairly prevalent among butchers, raw meat appearing to be more important than raw milk in spreading the disease. Much of the tularemia is found among rabbit skinners. Human anthrax is not frequently encountered, but a large part of those who have it are handlers of hide and hair. Glanders, actinomycosis, malignant edema are diseases which man gets from association with animals or handling animal products.

An addition to the list has been made through experience in a Virginia button factory. The factory makes buttons out of bones shipped to them from various parts of the world. One of the most prevalent diseases in hogs is known as swine erysipelas. This disease is contagious and destroys a great many animals. It has been found that man can be infected by the bacillus of this disease.

It was not known that the bacillus was as tenacious of life as was demonstrated by this button factory experience. Evidently, when animals die of swine erysipelas, their carcasses still are of some commercial value. Some of the bacteria are in the bones and there is some market for bones regardless of their source. The bones used in button factories are from animals long since dead. They have been exposed to drying, to sunlight, and to other influences that disease bacteria do not stand well. Some of these bones are not only old but they have been shipped long distances. In the button factory they are sawed up into segments and these are put through punching machines and emerge as buttons.

Dr. McGinnes and Mr. Spindle investigated an outbreak of erysipeloid with some peculiar symptoms for the Virginia health department. This epidemic involved 210 persons who worked for ten months or less in a bone button factory. This factory moved from Pennsylvania about a year before and some of the men had moved with the factory. They reported that the same disease had prevailed among the factory operatives in the previous location. Epidemiologic study showed the disease to be due to the bacillus of swine erysipelas. The bacillus was found in the bones used in the factory, in the bone dust, and in the steep water as well as in the lesions of the persons infected with the disease.

In order to prevent the disease the Virginia investigation recommended that the bones used in button factories be heated to 144 degrees and held at that temperature for two hours before they are used in the factory.

SPLIT LIPS.

E. A. D. writes: During the cold weather my lower lip splits in the center and does not heal regardless of applications. I have been using a good brand of healing salve. What causes the lip to split? How can I prevent it from further splits? What would be the best treatment?

REPLY.

When fissures and sores on the lip are very hard to heal syphilitic infection should be seen and tests made. Among the causes of split lips in cold weather are living in air that is too dry and exposure to cold. To prevent such splits live in moister air, avoid exposure where possible, grease the lips before exposure, drink more water. Among the usual curative applications are those you have used. They are reasonably effective.

SICKROOM ODORS.

L. K. writes: Can you tell me of an effective deodorizer for a sickroom? I have tried chlorine crystals, but they seem to make the odor stronger. The bed clothes are changed often enough.

REPLY.

Cleanliness and good ventilation cure most sickroom odors. An open fire is an excellent measure. Exposing some charcoal in a room is good. Animal charcoal is better than that made from wood. Unslaked lime has merits. There are various deodorants on the market and they have virtues.

In some instances it is possible to mask the objectionable odor with others to which there is less objection. Much depends on the cause of the odor and the disease from which the patient suffers. Some odors are most difficult to control.

CONVEYING PROPERTY.

Chicago, March 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it legally sound or practical for a widower, past 75 years of age, the father of two children married and more than 40 years of age, both having children, to convey by warranty deed in joint tenancy to my two children and in return receive leases for rental for fifteen years or until the demise of the father [75 years old]? Real estate owned by the father is involved, the children to divide and distribute all personal property equally among themselves. 2. The purpose is to avoid a will and all costs of probate, inheritance tax and property tax; [3] also attorney fees and executor's fees. A. G.

REPLY.

1. We see no reason why the transaction should not stand unless attackers could prove undue influence or lack of mental capacity. Of course, it is another question whether you may have reason to regret the transaction.

2. Under the wording of the inheritance tax law, transactions made in contemplation of death are, on this basis, taxable. The situation is delicate enough so that we strongly advise you to employ an attorney.

3. It is poor economy to try to dispense with the services of an attorney on such a transaction.

ADMINISTRATION OF AN ESTATE.

Chicago, March 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father left a will naming a son, daughter and grandson heir, to real estate and appointed an outsider as administrator. After turning the will over to the administrator he asked us for a rather large sum of money for the expense of having the will filed in Probate court and for the cost of a guardian for the grandson. 1. What legal right has the administrator over the estate? 2. Can he file the will without the aid of an attorney? 3. How soon must will be filed? 4. Must a guardian be appointed for the grandson before will is probated? 5. Is it customary for administrator to ask for any sum of money [outside of cost of filing will] for his expenses? 6. About what is the total cost for filing of the will? A. R. S.

REPLY.

1. His powers depend on the wording of the will.

2. Depends on his abilities.

3. In some cases it is possible to dispense with probate entirely.

4. A so-called guardian ad litem must be appointed to represent him in the probate proceedings.

5. In most cases the administrator or executor is paid out of the assets of the estate.

6. Depends on facts that are not before us.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA.—Frontiers make strange complications in the lives of those who live in central Europe.

The Antonienhof, a farm once belonging to the Hungarian Count Battyanyi, now the property of a family named Popper, is suffering from its nationality difficulties as well as from economic depression.

For the famous farm lies within the domain of three sovereign states—the Czechoslovakian republic, the Austrian republic, now no longer a republic, and the kingdom of Hungary without a king. The Antonienhof lies about one-third within the boundaries of each country.

Czech Legionnaires occupied the farm on Aug. 23, 1919. They wanted to draw an international line straight through the farm, bisecting it in half, so that the stables would remain in Hungary and the dwelling houses in Czechoslovakia.

The squabble arising out of this was referred to a board of neutral diplomats, who delved deeply into the origins of the farm. They were instrumental in establishing an international line traversing the farm three ways so that Austria also came in.

The farm lies on the road from Vienna to Bratislava, as the Czechs call it, or Pressburg, as the Germans call it. The Hungarians, who used to crown their kings there, call it Poszony. When the new frontier was made a heavy pillar of Moravian granite was erected as a signpost right in the center of the farm, bearing the insignia of the three countries over which the fields are distributed.

The administration of the farm is not an easy job. Once manure from the Hungarian section was needed over the Czech line and the following procedure was involved:

The Bratislava trade regulation commission was asked to allow the transport of the manure across the line; this body in turn asked the Prague National bank, as trustee of the farm, for its consent, which had also to bear the approval of the ministry of agriculture. Both the Czech and the Hungarian statistical bureau demanded about the equivalent of $20 in registration fees. Finally the Bratislava trade commission sent the permit to haul the manure from the Hungarian side to the Czech side of the farm, but by that time the Czechs didn't need any more of the Hungarian manure.

All posters and documents on the farm must be made out in three languages—Czech, Hungarian, and German.

The farm has seventy families as tenants. Of these 35 live in Austria, 25 in Czechoslovakia, and 20 in Hungary.

The international line dividing the farm up into thirds is perhaps the most unique one in the world. Hungarian wheat grows on one side, Czech barley on the other, and Austrian grain in another sector. The reapers work in all three countries represented, but at times, when feeling is bad between the three countries or between any two of them, workers must show their passports and they must be careful not to mix the crops of one country with the crops of another.

It is reported that a prize Czech bull one day failed to heed the orders of the Hungarian border police to keep on his own side of the line and was shot dead.

HASN'T CHANGED THE NATURE OF THE BEAST

PARK POLICE.

Chicago, March 30.—There are twenty-two park districts in the city of Chicago. Each district is under the direct supervision of its local board. In three of the twenty-two districts the Lincoln park, south park and west park, the conditions under which the patrolmen work are quite similar to those which govern our local police department. The patrolman who are stationed in any one of these districts cannot be discharged without first having the opportunity of a trial before a trial board. They are also entitled to a pension after serving a certain number of years. The patrolmen stationed in the remaining nineteen districts are expected to carry out the same duties required by the Lincoln park, south park, and west park districts, but in return receive no pension benefits and can on a moment's notice lose their positions without just cause.

The unfairness of the existing conditions must be apparent to any fair minded individual. There is absolutely no reason for any discrimination to be shown between the separate park districts. There is only one logical solution to the entire situation, and that is to bring the Chicago parks under one system by voting for park consolidation and have the laws and regulations of each uniform. A. TIGER.

HOME ON THE RANGE.

Chicago, March 31.—Dr. Herman Bundesen, our health commissioner, seems to have the amebic dysentery situation pretty well under control. I notice he stresses the importance of keeping hotels and public places free from roaches.

I happened to be in the city hall the other day, in Dr. Bundesen's department, and noticed that some of the departments are alive with roaches and other bugs. Inasmuch as the city hall is a very public place it seems to me that the employés are being subjected to unnecessary hazards here and it certainly gives a pretty poor example to people who visit the offices. What do you think? J. B.

THE EASTER CARTOON.

Chicago, April 1.—I wish to express my hearty appreciation and my thanks as a Christian citizen of this commonwealth for the beautiful and significant cartoon which appeared on the front page of THE TRIBUNE this morning. It is so good and satisfying in these times of change, ofttimes of decay and certainly of danger, to have a great newspaper remind its readers of the fact that our American civilization is founded on the eternal truth of God and of Christ, His Son, and it will stand despite all the futile rages of its enemies and their efforts to break it down, "because it was founded on a rock."

My hearty and sincere thanks to you and to Mr. Orr, your brilliant cartoonist.
SARAH F. ADAMS.

POLISH SPELLING.

Chicago, March 29.—On March 24 THE TRIBUNE published a statement about Mr. Szymczak favoring a simple pronunciation of his name.

THE TRIBUNE writer seems to ignore the fact that Mr. S. has a Polish name and that Polish names are spelled strictly in accordance with the rules of Polish orthography, which is so simplified that a person with a fair elementary education in Polish can write out any Polish word and any Polish name, no matter how long it is or how complicated it appears, without first asking the question of "How do you spell it?" A Pole is a sort of an expert speller without taking a single spelling lesson, since such a subject as a spelling lesson in Polish schools is nonexistent.

Mr. S. cannot simplify his name unless he wants to misspell it.

The stumbling block in the pronunciation of Mr. S.'s name is the letter z, which appears twice. This letter in Polish serves identically the same purpose as the letter h in English whenever it follows the letter c or s, and the effect in both languages is nearly the same.
Z. M. PURZYCKI.

THE WAGNER BILL.

Chicago, March 30.—I am surprised that no one has yet called attention to the danger of the Wagner bill to us suffering consumers and for that matter to the union man himself. Just let any plumber who does not belong to the local union try to get a membership. Let a structural iron worker who can find no work in his home town try to get it elsewhere and see what his union card is worth to him. The end and aim of every union is monopoly of all the jobs in sight, and if any poor devil out of work wants to join, why, it's just too bad.

The consumer is still worse off, as it's an open secret that the milk drivers' union is trying to force the consumer to deal only with the "big four" and put all competing concerns out of business, and until recently the cleaners and dyers' union used the same tactics.

This bill will put workingman and consumer at the mercy of such men as have repeatedly been exposed as using their union to rob the public and furnish jobs only to the favored few.
WILLIAM MELLEN.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS.

Chicago, April 1.—Your articles entitled "Through the Looking Glass," written by a Miss Nangle, surely deserve a note of commendation. The breezy style and the manner of handling the subject of the day is interesting and read by both men and women, judging from the discussions I have heard.

Last Thursday's article was so thoroughly enjoyed that I felt it a duty to write in about it. MARIE BURNS.

V. S. PETTERSON, CITY OFFICIAL, DIES SUDDENLY

Heart Attack Is Fatal at His Home.

Victor S. Petterson, deputy city controler since August of 1929 and a city employé for eighteen years, died suddenly last night at his home, 909 West Garfield boulevard. Heart disease supposedly was the cause of death.

Mr. Petterson suffered a heart attack last Saturday morning while working on his automobile and had to be carried into his home, it was reported. He apparently recovered, but had not been in his office since. City Controler Robert B. Upham said that he talked to Mr. Petterson at about 6 o'clock last evening and that the deputy controler said he was feeling well.

Clergyman Calls Doctor.

His condition took a change for the worse about two hours later and Msgr. Daniel Byrnes of the nearby Visitation church was summoned. He in turn called Dr. H. Louis Mishkin, 5501 South Halsted street. Dr. Mishkin, who had not previously attended Mr. Petterson, pronounced him dead when he arrived.

Although Dr. Mishkin and Msgr. Byrnes confirmed the fact of his death soon afterward, it was steadfastly denied at the house. A guard stationed at the door insisted to callers that Mr. Petterson was still alive. This unusual situation caused the Englewood station to send two policemen to the house, who learned that the death took place as the physician and priest had said, soon after 8 p. m. No explanation of the denials was given. Dr. Henry Hofmann, 6901 Oglesby avenue, who was Mr. Petterson's physician, could not be located.

A Graduate of Columbia.

Mr. Petterson held the degree of bachelor of science from Columbia university, and before entering the city service he spent a number of years in South America until forced by tropic fevers to return to a temperate climate.

He was employed in mining and railway construction engineer work, and worked four years for the Panama railroad. He entered the controler's office in 1916 as a civil service employé, and after that raised his standing by competitive examinations until 1929.

That year he was appointed deputy controler to take charge of the city's finance offices. Among his duties in that position was the one of compiling the city's budget each year.

Mr. Petterson, a widower, is survived by a daughter, Dorothy, 18, and a son, Victor Jr., 10.

John F. Dillon, Motion Picture Director, Dead

Hollywood, Cal., April 4.—(AP)—John Francis Dillon, 46, prominent motion picture director, died in an emergency hospital tonight of heart disease. He went to the office of his physician, Dr. R. C. Nelson, who saw his condition was critical and took him to the hospital, where he died shortly afterward. Dillon, former stage actor, wrote an original story for the late Jack Pickford before becoming a director for Fox. He was born in New York and educated at St. Francis Xavier college there.

Admiral Gordon Moore Dead at 72 in London

LONDON, April 4.—(AP)—Admiral Sir Archibald Gordon Moore, one-time director of naval ordnance and torpedoes, died tonight. He was 72 years old.

MOTHER, 2 CHILDREN DROWNED.

Susquehanna, Pa., April 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Erving Hibbard, her three year old son and four months old daughter were drowned today in a pond near their home in Rush township.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Daddy's Little Joke

SISTER ANGELITA OF MUNDELEIN COLLEGE IS DEAD

Funeral services for Sister Mary Angelita, B. V. M., literary scholar, author, and head of the English department at Mundelein college, 6363 Sheridan road, who died Tuesday at Mount Carmel infirmary, in Dubuque, Ia., following an illness of four months, will be held today in the Mount Carmel convent chapel.

Sister Mary Angelita, author of "Starshine and Candlelight," a volume of poems, was a member of the Catholic Poetry Society of America and a contributor to America, Commonweal, Star Dust, and other magazines. The February issue of the Catholic World contained an article by the sister on "Forbears of Some English Words." She also had a volume of essays in preparation.

Born, Mary Angelita Stackhouse in Vincennes, Ind., in 1878, she studied at Clarke college, De Paul university, Marquette university, and received her master's degree from the University of Notre Dame. The sister entered the congregation of the Sisters of Charity, B. V. M., in 1898 and was appointed to head Mundelein's English department in 1930.

Although in failing health, Sister Mary Angelita continued her work at Mundelein college until November of last year, when, after receiving medical attention in Chicago, she was taken to the infirmary of her congregation. She continued acting as absent head of the English department until the second semester. A high mass for the sister will be sung tomorrow morning in the college auditorium. The entire student body will attend. Sister Mary Angelita had one sister, also a religious, Sister Mary Charlotte, B. V. M.

HELD PRISONER BY GANG, SAYS CABARET GIRL

Thelma Millar, 26 years old, cabaret entertainer, who had been missing from her home at 644 Wrightwood avenue since last Saturday evening, went into a filling station at Harlem avenue and Irving Park boulevard last night and called the police to inform them she had been a victim of kidnapers. Taken to the Sheffield avenue station by Sergt. George Biederman and Sergt. Michael Richards, she told the story of her captivity.

"I was pulled into a car by two men near my home," she said. "They bound and gagged me and then drove awhile before taking me into a house, where they talked to me and tried to get me to tell where my former husband, Albert Bregar, is. I didn't know as I had not seen him since July. They starved me and beat me, trying to make me tell. I suppose they became convinced. They let me go after riding me around awhile blindfolded."

Bregar was formerly associated with Ted Newberry and Gus Winkler, gangsters who have been slain. Miss Millar also was friendly with Newberry and Winkler.

SUES TO BREAK $1,136,500 WILLS OF THREE AUNTS

Nephew Alleges Fraud in Bequests.

Suit to break the will of Hannah Templeton, wealthy Evanston spinster, who bequeathed $400,000 to Chicago charities and institutions affiliated with the Presbyterian church was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by her nephew, Robert Lathrop Templeton of South Bend, Ind. Attorney Guy M. Blake, counsel for Templeton, disclosed that he has filed similar action against the wills of Miss Templeton's two sisters, Jessie and Mary, who died before her.

The other Templeton sisters left charity bequests totaling $736,500. In the event the wills are set aside Robert Templeton, another nephew, Thomas Templeton of Glendale, Cal.; a niece, Mrs. Mary Templeton Morton of Tacoma, Wash., and Robert Templeton, a brother of the sisters, will divide the $1,136,500 which the sister bequeathed to charity.

Seeks Half of Total.

Under the statutory division Robert Templeton would receive half of this sum and the other half would be divided equally among the nephews and the niece. Robert Lathrop Templeton is the only complainant in the three suits, but Attorney Blake said the other nephew and niece would join with him.

The bill filed yesterday charged that the will purported to have been executed by Hannah Templeton on Dec. 30, 1931, is not her will. It alleged that she was 83 years old at the time and was not of sound and disposing mind and memory. The bill asserted that "if the pen signing the will were in her hand, some other person guided it" and that the defendants "exercised undue arts and fraudulent practices" in the execution of the will.

Charities Are Defendants.

The defendants are the charitites benefiting by the will and the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, as trustee and executor of the estate. Mrs. Morton and Thomas and Robert Templeton are nominal defendants. Attorney Blake said similar charges are made in the other two bills. The brother and the nephew and niece received specified legacies in all of the wills.

Under the terms of Hannah Templeton's will, her brother, Robert, is the beneficiary of a $100,000 trust fund, the two nephews and the niece each receive $5,000 and friends divide $13,000. The balance of the estate is divided in the following proportions: Board of pensions of the Presbyterian church of the United States, 40 per cent, and 10 per cent each to the Women's and Children's hospital, the Chicago Orphan asylum, the Scottish Old Peoples' home at Riverside, the Chicago Foundlings' home, the Home for Destitute and Crippled Children, and the United Charities of Chicago. Hannah Templeton died Feb. 10, 1933.

Other Sisters' Gifts.

Both Jessie and Mary Templetin, who left charity gifts of $500,000 and $236,500, respectively, directed that the funds be distributed in shares of 10 per cent each to the Chicago Y. M. C. A., the Chicago Orphan asylum, the United Charities, the board of international missions of the Presbyterian church; in shares of 5 per cent to the Women's and Children's hospital, the old peoples' home, the Presbyterian board of pensions; and in shares of 15 per cent to the church extension board of the Presbyterian church, the board of foreign missions and the Presbyterian hospital.

Jessie Templeton died Oct. 25, 1931. Mary Templeton died Jan. 24, 1932. All of the sisters had resided at 1128 Forest avenue, Evanston.

Wife Wins Decree from Coffee Throwing Mate

On her testimony that her husband threw hot coffee in her face, Mrs. Evelyn M. Marblestone, 24 years old, of 5644 Ridge avenue, was granted a divorce by Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday from Nathan H. Marblestone. Mrs. Marblestone waived alimony and was given custody of the one daughter, 2½ years old. Her lawyer, Harry X. Cole, also secured an injunction restraining the father from seeing the child.

Field's Chorus Gives Concert of Real Merit

Maria Olszewska Soloist for Program.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Maria Olszewska, once a valued contralto of the Chicago Civic Opera company, and now occupying a similar position with the Metropolitan Opera company of New York, returned to Chicago last night to be the assisting artist in the concert of the Marshall Field & Co. Choral society at Orchestra hall.

This choir, with membership indicated by its title, is now in its twenty-eighth season. It is one of the extremely able choral organizations of Chicago, limited only in its presentations by the fact that it makes infrequent public appearances.

Edgar Nelson, its conductor, has developed it to a pitch where it sings with excellent tone, with fine discipline, and with an uncommon facility for projecting words as well as melody. Not the least of its merits in its public demonstrations is the fact that it makes a point of engaging a famous assisting artist, Mme. Olszewska being a fair sample.

Mme. Olszewska, in the best of voice, appeared three times in the course of the evening, once in Handel's "Ombra Mai Fu," again in a Brahms group wherein two of the songs were little known to ordinary concert goers, finally as the soloist with the choir in Grieg's "Olaf Tryvasson." It was going back to the joys of a few years ago to hear her. The chorus specialized in operatic excerpts and part songs.

Gudmundur Kristjansson, tenor, who specializes in Scandinavian songs of all ages, appeared in a recital at Kimball hall last night. He rejoices in a brilliant voice and a dramatic manner, even though it is necessary to follow the translations of his songs to keep in touch with the proceedings.

As a matter of fact there is much in the Swedish, Danish, and Norwegian song literature that is well worth knowing although not always well known to the ordinary recital artist.

But Mr. Kristjansson went further into the little known by singing some songs from the Icelandic, and these are even better worthwhile. He was assisted by Ann Mari Hanson, soprano, who is also something of a specialist in songs of the far north.

Another season of the Young American Artists series began in Curtiss hall last night when Frederick Mueller, tenor, and Bernice Caine, pianist, gave a joint recital. Mr. Mueller would seem to have been an earnest student of songs, being well acquainted with the art of projecting mood and dramatic meaning, sometimes at the expense of pleasant tone, but always effectively.

Miss Caine has gone in thoroughly for the technic of piano playing, and was heard in some excellent Bach and Mozart performances. The program would have been the better for good proof reading, since Mr. Mueller was announced to sing none other than "Traum Durch D'Ammerung" and "La Fleur Que Tu M'avais J'etee," both of which might have been more fortunately expressed.

Shelter Club Benefits from Casino Smoker

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Katherine Hepburn, Joan Bennett, and some more of Hollywood's headline actresses may have done a never-to-be-forgotten screen version of Louisa May Alcott's classic, "Little Women," but it took Tommy Scaccia, John Strobot, Harry Whalen, and several of their friends in the Boys' Shelter club last night to interpret the story with the humor that brings an ovation from a stag audience.

At the Casino they entertained 150 of Chicago's business and professional men with the love and pathos of the March family, Jo and Meg, Amy and Beth, Mrs. March and Mr. March. The production was the "piece de resistance" of a smoker that had its inception three weeks ago when "A Committee" issued mysterious invitations for a "stag dinner and entertainment April 5 at the Casino."

Last night that "committee" revealed itself as a group of the senior members of the Boys' Shelter club interested in telling and showing several dozen friends just what the Shelter club is and does. The committee did such a good job that it registered nearly 100 new members when the party wound up just before midnight at the clubhouse at 210 Siegel street.

It was, according to record, the first time the fashionable Casino had ever been used for a smoker.

After "Little Women" had been presented, the Shelter club quartet which has Ross Lombardo, Sam Lombardo, Joe Salieva, and Frankie Lalo for its members, gave a program led off by "The Rosary" and that old, old favorite, "Darling, I Am Growing Old." Encores ran up to a half dozen.

When the program was finished taxis took the guests to the boys' club where a new boxing ring was opened with six bouts.

At the clubhouse the attention of the guests was turned to the membership roll, which lists the names of the club's benefactors and the boys whom it serves. All are Boys' club members. The sponsors are the senior members and the boys, the juniors. This bears testimony to the principle of comradeship and democracy on which the shelter is operated.

Robert Allerton, John D. Ames, Dr. Otho Fisher Ball, John J. Finlay, Frederick H. Bassett, Ernest Byfield, Fairbank Carpenter, John R. Dean, and George L. Dickson were some of the senior members at last night's party.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Hooray! The white women's burden, the pocketbook that bulges, pulls all out of shape and weighs half a ton or so, what with compacts, keys and utterly important scraps of paper that in the end don't mean a thing, is due for a new deal. The cosmetic people are getting smarter every day; they've realized that there is a purse problem and the town is being flooded with beauty gadgets that are small and light in weight.

One of the big beauty houses has just put out a mascara in purse size. It's good mascara, too. The half pint version is in a metal container smaller than your little finger and because it is so small it will slip in even an evening bag without contributing much to its bulk. And there you have it, always handy for repairs if the rain comes tumbling down and washes away your eyelash beauty or if you've been indulging in a good cry with equally dire results.

You can get eye shadow, too, in teensie little containers that won't take up much room. Compacts are getting smaller and lighter also, we've noticed.

Neatest trick of the week is a cute little perfume bottle that's really two bottles, but you'd never guess it. It's purse size and capped at both ends. For the workaday world you use the sweet pea scent that's cleverly bottled at one end. When you put your typewriter away for the night and prepare to meet your Big Moment for dinner you use the perfume in the other end, something much more seductive and glamorous. And there you are: working girl into orchid with the flick of a finger.

With the warmish days making your coat much too heavy and perspiration much too free now is the time for all fastidious women to keep a pretty close check on the deodorant situation. Make room in your purse for one of these handy little sticks you'll see in all the shops. They're no trouble to use—and they're pretty effective.

The Streamline Hair Style Wins Award at Show

Judging of Prizes Features Final Session.

A streamline style of hairdressing won first prize in a contest held last night as a feature of the final session of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers association convention at the Hotel Sherman. The convention was the largest in the history of the association, more than 13,000 persons having registered and more than 100 exhibits being placed on display.

The model of the prize winning motif was Miss Jean De Pleisis, 24 years old, 7000 South Shore drive. The streamline effect was achieved by arranging triple tiers of elongated puffs of her blonde hair across the left side of her head. The hairdresser was A. O. Farley, 7050 South Shore drive.

Second honors were won by the "symphony" style of dress worn by Miss Lorraine Schultz and arranged by Burt Bauer, 137 North Marion street, Oak Park. Other hairdressers who won prizes were Paul Myerhoff and Robert Simmons of Milwaukee and Charles Buntgens, 541 East 79th street.

"Best Dressed Woman" of U. S. Near Death in Paris

PARIS, April 4.—(Special.)—Mrs. Harrison Williams, society matron and wife of the New York utilities magnate, was reported near death in a hospital here tonight. She was stricken with an internal hemmorhage a few hours before she was to sail for home. She came here in March to select a wardrobe. Last year the World fashion court here adjudged here the best gowned woman in the United States and one of the world's ten leading purveyors of feminine fashion.

Front Views and Profiles

WE'RE a little late with this story because Dr. Elliott P. Joslin of Boston, authority on diabetes, told it when he was in town for a recent meeting of the American Medical society. He was discussing the relation of heredity to diabetes, and mentioned some of the difficulties in tracing the development of this factor in diabetic patients. Most people do not know what illnesses their own parents had, besides not knowing what illness caused the death of their great-grandparents, he said.

"I am fortunate," he concluded, "for I know what my great-great-great-great-great-grandfather died from. He was hanged."

And this was quite true, he added. His ancestor was John Procter of Salem, Mass., who was hanged during the witchcraft furor in Salem in the 17th century.

A FRIEND sojourning in Palm Beach wired a prominent Chicagoan about the arrival of some friends.

"Do look after them," she wired.

The Chicagoan put them up at one of the better north side hotels and gave a cocktail party for them. Unfortunately, the husband showed a capacity for getting into trouble. He was very rude to his hostess at the cocktail party, and she learned afterward that after he had been gently put in the elevator he had insulted fellow passengers, given the elevator boy a black eye, struggled with the doorman who tried to put him into a taxicab, and eventually ended up in the police station, having been taken there by an irate taxicab driver.

Later, after straightening out matters, the host wired to the girl in Palm Beach:

"Did our best for the W——'s. Do you by any chance know Dillinger?"

PAUL DRAPER, the handsome, red-haired young tap dancer who is the son of the late famous singer of German lieder songs, and of Muriel Draper, author of "Music at Midnight," is arriving in town this morning from the west. The latest reports received by friends here were that Mr. Draper had broken three vertebrae in a recent motor car accident in Santa Fé when the motor car he was driving turned turtle twice, with Mr. Draper still clinging to the wheel, but the wire we received said that he was coming to dance at the Chicago theater. We don't know which is true, but we do know, after chatting with Jean Stevens yesterday, that even if he could tap dance with broken vertebrae, he couldn't rhumba. Miss Stevens, who got back this week from Florida and Cuba, was told by a Cuban rhumba expert that when the rhumba is danced properly the last three vertebrae are used to get the proper motion. And if it is the ballroom version, it is called, not a rhumba, but a son.

IF you've seen some of the lucky dogs about town lately, dogs with folks and homes, you may have noticed the little medal attached to their collars with a gay bit of striped ribbon. "Lucky Dog Club" the medal reads, and on the other side is a dog's head sculptured by the Chicago artist, William Welsh. Susie Cramer, the Ambrose Cramers' Scottie, wears one. So does Toppy Blair, the Chauncey Blairs' Sealyham, and Robin, Mrs. John Jay Abbott's wire-haired terrier. Our own Sandy and Binge also are members of the Lucky Dog club. It means they have each paid their dollar to the North Side Animal shelter to help look after the unlucky homeless dogs the shelter takes in until homes are found for them. It is hoped that the club will grow so rapidly that soon the lucky dogs of the city thus will look after their less fortunate brothers. The first Lucky Dog club medal was sent to President Roosevelt; the second and third were sold to Lawrence Tibbett, the baritone, and to Mrs. Charles Correll, wife of one member of the famous radio team, for her white Pekinese, Ceedee. The Lucky Dogs have appointed one of their human friends, Mrs. Norval Pierce of 900 North Michigan avenue, a member of the North Side Animal shelter board, to look after the finances of the club.

Robinsons Safe and Happy in San Cristobal

Former Florence Crane at Galapagos Ilands.

BY JUDITH CASS.

IT isn't hard to imagine the rejoicing there was yesterday in the household of Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. when a cable came reporting that Mr. and Mrs. William Albert Robinson [the former Florence Crane] were safe and sound and happy in the Galapagos Ilands. From a few brief words Mrs. Crane learned that her son and daughter-in-law had landed at San Cristobal, on the Ilands, and that a radio station has just been installed on the Iland through which they can relay frequent messages to Chicago.

Last June 12, almost a year, these intrepid travelers set off from New York in Mr. Robinson's 32 foot ketch, the Svaap, on a honeymoon trip that has been a series of exciting adventures. A few months before this, Feb. 18, they were married at Mrs. Crane's handsome Lake Shore drive home here.

The most thrilling adventure the Robinsons have had to date was a grounding on the Upper Sambu river bank in the jungle of southeastern Panama. They lived in a native Indian dugout for several days with coconuts, fish, and native rice for food. They finally reached Panama in time for Christmas with Mrs. Robinson's brother and sister-in-law, the Cornelius Cranes, and remained with them until the end of January, when their boat was repaired and ready to be launched again.

The Robinsons will remain in the Galapagos at least until fall, for Mr. Robinson is intent on writing a book about that part of the world. He visited it for the first time when he sailed around the globe a few years ago in the Svaap and then and there made up his mind to return some day for a longer stay. The Galapagos are mentioned in his first book, "Ten Thousand Leagues Over the Sea."

Needlework Guild Holds Party Today.

Many of the feminine members of society, whether they are interested in needlework or not, will be at the Casino this afternoon to hear Miss Frances Morris speak on "Embroideries, Ancient and Modern." In addition to the lecture there is to be an exhibition of work of the members of the Needlework and Textile Guild of the Art Institute, which is sponsoring the lecture, and every one always is anxious to see this annual exhibition.

Miss Morris is to talk at 3 o'clock, but a special buffet luncheon is to be served to the guild at 1 o'clock, so the attractive little club will be filled with needlewomen and their guests all afternoon.

Miss Morris, who used to be with the Metropolitan museum in New York, arrived yesterday morning and will be Mrs. Harry H. Shearson's guest during her brief visit. She leaves Friday afternoon after a luncheon that Mrs. Potter Palmer will give for her at her home on Astor street following Miss Morris' talk at the Art Institute before the Antiquarians. The Needlework guild is entertaining at luncheon for her today.

Prenuptial Parties for Edith Cummings.

A gay round of parties for popular Miss Edith Cummings, who will become Mrs. Curtis B. Munson on Saturday afternoon, will start tonight when her matron of honor, Mrs. Harold E. Talbott of New York, and one of her oldest and best friends, Mrs. Pauling Donnelley, who has come west for the wedding, will give a small dinner-dance at the Casino.

Mrs. Donnelley, the former Helen Pauling of Chicago, still calls Chicago home, although she doesn't spend much time here any more, but she plans to be here a month now with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Pauling of Astor street.

The former Janet Pauling and her husband, John M. Eliot, and their little daughter, Gay, will arrive this morning from their home in Boston for the

Colored Shoes Easy Victors in Style Walk

BY RHEA SEEGER.

You'll trot about town and country in colored footwear this spring, according to incoming fashion flashes. Everything but black for a change! Bright red, blue, green and even yellow shoes for street and sports or any daytime occasion are on the way. Shoe designers will color vividly everything from sports sandals to the most formal of kid pumps.

Blue shoes are so popular that smart shoppers are weakening before the other colors. Dark brown numbers are going faster than ever, with white and string color combinations or contrasts being pushed for the first warm days. Along with all the white gloves and costume accessories are quantities of all-white shoes; the best prophets forecast even more white shoes this summer than last.

Sandals with medium or almost low heels have been unpacked in one shop. They are made of chalk white kidskin, laced and trimmed with variegated yarn and with a yarn tassel.

This same shop is sponsoring the new scuff-less heel, a boon for drivers who have yearned for such an article for months. These heels are made of a lightweight composition, a secret from a big laboratory, and they will stand all kinds of kicking and abuse without shedding a sliver of the heel. You'll have to see them to prove to yourself what a discovery this is. They can be attached to old shoes.

Fabric shoes are as smart, sleek, and trim as they are new and spring-like. You can get them in gabardine, marcella cloth and cravenette. Matching handbags of the fabric trimmed with patent leather bands or perforated leather bands in the same formation as the shoes are new arrivals, illustrated in the fashion photograph today.

Miniature of Famous Mitchell Garden Is Brought Here for Show

Hundreds of Chicagoland club women and gardeners were busy yesterday assembling the three acres of gardens and floral displays for the eighth annual Garden and Flower show which opens on Navy pier next Saturday.

One of the outstanding arrivals for the Exposition yesterday was a miniature Japanese garden, a small scale reproduction of the famous garden of Mrs. John J. Mitchell at Santa Barbara, Cal., which is one of the Pacific coast showplaces. The garden was brought to Chicago in charge of Mrs. Mitchell's Japanese gardener, H. Mundin, and assistants on a special car of the Golden State Limited of the Rock Island lines.

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda, known as Dodo Quarles, is found stabbed to death following a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Dodo, who was untrammeled by scruples or breeding, had served a drug to her guests. Helen Roderick, who was a friend of Dodo's deceased mother, was staying with Dodo. She didn't attend the dinner, but awakened early in the morning and discovered the crime and Dodo's guests lying about in deep sleep. She is able to arouse two friend, Tommy Rostetter, a journalist. Tommy's dinner partner was Dinah Blake, an American artist, whose engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dodo. Dinah is not among the sleeping guests. Tommy arouses the others and sends for the police. Tommy breaks the news to Dodo's stepfather, Basil Jethro, celebrated Oxford scholar, who was her guardian and trustee and who had long since given up trying to curb his charge. Dinah can't be found. Tommy conducts a search for her and for facts to help clear her of suspicion. She paid a call on the Hubert Loughtons shortly past midnight, after leaving Dodo's party. Dinah returns two days later to the apartment which she shares with her cousin, Hallie Pemberton. She had been sleeping in the studio of absent friends. Her memory is a blank. She knows nothing of the crime, and doesn't know whether or not she is guilty. Tommy Rostetter happens to call before the police learn of Dinah's return. Tommy persuades Dinah to pretend she is engaged to him, so that jealousy of Dorinda may not be considered incriminating.

INSTALMENT XXII.

AN EXPEDITIOUS DEFENSE.

There was a harrowing pause, then Tommy saw the inspector nod to himself, as though the explanation accounted for many things hitherto puzzling.

"H'm—ah! Your fiancé, is he? Very well, let me hear what you have to say."

Pale, but in perfect command of herself, Dinah retold her story of lapsed memory, emphasizing nothing, letting the bare statement speak for itself. How much the inspector believed was impossible to tell. His black eyes remained inscrutable, his manner increased in wariness, but he offered no comment and took notes assiduously. At the end he put a single question.

"You cannot say how you got to the Passage d'Enfers, mademoiselle?"

"You mean did I walk or ride? I haven't an idea of anything from the early evening on Friday till this afternoon, when I woke to find myself lying on a couch-bed in a studio that was vaguely familiar. Still we ought to be able to tell by the money in my purse, oughtn't we? I know I had just one fifty franc note when I arrived at the dinner, and I spent six francs for my taxi home just now, and twenty-five centimes for a paper. That would leave me forty-three francs seventy-five. Hallie—would you mind fetching my evening bag?"

The bag was handed to the inspector, who drew forth a change purse containing the exact amount Dinah had named.

"This seems to indicate that you went on foot, mademoiselle. And these?" He held up a steel ring with two keys attached.

"The large one belongs to this flat, the small to the villa in the Passage. I must have used that, I suppose, to get in—but I don't recall it."

The inspector pocketed the second key, took down the Van Valkenburgs' address in the Tyrol and rose to go.

"You will be sent for, mademoiselle, probably tomorrow evening, to appear before the judge of instruction," he tersely informed the girl.

That was all. But Tommy, following the inspector outside, communicated the circumstances of Dinah's two encounters on Friday night, supplying the addresses of the Hubert Loughtons and Christopher. Seeing the black eyes narrow with suspicion, he hastened to add that he had not wished to mention these things before his fiancé, as she evidently had no recollection of them.

"We should have been informed before?"

"In her present state of bewilderment, monsieur, it seemed most unwise to introduce more confusion into her mind. But if the judge knows, he will be in a position to test her, won't he?"

The shrug which greeted this was not exactly reassuring.

"We should have been informed before. Am I to understand that this second gentleman you refer to is well known to mademoiselle?"

"Mr. Loughton? O, yes! Strictly between ourselves, I fancy he had till recently some hope of marrying her. I mention this merely to show you that she could not have failed to recognize him if she had been in her normal senses. I rather espected some history of automatic action," he lied with engaging frankness. "But, of course, in my total ignorance concerning this studio, I was as baffled as the rest of you. Mademoiselle is an indefatigable worker at her art. I suppose some unconscious desire to get on with her painting drew her to the Passage d'Enfers."

"Humph! Perhaps. But all the same this holding back of important evidence does not place you or these others in a very favorable light. The judge may consider it a conspiracy to defeat justice."

He turned brusquely, and his heels clicked down the staircase.

As Tommy quite expected, Dinah was a bit done up now with the strain of the interview, her frightened eyes seeking his for support.

"That man didn't half believe me," she said with conviction. "What I'm wondering is why don't they arrest me right away?"

"The French have a different method," he explained. "But don't imagine you're free. Everything you or your cousin do will be watched. Telephone calls will be listened in on. You'll be wanting a lawyer. I'll find a reliable man and bring him along."

"A lawyer? When I'm not under arrest?"

"Yes. Since 1905 no suspected person can be examined before a judge without the presence of legal counsel. Let me warn you now not to let even the lawyer suspect this isn't a valid engagement. You understand, don't you?" he said with the utmost gravity. "I mean that having launched on this deception the worst thing possible would be to have the fraud shown up. Now, let's settle a few details, and get the whole thing water tight."

He had hit on the best means of diverting her attention from the horror surrounding her. Their heads were still close together over a plan Tommy had hastily roughed out when Hallie Pemberton ventured timidly in with a bottle and three glasses.

"Mr. Rostetter," she said waveringly, "don't you think a little sherry might steady our nerves?"

He smiled and accepted the proffered refreshment, raising the glass to his lips.

"To our engagement," he pronounced solemnly. "May it meet with a speedy dissolution. Unflattering," he added ruminating, "but practical—what?"

Dinah's eyes lit with a faint spark of appreciation. "May you soon be rid of the encumbrance," she murmured as she drained her own glass.

"What a girl!" he thought, and again on his way downstairs. "What a girl! There's spirit for you. I knew she was like that."

He was in a curious frame of mind. Many problems loomed before him, not the least of which was how best to apprise certain individuals of the facts, true and false, which he wanted them to accept. In the Café du Dome he called for writing materials and composed a series of notes to be delivered at once by hand. The first was to Mrs. Hubert Loughton, warning her of the inspector's approaching visit. The second was to Helen, and required several fresh starts. Finally completed it read as follows:

"Dear Helen: Heaven be praised, Dinah's turned up, with her mind a complete blank for forty-eight hours. Poor child, she had no notion whatever that Dorinda Quarles had been murdered. As you'll soon know all that part of it. I'll confine myself to news of a different nature. Perhaps it won't be news to you. You women are so infernally clever! Anyhow, here it is: Dinah and I are going to be married. We hasn't expected to let it be known just yet, but circumstances alter cases, and in view of the rather trying time ahead of my little girl it may be as well to let people see how impossible it was for her to have harbored any ill-will toward your unhappy friend. Yours in haste, TOMMY."

"P. S.—I'm not forgetting my debt to you for bringing us together. Bless you."

The third note came easier and afforded its author malicious entertainment. When it was finished, Tommy jammed on his hat and turned himself into a messenger boy.

Doris Blake Answers

"Dear Miss Blake: My boy friend refuses to go out with me because his sisters are always teasing him about me. Please advise. LONELY ANNIE."

Maybe that's just his alibi, Annie, and maybe the sisters do tease him. Why don't you try to get on the right side of the sisters?

"Dear Miss Blake: What would you suggest as some pet names for a girl? JOHNNIE."

Well, there's Dearie, and Honey, and Honeybunch, and Sugar, and Sweetheart, and Darling, but how about asking the girl what her favorite pet name is?

Janet Gaynor Given Liberty of U. S. Flagship

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 4.—[Special.]—The next middie blouse that Janet Gaynor buys is going to be official, for two members of the crew of Uncle Sam's cruiser flagship Indianapolis called on her yesterday to present an official liberty pass to their ship.

The liberty pass, signed by Capt. John Smealle, U. S. N., tenders Janet Gaynor freedom of the vessel and the privilege to visit and inspect it when she pleases. Janet could hardly command even a lisp to express how pleased she felt when Paul Gorzynski, pastry cook, Rochester, N. Y., and Robert Moore, fireman, first class, Hoboken, N. J., showed up with the pass and gave her compliments of the captain, the officers and crew of the Indianapolis and their own blushing and sincere regards as well.

Last summer Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and her daughter, inspecting the Indianapolis, wandered into the pastry cook's galley and spotted two rotogravure clippings, one of the President and the other of Janet. Mrs. Roosevelt chatted with Gorzynski about his movie preferences, both declaring a liking for Miss Gaynor, after which Cook Gorzynski wrote a fan letter to Janet telling her the President's wife had said some kind things about her.

Janet wrote a reply thanking Cook Gorzynski, and when Christmas came Santa Claus brought her a three-tiered Christmas cake from the galley of the cruiser, which had come to the west coast. Along with the cake came compliments of officers and crew. Capt. Smealie called on Janet at her movie set recently and the personnel of the cruiser Indianapolis is no more enthusiastic about Janet Gaynor than Janet is about the Indianapolis and her new nautical friends.

After touring the Pacific northwest and Canada as a member of the company doing "Reunion in Vienna," Will Rogers' daughter, Mary, who is employing the professional name of Mary Howard, is on her way home. She intends to continue as an actress, the road tour being her way of testing and training her dramatic abilities. She has worked in one film for Fox.

A friend asked Rogers what he thought about his daughter's choice of profession and Rogers asked in return: "What does a parent have to say about it?"

"Well," insisted his questioner, "what does Mrs. Rogers think about your daughter out with a stage troupe?"

"Mrs. Rogers is a parent, too," was the reply.

Ben Piazza, the casting director at MGM, thinks the movies may have stumbled onto that rare individual, a blonde leading man with lots of that appeal who is destined to achieve film prominence. The young man is John Anderson, ex-Cornell university discus throwing champion and a pupil for one year of Oliver Hinsdell, Hollywood dramatic coach. Anderson is now in Metro's "Treasure Island."

Two Chicago girls have been given important bits in current pictures, Ethelreda Leopold becoming a lady of the French court in "Dubarry," the del Rio film at Warner's, and Esther Brodelet taking a small part in "Merry Andrew" at Fox.

wedding and the few days of festivity that will precede it. Gay, whose real name is Helen, for she is named for her aunt, is to be the flower girl at the marriage.

After she leaves Chicago Mrs. Donnelley plans to spend a month with the Eliots and then she will go to Gloucester to pursue her art work with occasional visits during the summer to the Eliots at their summer place on Massachusetts' fashionable north shore, at Manchester.

Tomorrow Miss Cummings' brother, Dexter, and his wife are entertaining at luncheon at the Casino for the small bridal party and the large number of out of town friends who are here for the ceremony and a few of the bride's most intimate Chicago friends.

Tomorrow night Miss Eleanor Holden, who is to be the maid of honor, and Mrs. William H. Mitchell and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler are giving a dinner-dance in the bungalow atop the Hotel Sherman for the couple.

Kitchen Shower for Miss Kirk.

"Nothing over $1. Something green" read the invitations to a kitchen shower the Juniors of the Alliance Française are giving this afternoon at 3 o'clock for Miss Beatrice Kirk, who will be married to Capt. C. Ross Cuthbert on April 14.

Apparently Miss Kirk's attitude toward kitchens and their accessories has changed considerably in the last year, for one of the Juniors reminded us recently of the kitchen shower given last year for Marjorie Goodman before her marriage to Charles S. Dewey Jr., at which Miss Kirk's gift was a silk cushion.

At that time Miss Kirk declared she couldn't bear even to buy anything connected with a kitchen! And now she is collecting green things for a kitchen of her own!

Winifred De Forest Bride on Saturday.

Mrs. John Fowler Pendexter will have the spinster dinner this evening at her home at 2340 Lincoln Park West for Miss Winifred DeForest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Bowden DeForest, who is to become the bride of Dean Fiske Coffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Coffin of Detroit, in a ceremony at 8:30 Saturday evening at the Fourth Presbyterian church. At the same time this evening George Rose will be host at the bachelor dinner at his south side apartment.

Miss Virginia Schanher of Detroit will be maid of honor for Miss DeForest Saturday evening and the bridesmaids will be Miss Gail Coffin, a sister of the bridegroom; Miss Marion Pruyn, and Miss Ruth Miksak.

Lincoln Eveleth of Schnectady, N. Y., is to serve Mr. Coffin as best man. Ushering will be Luther Bowden De Forest, Richard G. Coffin of Lansing, Mich., a brother of the bridegroom; George Dusenbury, Edward Jones, and Frederic Nash of Detroit, and Donald Ewing of Cleveland.

Lecture on Birds at Wayne Today.

Many Chicagoans and residents of the north shore will be driving out to Geneva today to hear Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay Jr. of Wayne talk at 2 o'clock on "Birds: How to Know Them, Feed Them and Protect Them." For Mrs. Lindsay is a charming speaker and her knowledge of birds is vast.

Mrs. Lindsay's talk will open a flower market that the women's guild of St. Mark's Episcopal church in Geneva will hold on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays during April and May in the courtyard of the Little Traveler.

Mrs. Charles A. Irvin of 20 Cedar street is giving a cocktail party today for her guests, Mrs. Paul Peters of Ottawa and Lord Chichester of London, who are leaving tomorrow for Ottawa after a week's visit with Mrs. Irvin.

One of Oak Park's prettiest and most popular young girls, Miss Louise Yager, will be married tonight at a small home wedding. The Rev. Albert Coe, pastor of the First Congregational church of Oak Park will read the service that will unite in marriage Miss Yager and Samuel O. Givens Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel O. Givens of Oak Park, at 6 o'clock at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Yager of 300 Forest avenue.

Miss Mary Egbert of Oak Park will be the bride's maid of honor and Robert Gardiner of River Forest will attend the bridegroom. Little Anne Cantwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cantwell Jr., and Marcia Doherty, daughter of the Russell Dohertys, will attend their aunt as flower girls. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Givens will be at home in Oak Park.

Mrs. Langdon Pearse of Winnetka has been elected chairman of the board of the House of Happiness, a settlement in the stock yards organized more than a quarter of a century ago through the infant class at St. Paul's church for the purpose of helping young boys and girls on the southwest side.

The new vice chairmen are Mrs. M. P. Noyes and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson.

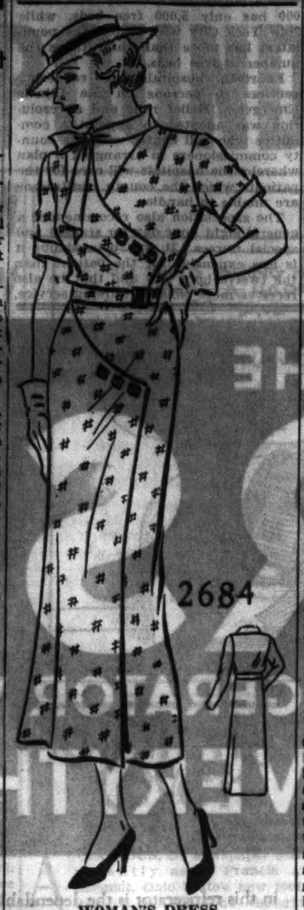
Lines of Printed Frock Favor the Heavier Figures



WOMAN'S DRESS.

One of the new printed linens in China blue and white made the original of this smart model. The tailored lines will favor the heavier figure, and the wrapped-over closing of the bodice, with similar skirt treatment, creates a lengthened effect. Silk crêpes, voiles, lawns, and piques are among the suitable materials.

The pattern, No. 2684, comes in sizes 36, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

Old Foods Take on Charm When Cooked United

Carrots and Apples Combine in Novel Dish.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W.G.N. Tune in at 2 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

We hear a great deal of clamor these days about "new" dishes. And, if you meet a friend with a furrowed brow and harassed look, it's dollars to doughnuts she's trying to think up something NEW for dinner.

All of which is much needless brain fag. For it's not new dishes we need for gayer meals half as much as it's new ways of marrying the old faithfuls to each other. To prepare for them, here are tips:

"Apples?" you say. "Nothing new there."

"Carrots? Just an old story to us." But fried carrots and apples! There's a young couple you'll be charmed to have in to dinner.

FRIED CARROTS AND APPLES.

8 medium-sized carrots.
6 tart apples
2 tablespoons fat
1 tablespoon water
¼ teaspoon salt

Select crisp, unwilted carrots and scrape carefully. Cut them lengthwise into thin slices. Select apples with bright, tender skins. Core them thoroughly without peeling, and slice across in ¼ inch pieces. Use one or two large skillets, heating the fat in them. Lay a single layer of the apples and carrots in the bottoms of the skillets, cover closely, and let cook gently until well browned. Turn, brown again and, when tender, sprinkle with the sugar and salt. Have ready a hot platter and arrange on it a layer of carrots and then a layer of apples so that the two may be ladled up with one swoop of the server. Garnish with parsley.

"And what they did not eat that night, the Queen next morning fried."

So runs the jingle, and the supper-to-breakfast deal is quite familiar to us. But what of a breakfast-to-supper one? Not the spurned eggs, or the cup of coffee, but the overdose of cereal with which folks couldn't quite make away, is now turning up at the evening meal in muffins! And, if there were dates cut up in the cereal, then all the better will be the muffins.

CEREAL DATE MUFFINS.

Any good muffin recipe will do as a basis for this. Simply add 1 cup of cooked cereal with dates, reduce the flour given in the recipe by ¼ cup, and reduce the liquid by ½ cup.

Herbert Witherspoon Weds Mrs. Sheath in New York

New York, April 4.—[Special.]—In a simple ceremony and with only a few friends present, Mrs. Blanche Sternberg Sheath was married today to Herbert Witherspoon, former director of the Chicago Civic Opera company. The wedding took place before the fireside in the home of the bride, with the Rev. Dr. J. V. Moldenhower of the First Presbyterian church officiating. Gertrude Ingersoll, a niece of the bridegroom, was the bride's only attendant, and Parker Sloane was the best man. On Saturday the couple will sail for Italy. On their return they will reside in New York.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won twenty national championships since 1924.

ENCOURAGING A SLAM OVER A JUMP RAISE.

Yesterday I explained the two minimum responses from which the opening bidder may make a choice when responding to a jump-raise.

Any other response than these is an encouragement of a slam-try. Therefore, when you make any nonminimum response you may be jeopardizing a certain game. True, your partner can always sign off by rebidding your suit—but he may have good reason to expect a slam if your encouraging response seems to fit his hand. Be sure not to deceive him or cause him to build a skyscraper on a quicksand. Remember the negative information you possess about his hand.

1. He did not make a take-out, minimum or forcing, in another suit. Do not expect him to show up with an off-suit to give you discards.

2. He did not bid two or three no trumps; his hand presumably has at least one weak spot.

Attributing to him only four trumps and one and one-half to two tricks, try to visualize probable holdings in his hand. Then try to count the losers in the two hands approximately. Your computation cannot be exact at this time; the off-suit or suits must fit for a slam, and there will still be time to sign off if the next round of bidding develops unfavorably. At this stage, your main concern is not to encourage a slam—that is, make a response that is not a minimum—without a sound basis for it, taking into consideration the negative information you possess about your partner's hand.

There Are Three Kinds of Encouraging Bids.

1. If you now name a second suit, it must be nearly solid at the top, so that you can put it to work immediately and discard losers on it. The high cards in it must not be an essential part of your opening bid—otherwise you will be bidding them twice over. To some extent, weakness in the second suit may be compensated by additional primary tricks outside your two main suits, but I advise you to make it a rule not to bid a second suit in this situation unless it is headed by A K, A Q, or K Q J. Unless your hand contains at least two aces, I would not consider anything but a minimum response. A void suit would form the only exception to this condition.

Let us take some instances of hands on which you have made an opening bid of one spade, to which the response was three spades.

Sp. A K x x
Hs. K Q J x
Di. x
Cl. A J x x

I would provisionally read my partner's high cards as a red ace and the king of clubs. Four hearts would be my bid. If he now bids four spades, I pass; if he bids five diamonds, I will show my club holding with five no-trumps. I do not want to rebid the spades. My bidding so far has shown one trick over the minimum. It is up to my partner to pass five no trumps or bid six spades. With two aces and the king of clubs, he would bid six spades. With only the queen of clubs, he would probably pass five no-trumps unless his spades were headed by the queen. I assume, of course, from his diamond bid that he held A Q x x or A K x x in that suit. With Sp. Q x x x, Hs. A x x, Di. A Q x x, Cl. K x x x he should bid six no trumps over my four hearts—he wants to be declarer and have the lead come up to his hand. This bid would announce two aces, a high spade, and some additional secondary value, presumably in clubs. With the opening bidder's hand as given above I would pass the six no trumps—but if I held five spades to the A K and one less club, I would bid seven spades, as then the risk of losing a spade trick through freakish adverse distribution in that suit would be remote.

When possible to do so briefly, Mr. Sims will answer specific inquiries on contract that are addressed to this newspaper. Please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Parents' Help Is Vital to the School Teacher

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

In the old days a child's aim was all too often, to "do" the teacher. Haven't you heard older people tell stories of it? But we who are helping to bring about a new education have a feeling that "do the teacher" is a dead ambition.

We are right to a certain extent. But there is still among children after they get into the upper grades and high school some remnant of that desire left in a mild form. You hear it in the older children's talk and see it in their actions.

Now all children are not thirsty for knowledge. And education as it is represented by school work does not stir them all to enthusiasm. The incentive for an education must in most cases lie with the parents. To expect the teacher to do more than make school as interesting and thorough as possible is too much to expect with large classes and pressure from above. Teaching is recognized as one of the most exhausting of professions. And for teachers to bear the whole brunt of the resentment that some children feel toward them as taskmasters is hard.

If we can help children to understand that it is the teacher's job to keep the students up to grade and that she does not like sacrificing hours of her precious leisure it may make her job easier for her. It will also lessen a child's resistance and so make him more receptive to what he has to grasp. This is only one instance of how we can help by guiding our children's attitude toward a kind and conscientious teacher.

Primrose Motif Creates Quilt of Enduring Beauty

Primrose

BY NANCY CABOT.

The dainty primrose is coming more and more to the fore as a floral motif for our more modern quilt designs, if appliqué or pieced quilts may be referred to as modern. The color combination of pale rose, yellow, and green, as well as an attractive arrangement of the appliqued and plain blocks, creates a spread of lasting beauty, and one that becomes more mellow with time.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Austin of Oak Park have announced the engagement of their daughter, Alice Jane, to Blair Ritterspach of Oak Park, son of Dr. and Mrs. Fred J. Ritterspach of Denver, Colo. Miss Austin will be graduated from Northwestern university in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald S. Reid of 651 Melrose street have announced the engagement of their daughter, May, to John Nicholson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Nicholson of 6218 South Richmond street. The marriage is to take place June 6 at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church.

Heart Does Not Grow Fonder by Distance Today

Attachments Thrive Only by Association.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Distance simply does not make the heart grow fonder, not today's heart. There are too many consolation prizes handy, we fear.

Friendships are cemented more deeply through hours spent together, not apart. They're welded by going places together, seeing things, and being able to talk them over. Folks get the habit of each other when they're together a lot. The habit is hard to break. There are a number of good, sound arguments why the girl on the job has the upper hand. She's there to assuage any threatened hours of loneliness and, unless he is a glutton for punishment, a man is going to find some one to keep him from being lonely.

So we would advise Miss J. not to threaten the gods by leaving the scene for a long absence just while matters are beginning to formulate in her favor. Miss J. is crazy about her current suitor. And he has lost all interest in that former girl of his. But the latter still lives in the community and Miss J. wonders about the wisdom of an extended stay on the coast.

"If the man really cares," she argues, "distance would not make any difference. Wouldn't it be a test, in a way, of his real devotion?"

It would be a test, all right, but one to which we wouldn't advise putting the gentleman.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt left tonight for Columbus, O., where she will speak tomorrow before a conference of educational leaders. From Columbus Mrs. Roosevelt will go to New York, and will be absent from Washington for a week.

This afternoon, Mrs. Roosevelt had an early tea for the members of the Harvard Hasty Pudding club. After the tea, Mrs. Roosevelt attended the concert of the Boston Symphony orchestra, remaining for only a short time. She had as guests in her box, Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson, wife of the senator from Arkansas; Mrs. Robert Lansing, widow of Woodrow Wilson's secretary of state, and Miss Mary Patton.

Brushing the Gums Is Part of Hygienic Care of Mouth

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A healthy mouth is the term you use now instead of healthy teeth, and whatever you do to keep your mouth healthy means better looking and sounder teeth. This means that the gums and tongue have to be considered along with the daily teeth care.

Brushing the gums is urged strongly by our better dentists. And by brushing gums, they mean brushing, not with any gentle or soft, worn toothbrush, but with a hard brush and one that will stimulate vigorous circulation of the blood. It's only common sense to realize that good teeth must come out of healthy gums, also that a substitute is needed for the hard, coarse foodstuffs that are rarely found in modern diets, to stimulate circulation through the gums.

It is not necessary to talk much about brushing teeth. Everyone knows what teeth require in this regard. Certainly it is drilled into youngsters from 3 years old and up. But gum brushing is not nearly so widely broadcast as it should be. Dentists urge parents to get the youngsters in the habit of including the gums in the brushing. And they also ask for a better understanding about a healthy mouth. This means a clean tongue and the use of a mouth wash to clear every bit of the mouth of food particles. The coated tongue indicates some physical disorder, of course, and a brush will not remedy this disorder. But the coated tongue may be looked upon as a danger to teeth health. Stomach or liver derangement is generally at fault, which may only be corrected internally.

And the diet for a healthy mouth is the thing that youngsters must have pounded into them, or forced into them. No matter what else they consume in a day, get into them, by hook or crook, threat or promise, a quart of milk, some lettuce, and a pint of orange juice. They'll eat other foods, but milk, lettuce, and orange juice are the teeth foods ordered. They are vital gum and mouth regulators, offsetting some of the damage that accrues from wrong foods. The same rule goes for adults, of course, but as the dentists say, "It's the young teeth we can build." Fruit eaten at the end of the meal is strongly urged, any fresh fruit.

Dilkusha's Suits Introduce New Swallow Lines

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Birds, butterflies, fish, and airplanes are being aped in the most radical of the new Paris styles. You can't get away from them, and whatever their fate may be when woman, the ultimate decider, gets through choosing her spring and summer clothes they have to be considered here and now.

Dilkusha, the Princesse de Rohan, has launched the "swallow" silhouette which is shown here. It is, to put it modestly, exciting. Even the material is original. It is made of cellophane and other strange stuff with the result approaching a material made of jet. The blouse, which shows at the front of the jacket, is made of white, shirred two way stretch material and it is looped at both sides of the neckline below the standing collar to make a new kind of jabot effect.

The unusual silhouette of the jacket is achieved by swooping swallow tails at the back and by jutting revers at the front of the shoulders. Like many of the new jackets, it is fastened on cufflink buttons at the front. The sleeves are trimmed with two white frills.

The plain skirt has one pocket set in at the hipline at the left side of the front.

CUBAN CABINET MINISTER ENDS LIFE WITH GUN

Ambition for Higher Post Frustrated.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, April 4.—Col. Roberto Mendes Penate, secretary of justice, died today from a self-inflicted gunshot wound. Col. Penate attended the cabinet meeting yesterday and behaved normally, but it is believed he was greatly disappointed at not being named president of the newly created council of state.

Col. Penate returned recently from exile in New York and was a presidential candidate along with Col. Carlos Mendieta. The latter was chosen. Penate entered the cabinet on Feb. 12, but lately it was known he was feeling the pressure of overwork and illness. His brother, Rodolfo, is secretary of labor in the cabinet.

Fought for Independence.

Col. Penate in 1895, when only 23, went into the war for independence against Spain. He was a lieutenant and was wounded in action near Matanzas. Later he practiced law with Rodolfo in Pinar del Rio and served several terms in the legislature.

As an organizer of the Nationalists he fought former President Gerardo Machado's constitutional reforms in 1928. He participated in the unsuccessful revolutionary junta of 1931 and was sent into exile in 1932.

Col. Penate was born on March 19, 1871, in Vueltas, Santa Clara province. His father was a well to do merchant of Castilian descent. Roberto was married, but had no children.

Fatal Shot Heard by Wife.

This morning Col. Penate went into his office at his home saying he did not wish to be disturbed. Shortly afterwards his wife, secretary and servants heard a shot. Rushing in they found blood pouring from a wound in his neck. He died in Emergency hospital with President Mendieta and members of the cabinet around him.

The council of state which Col. Penate wished to rule will consist of 50 to 80 representatives of political groups, agriculture, commerce, industry and the press. The council will suggest legislation to the cabinet and president. Dr. Carlos M. de la Cruz won the appointment as president.

Five huge dynamite bombs rocked Havana today, damaging business properties in excess of $150,000. One bomb destroyed 400 underground telephone lines of the Cuban Telephone company, and another destroyed 250 lines. About 4,600 telephones have been out of order since the strike against the company started five weeks ago.

President Mendieta tonight ordered Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief of staf, to place 600 soldiers and sailors in plain clothes on the streets to cooperate with police in the war against the nightly terrorist campaign.

Girl Charges Brown Threw Her Out of Auto in Fight

Los Angeles, Cal., April 4.—(AP)—Marjorie Whitels testified today that Harry Joe Brown, movie director, whom she is suing for breach of promise, once pushed her out of his automobile at Laguna beach after a quarrel involving her expectant motherhood.

"I was an expectant mother and I wanted Joe to marry me," the actress said. "He pushed me out of the car and then, while I was lying on the pavement, pushed my head with his foot."

Brings Out Story.

This testimony was in response to questions of her own lawyer, Whitney Smith, after she had volunteered it briefly in cross-examination and been shut off by Brown's counsel. Smith later obtained permission to take direct testimony about the incident.

Sobs at the memory of a wistful episode near the end of a broken romance temporarily halted the trial earlier today.

She became hysterical as she identified a letter she said she wrote Brown last Sept. 13 asking him to help her get a better part in a picture in which she was working.

The letter was from Lake Arrowhead, where Miss Whitels was on location. While she was still there Brown, on Sept. 24, married Sally Eilers, former wife of Hoot Gibson, film cowboy.

What They Call 'Em Told.

A few minutes earlier the question of whether movie directors call actresses around the studio endearing names came up in Miss Whitels' testimony.

"You say he called you endearing names?" Brown's lawyer asked the actress, who says Brown jilted her after a four year romance.

"I did," answered Miss Whitels, who is known on the screen as Marjorie Gay.

"What names?"

"Well, all the endearing names there are."

"I understand directors call all girls such names," suggested the lawyer, C. E. Millikan.

"No other director ever called me any names like that," Miss Whitels said heatedly.

Millikan asked about a Christmas eve party at which Miss Whitels said Brown had been drinking. She said he could not feed himself and she had to feed him. As to the actual necessity of this, she said, "Well, maybe he just wanted to be petted a little."

ACID TERRORISTS WAR ON FOREIGN FASHION IN CHINA

Try to Enforce "Simple Mode" Philosophy.

SHANGHAI, April 4. — (AP) — Acid-throwing "New Deal" patriots of China have declared war upon foreign-fashion finery, silk stockings and high heels.

Pretty Chinese girls in numerous cities have been spattered with nitric acid and put to rout in theaters, bazars and restaurants by ultra-nationalistic celestials.

Male birds of plumage, too, with natty suits, white collars and plastered-down hair, have felt the wrath of fashion terrorists. Smart American or European finery is to your ultra-nationalist what a red rag is to a bull.

Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Nationalist government, started a "new life" movement last month, urging a back-to-the-simple-mode philosophy which caught the imagination of the 400,000,000 inhabitants of China.

A group of anti-modernists calling themselves the "Iron Blood Association for the Extermination of Traitors" is blamed by the press for the nitric acid outrages.

They aim to encourage the purchase of Chinese goods instead of foreign manufactures.

CITY'S HOSPITAL CHIEFS DISCUSS NEW GROUP PLAN

21 Days for $12 a Year May Be Offered.

The Chicago Hospital association met in an all day session yesterday at the Hotel Sherman to discuss problems affecting the common interests of the hospitals and the public.

The problem which attracted the most attention of the members of the association, who represent nearly every hospital in Chicago, was the question of group hospitalization or the rendering of hospital services on an insurance basis. A resolution was adopted at the session to appoint a committee who will study the question in coöperation with representatives of the Illinois Medical society and the Chicago Medical society and report on a plan of putting this service into effect.

Dr. Rufus A. Rorem, of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, who has made a study of group hospitalization in behalf of the American Hospital association and the Rosenwald fund, reported there are about thirty cities in the country where this plan for hospital services on an insurance basis is being successfully carried out.

He said that under the plans used in several cities for a yearly premium payment of about $12 hospital services is given individuals of business concerns who are subscribers to the group plan. As high as twenty-one days' services are provided for.

Dr. Rorem told a committee, appointed by the association to investigate the plan, that any hospitalization plan in order to be successful must place emphasis first on service to the public in helping them to budget their expenses, and second no attempt should be made at money making.

Another problem which confronted the association was the question of aiding the public hospitals in giving hospital services to persons not able to pay and other charity patients. Dr. Paul Fesler, president of the association and superintendent of the Wesley hospital, reported that Chicago with a population of more than 3,000,000 has only 5,000 free beds, while New York City with double the population has more than three times the number of free beds.

Fourteen hospitals are rendering services to persons on the Illinois Emergency Relief rolls and a resolution was adopted to appoint a committee who will confer with the county commissioners in arranging a plan whereby the hospitals will care for the patients which the county institutions are unable to handle.

The association also recommended a general eight hour day for student and special nurses. It was pointed out it is less expensive for the patient than the twelve hour day and that he also receives more efficient nursing service.

SENTENCE PRIEST IN GERMANY FOR ATROCITY TALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 4.—The Rev. Leonard Jansen, retired priest living at Aachen, was today sentenced by a Cologne court to six months' imprisonment for spreading "atrocity stories." The sentence was later changed to detention in a sanatorium on a ruling that the Rev. Mr. Jansen is mentally deficient.

The official Voelkischer Boebachter attacked Dr. Bares, Catholic bishop of Berlin, today for his Good Friday sermon. The paper charges the bishop with violating the provision of the concordat with the Vatican which forbids political activities by priests.

"The churches in other countries have been plundered and burned," the paper added. "Their priests have been persecuted and killed. Chancellor Hitler and the state guarantee the church in Germany free activities."

THE FIRST ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR WITH A PLACE for EVERYTHING

JUST about everything you could think of for convenience and economy have been built into the new Kelvinators. Foremost among them is the exclusive Food File with its beautiful chrome-fronted compartments for properly preserving the freshness of dairy products and the tender crispness of leafy vegetables for the table. A third compartment has separate covered dishes for keeping left-overs until you have use for them. There is efficiency and economy in a nutshell. Add to these the generous shelf storage space and the advantages of Kelvinator's "4 refrigerators in 1" and you have a refrigerator as near perfection as human ingenuity can come. And, in this refrigerator is the dependable mechanism that has been giving quiet, efficient service in the home of users for 20 years.

"4 refrigerators in 1"

In each DeLuxe Kelvinator you have one refrigerator for safe preservation of food. Another provides below freezing temperature for indefinitely keeping meats and fish. A third delivers the World's Fastest Freezing Speed (water to ice in approximately 80 minutes) and a fourth refrigerator contains fast freezing trays for quantities of ice cubes or the preparation of frozen salads and desserts.

A place for Vegetables
The Kelvin Crisper keeps vegetables and table greens fresh and crisp.

A place for Dairy products
The Dairy Basket properly refrigerates butter, eggs and cheese for you.

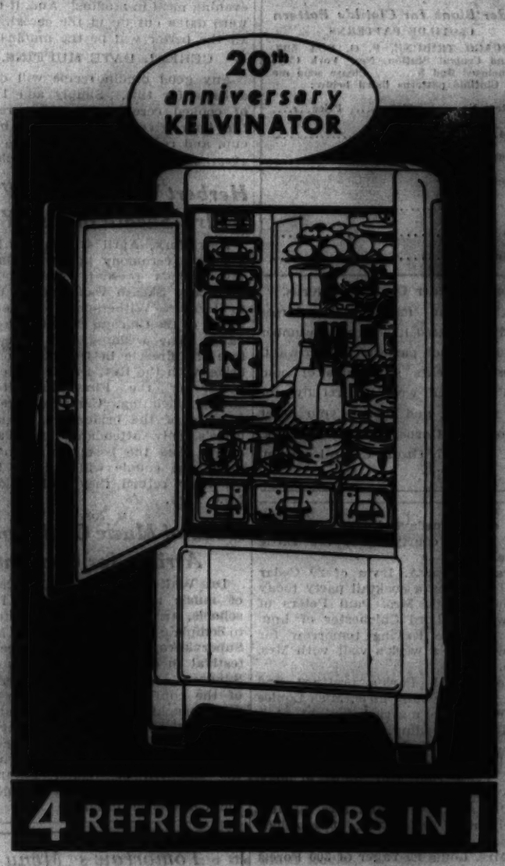
The Thrift Tray answers the question—"Where will I put these left-overs?"



A place for emergency freezing
In this Iso-Thermic tray you get the World's Fastest Freezing Speed—from water to ice in approximately 80 minutes.

A place for bottled goods
Kelvinator's hinged shelf permits the insertion of taller items anywhere handy.

A place for Meats, Fish
The Frost Chest keeps fish or meat at a safe below freezing temperature.

SOX POUND OUT 11-3 VICTORY OVER PIRATES

HAWKS RENEW BID FOR HOCKY TITLE TONIGHT

Seek 2d Victory Over Detroit.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 4.—The Chicago Blackhawks, who have been attempting to convince the National Hocky league for the last month that they are possessed of a championship sextet, will continue to present their case tomorrow night at the Olympia arena where they battle the Detroit Red Wings for the second time in three nights in the Stanley cup series for the world's title.

They made their opening argument last night with more than a modicum of conviction in the presence of nearly 15,000 Detroit fans by whipping the Wings, 2 to 1, in a struggle which went 81 minutes 10 seconds before Paul Thompson hammered home the deciding goal on a great play organized by Doc Romnes.

Break Detroit Jinx.

When Thompson fired the puck past Wilf Cude, the Wings' goalie, the Hawks' outstanding hoodoo on foreign ice was shattered. The Black and White team had been unable to win a game at the Olympia since February, 1930. The Detroit jinx persisted even unto their meetings at the Chicago Stadium, as Hawk followers who saw them in their last regular season appearance at the Stadium have cause to remember on account of a 3 to 0 defeat.

That 3 to 0 licking, convincing as it admittedly was, carried no more weight than the Hawks' triumph last night. Even the natives were willing to admit that the Chicagoans' victory was a well deserved one, for it was obvious throughout the greater part of the contest that the Hawks were the superior team.

Former Hawk Is Goat.

The 200 Blackhawk fans who came up to see the game witnessed the unfortunate spectacle of a former Chicagoan, Teddy Graham, taking the rôle of goat, for it was the one time Hawk captain, now playing defense for the Wings, who had the winning puck stolen from him in front of the Detroit cage. Teddy had taken the disc and was setting out, apparently with the intention of passing to Larry Aurie, when Romnes skated up and, after snatching the puck off Graham's stick, passed it to Thompson for the shot that ended the game.

Graham had played a great all round game throughout the battle not only on defense but also in the business of leading rushes on Gardiner.

Hawks in Condition.

Manager Tommy Gorman of the Hawks held to his intention of not allowing his players to do any preliminary skating during the final series and today joined a number of them in a tour through the Ford plant, sponsored by Stew Evans of the Montreal Maroons and Doug Young of the Wings. They then repaired to their rooms, those nursing bruises and such to submit to the ministrations of Trainer Eddie Froelich.

The Hawks will be in good condition for tomorrow night's game, although the speedy Leroy Goldsworthy still is taking treatments for his wrenched shoulder and Capt. Gardiner will go into the game with the patch covering the five stitches taken over his right eye last Sunday in the Montreal Maroon game at Chicago.

Welland's Nose Broken.

The real casualty of the series to date, however, is on the Detroit roster in the person of Cooney Welland, the slender center who came down with the third nose fracture of his career in the third period, when he crashed into March along the end boards. A broken nose being old stuff with Cooney now, he will play tomorrow night with the injured organ encased in a lead splint.

The Hawks victory last night was an additional tonic to their hopes of bringing Chicago its first world's hocky championship, for it is now a matter of record that they have played the finest hocky of the teams which went into the Stanley cup playoffs a couple of weeks ago.

Incidentally, it can now be pointed out that they chose no setups in winning six of their last seven games and tying the other. They whipped Toronto twice, in their last two regular season games, beat and tied the Canadiens in the first two playoff battles, left no doubt about spanking the Maroons twice in the second round, and then came back with last night's victory.

Hope for 3 Straight.

Although over confidence is not rampant among the players, they apparently are not regarding the task of winning three straight to take the cup as an impossibility. After tomorrow night's game, the Hawks will entrain for Chicago, where the third game will be played Sunday at the Stadium. The Wings will arrive Friday night and work out at the Stadium Saturday.

W-G-N Will Broadcast Hawk-Wing Game Tonight

Parts of the second game of the Stanley cup series between the Chicago Blackhawks and the Detroit Red Wings at Detroit will be broadcast on W-G-N tonight. News bulletins furnished on a direct wire from the rink-side at Detroit will be read over W-G-N giving the details of play as the game progresses.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Phoenix, Ariz., April 4.—It continued cool on the desert today and the White Sox snapped out of their California heat letharzy to accord the Pittsburgh Pirates another severe thumping, this time by a score of 11 to 3.

The Sox made one more hit for the one more run they got over yesterday's tabulation. The large cluster of 15 swats included two more by the indefatigable Zeke Bonura, who kept his record of hitting in every exhibition game by stroking an enormous double in the first inning. Zeke's string now has extended through 15 contests.

The first half of today's encounter was a nip and tuck affair which saw the warriors tied at 2 all going into the latter half of the fifth. The Sox pulled away with a run in their half of the fifth, added one in the sixth, then put on a five run, six hit foray in the seventh and a nice polishing off in the eighth which netted a pair of runs.

All the Boys Frisky.

Two such rousing victories over the highly rated Pirates, together with the unexpected cool weather, seem to form just what the doctor ordered. All the lads were very frisky after the game and left the stadium here in snake dance formation.

The White Sox continued their pleasant habit of the current tour—that of scoring runs in the first inning.

Swanson got the Chicago offensive under way when he landed on first as a result of Traynor's wide throw. Bordagaray walked. Then Bonura rammed a sizzling double along the third base line, Swanson scoring and Bordagaray stopping at third. Simmons was out, Traynor to Suhr, the runners holding their bases. Appling grounded to Lavagetto, who threw to the plate too late to keep Bordagaray from scoring. Dykes and Kress filed out.

Tied in Third.

The Pirates tied the score by making a run in the second on Vaughan's double and Lavagetto's single and one run in the third on Paul Waner's double and Traynor's single.

The Sox waited until the fourth inning to make their second hit off Birkofer and till the fifth to make their third hit and take the lead. Bordagaray led off the fifth with a single to right, went to second on Bonura's infield out and scored on Simmons' single to center. Appling singled to center, putting Simmons on third. Simmons tried to score while Birkofer was throwing out Dykes, but was doubled at the plate, Suhr to Grace.

Run No. 4 was added in the sixth on Shea's single, Swanson's double, and walks to Bordagaray and Bonura, the second of which forced Shea home with the tally. Three runners were left on base when Simmons popped to Lavagetto.

That Brutal Seventh.

And now for the record of the brutal seventh. Appling pushed off with a single and paused while Dykes flied to Jensen. Kress grounded to Thevenow, but, with a double play in front of him, Brubaker dropped Thevenow's perfect throw. Singles by Shea and Heving, a double by Bordagary, and singles by Bonura and Simmons counted for a cluster of five runs.

Chagnon pitched the eighth and the Sox pushed him around precipitately. Dykes pushed off with a triple to center and scored on Kress' double. Shea walked, and the bases were full when Chagnon fumbled Heving's sacrifice. Uhalt batted for Swanson and fanned. Bordagaray drove a long fly to Roettger, scoring Kress, but Shea was doubled trying to reach third.

The Pirates got a gift run in the ninth. Brubaker walked and was permitted to go to third unmolested, whence he scored on Pinch Batter Veltman's single.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

COLUMBUS, O., newspaper man recently asked Francis A. Schmidt, Ohio State's new football coach, what he thought about Michigan, the only team that has defeated the Buckeyes the last two seasons. . . . His answer was: "Hell, those guys put on their pants one leg at a time same as we do." . . . Schmidt was a captain in the world war, division bayonet instructor. . . . Stella Walsh of Cleveland, who was awarded the grand honorary sport prize as Poland's outstanding athlete of 1933, must soon return to her homeland. . . . She was admitted to the United States on a temporary permit. . . . No wonder Willis Hudlin, dean of the Cleveland pitching staf, was one of the last to sign. . . . He made a pretty penny playing all comers in golf at Hot Springs. . . . Hudlin shoots in the low 70s. . . .

Some of the White Sox write that they are happy at the prospects of returning to their Pasadena hotel for the next three training seasons except they hope a certain nervous lady moves. . . . This lady hates Amos 'n' Andy, Guy Lombardo, Ted Fiorito, Gus Arnheim, Rudy Vallee, Ed Wynn, and all the others. . . . Whenever the boys would settle down in their rockin' chairs around the solarium radio said lady would wade right through and snap off the power. . . . Once when the crowd was so thick she couldn't get through she hired the electrician to turn off the juice from the cellar control. . . . FIVE CHICAGOANS SCORE VICTORIES IN A. A. U. BOUTS

Sicilia and Barry Win by Decisive Margins.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 4.—Five members of Chicago's squad of eight amateur boxers came through the first night of the 45th National A. A. U. senior tournament tonight in the Arena, St. Louis' mammoth stadium. Ario Soldati, light heavyweight, and Otis Thomas, heavyweight, advanced because of byes, but the others conquered by the power of their fists.

Armanda Sicilia, bantamweight from Springfield, Ill., joined Tommy Barry, a flyweight from the same city, in reaching the quarter-finals of the tournament. Barry lost a couple of pounds to make the 112 pound division, which may be surprising to Chicagoans who followed his victory in the inter-city matches in Madison Square Garden a week ago as a bantamweight. Bill Treest, Chicago middleweight Golden Gloves champion, also won his fight.

Barry Wins Twice.

Barry first triumphed over Johnny Estrada, a rugged lad from Kansas City, and later beat Jesse Robinson, a teammate, who drew a first round bye.

Sicilia had the better of a three round match with Francis Joseph Ryan of Baltimore, Md. There was no doubt about the outcome as Sicilia was the superior boxer.

Bill Treest was the first to show the boys a knockout punch. He dropped William White, Detroit Golden Gloves finalist, for the complete count in the second round after bouncing him into the ropes and then to the floor for nine seconds in the first round. Barring unexpected misfortune, Treest is the next national champion. Last year he reached the finals of the tournament in Boston.

Kenneally, Matthys Lose.

Phil Kenneally, fighting in the welterweight division, and Walter Matthys, 118 pounds, were the Chicago lads who lost. Kenneally felt that he couldn't reduce to the lightweight class, in which he fought and won at New York last week, but he had the misfortune to draw Andre Jessarun, New York's welterweight, who whipped Bob Lamonte in New York. Phil made a splendid scrap, but lost because of Jessarun's superior infighting. The bout was decided by a 2 to 1 vote of the officials.

Matthys met defeat at the hands of Harry Cortesi of Portland, Ore. Walter took the first round, lost the second, and the officials also gave the Pacific coast lad a margin in the last session.

Soldati and Thomas will fight twice tomorrow night, while the other Chicagoans appear only once. Semi-finals and championships are scheduled Friday.

Official attendance for the opening of the tournament was 3,282 and the receipts were $2,242.20. The crowd might have been larger, except for a cloudburst at 6 o'clock, which delayed the start half an hour.

Rimsey Whips Bojack.

Troy Bellini, Cleveland's 118 pound Golden Gloves champion, won in the preliminary, but Frank Bojack, lightweight champion from Cleveland, was all but knocked out by Amsey Rimsey of Detroit. Bojack reduced thirteen pounds for the tournament and lacked strength. Cleveland's flyweight champion, Jesse Levels, was rejected by the physicians.

Al Nettlow of Detroit, winner of the Golden Gloves featherweight title at the Chicago Stadium, lost to Joe Oliveira of Hawaii, but the decision was booed for several minutes. Most believed Nettlow the winner.

Cleveland Polo Team Defeats Detroit, 12½-2½

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The Cleveland Riding club eliminated the Detroit Blue Eagles from the Western polo tournament, 12½ to 2½, last night at the 124th Field Artillery armory. The winners thereby entered the semi-final round of the 7 to 12 goal division and will be matched against Capt. Maxwell Corpening's Chicago Riding club team Saturday night.

The adroit Bill Fergus, ably abetted by burly Hank Evinger, was largely responsible for the overwhelming victory of the Cleveland trio. Maneuvering his pony in and out of huddles, he followed the ball through all its meanderings and was quick to reach scoring position whenever an opportunity offered. He knocked in 7 of his team's goals, using nearly every variety of stroke in the books.

Baker Scores Three Times.

Baker did excellent work in setting up shots for Fergus and scored three himself. Meanwhile Evinger was keeping the Detroit team well away from the goal. Repeatedly Fisher or Bayley came storming in to attempt scoring shots only to have the ubiquitous Hank steal the ball away from them and send it zipping into safe territory. Following the play all the way down the field on several occasions, this big defense man scored three times.

After holding a 4½ to 2 advantage at the halfway point, the Cleveland players took full command as the third chukker opened. Two goals in quick succession by Evinger and another by

METHODS OF WAGERING.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., April 4.—New York race tracks apparently are about to obtain liberal legislation of which they are badly in need in order to continue high class sport. Bills before the legislature, if passed, will permit "cash and carry" betting instead of the present "nod" system. Tracks will benefit because they may charge for bookmaking privileges within their enclosures.

Under the nod plan no money passes at the track. Bettors must establish credit in advance and settlement is made after the races or the next day. Welching or skipping out by small fry operators is not uncommon. Welching by wealthy patrons frequently is complained of by big betting commissioners. The percentage of such defaults is high enough to cause shorter odds than warranted in order to offset the losses.

If the new laws become effective there will be open betting with money passing at the time of the wager. This will be a convenience to smaller bettors who then can pay as they go and collect their winnings, if any, after each race.

On The Wake's visits to New York tracks we usually were solicited on train or just inside track entrances by gentlemen who offered to provide a bookie. It was necessary to post your money in advance as a credit. One naturally hesitates to hand over cash to a person never seen before and perhaps never to be seen again, although the skips are not as numerous as one would think.

Another bill before the New York legislature submits to popular referendum a constitutional amendment providing for pari-mutuel wagering, which is the goal of race track owners there who believe it the better system, all angles considered.

New York laws are the antithesis of those of Illinois in that respect.

There open betting may be legalized, while constitutional limitations prevent pari-mutuel wagers. In Illinois the mutuels are legalized, while a Supreme court decision holds open booking on horse races is common gambling for which stringent penalties are provided.

NO TOUCHDOWNS, NO BASKETS, BUT CUBS WIN, 24-21

Hurlers Swoon Superbly; Jurges Beans Grimm.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., April 4.—The Cubs and the local Texas leaguers relapsed into the amateur class this afternoon to produce one of the daffiest exhibitions of the so-called national pastime on record. Nine innings should have been sufficient for one day's punishment but to prove they weren't exhausted the principals went ten rounds before the Cubs finally nailed down a lead that held.

The score, according to the very best auditors present, was 24 to 21 and along with the rest of the abuse Manager Charley Grimm took a wallop on the head from a throw by Jurges that knocked Charley cold.

The chief difficulty with the Cubs, who hardly can be termed major leaguers until they have erased this spectacle from their records, was in the pitching department.

Cubs Use Four Throwers.

Grimm figured in advance that two pitchers would serve his purpose for the day. Instead he used four and the only one able to prove himself something better than a thrower was Roy [Lefty] Joiner, who dashed forth with two gone in the tenth when it appeared that a five run lead piled up by the Cubs in their half would get away.

The first of the Chicago pitching stalwarts to stumble was Pat Malone. He stayed for five innings and was thought to be pretty bad because he yielded five runs and 12 hits. Pat was a sensation compared to what followed. Bill Lee was next and remained only one and two-thirds innings. He fanned five but walked four, let loose two wild pitches and yielded four hits for four runs. Then Dick Ward excelled his wabbly predecessors. In three innings Ward walked five, hit one, gave up eight hits and produced one wild pitch. This netted twelve runs off him. Maybe Mr. Grimm is right, after all, when he shows concern about his staf.

Homer Ties the Score.

It was Ward's miserable exhibition that kept the Cubs from winning easily in regulation time. After yielding three runs in the eighth, he went into the ninth leading, 19 to 12. He passed four in the ninth and was touched for three hits, the last of these being a homer with the bases filled by Carl Dorley, a St. Louis semi-pro. That tied the score. Then the

STADIUM CALLS OFF FIGHT CARD NEXT THURSDAY

New Program Billed for April 27.

The boxing show scheduled at the Chicago Stadium next Thursday was called off last night after a conference between Matchmaker Nate Lewis and Charles Bidwill, president of the Stadium Operating company.

Although the matchmaker had arranged a card of six bouts, two at 10 rounds, two at six, one at eight and another at four rounds, for Bidwill's approval the latter contended that the fans now are hocky and baseball conscious. He suggested that the proposed card be canceled. Here it is:

Kid Leonard vs. Frank Battaglia [10].
Lou Brouillard vs. George Nichols [10].
Davey Day vs. Johnny Stroppa [8].
Mickey Joy vs. Geno Salvatore [6].
Billy Miller vs. Frank Misko [6].
Bobby O'Dowd vs. Jimmy Eliopoulos [4].

The next boxing date at the Stadium is April 27.

Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., middleweight, and Henry Rothier, Chicago welterweight, returned last night from Davenport, Ia., where they engaged in matches Tuesday, for their bouts here tomorrow. Stuhley meets Solly Dukelsky in the eight round feature event at White City and Rothier opposes Danny Delmont for eight rounds at Rainbo Fronton.

Rothier and Stuhley came out of their battles at Davenport in good condition and will do loosening up exercises today to hold their edge. The Kewanee boxer went eight hard rounds with Johnny Phagan and Rothier whipped Billy Hoon. The consensus of the Stuhley-Phagan bout was a draw.

The winner of the Dukelsky-Stuhley contest will meet Karl Ogren at White City April 13. Ogren, who has been ill, started workouts yesterday. Five fights will comprise the supporting card tomorrow at White City. They include the following:

Geno Salvatore and Art Donovan [5], 135.
Jack Krans and Frank Ketter [4], heavyweights.
Harry Booker and Lou Terry [4], 135.
Jimmy Cummings and Frank White [4], 160.

Sam Pian, co-manager of Champion Barney Ross will leave for New York today to confer with promoters there on probable title matches against Tony Canzoneri and Frank Klick. The manager, who received a verbal offer of $35,000 with a privilege of 40 per cent to allow Ross to defend the 135 pound crown against Klick at San Francisco, Cal., July 4, yesterday received it in writing. He is withholding acceptance pending the New York discussion.

Eddie Shea, south side featherweight, went five rounds yesterday at Coulon's gymnasium, two with Eddie Chinski and three with Willie Ross for a 10 round scrap against Tony Morgano at Philadelphia Monday.

Joey Kieko and Frank Keevil are paired for the six round windup Monday at Midway arena. Joe Serletic, welterweight, tackles George Trapp in the five round semi-final. Joey Esposito clashes with Paddy Waltier, and Henry Fuscaldo meets Lou Roberts at four rounds. . . . Jim Londos' attorney is drawing up a special contract for a heavyweight wrestling match with Gino Garibaldi at the Stadium on April 20. . . . The purpose is so that Londos will be able to go through with an agreement at Montreal, Que., April 18 in addition to the bout here, which is to be held one day prior to the three day rule set by the Illinois Athletic commission.

The show at Cicero Stadium April 13 yesterday was postponed until April 20. . . . Frank Sigillo, Cicero lightweight, will head the program probably against Tommy Corbett of Omaha, Neb. . . . Leo Rodak is to return Monday from a vacation in Florida.

Tonight's schedule of bouts follows:

At New Haven, Conn.—Lou Brouillard vs. Bob Olin, Brit heavyweights [10].
At Tacoma, Wash.—Ford Smith vs. Fred Lenhart, heavyweights [10].

Father O'Connor council of the Knights of Columbus is sponsoring an amateur card tonight at its clubhouse, 4660 North Kedzie avenue. The card:

Steve Chilock and Joe Desenpcis, 118.
Ed Taylor and Frank De Michaels, 126.
Frank Alberis and Bob Doyle, 147.
S. Canado and James Dolan, 135.
J. Tetax and C. Abernacher, 150.
L. Lorenzo and Harold Sampson, 135.
Eddie Jackson and Al Soukup, 126.
Frank Schultz and Sam Scurto, 118.
Dick Size and Charlie Emmerling [wrestling].

Charles Wozniak, Catholic Youth organization middleweight titleholder, will face Otto Fishal in the main bout of the amateur card tonight at C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street. Other matches:

Alex Wistort vs. Jim Pazy, 145.
Frank Balanch vs. Bud Roney, 135.
Stan Luszak vs. Pat Kenneally, 180.
Mitchell Janus vs. Leo Kubiak, 147.
Jim McArthur vs. Russell Sarnelio, 140.
Leo Simonich vs. Joe Hofer, 135.
Andy Pazy vs. Bob Doyle, 140.

U. S. Files New Tax Lien Against Duffy

New York, April 4.—[Special.]—A lien for $1,670 representing an additional federal tax on an income for 1930 was filed today against William J. Duffy, American manager of Primo Carnera. Duffy, who recently paid $2,209 to liquidate the government's claim on his income for the same year, is serving a four months' sentence for failure to file a return.

Doubleheader Sunday to Open Spring Soccer Card

The spring schedule of the National Professional Soccer league opens next Sunday with a double header at Sparta stadium. At 1 p. m. the Wiebold Wonderbolts, who lead the league by one point, meet the Hungarian Americans. At 3 p. m. the Sparta Leaders local professional champions play the Ravenswood Scots.

Spanish Professor Is Named Notre Dame Tennis Coach

Notre Dame, Ind., April 4.—[Special.]—Prof. Pedro de Landero of the department of Spanish was named tennis coach today by Elmer Layden, Notre Dame director of athletics. Prof. De Landero, former saber champion of Mexico, is coach of fencing and president of the Notre Dame Faculty club.

SMITTY—SILENCE IS GOLDEN

Plan 16 Race Program for Trot Opening

The best trotting and pacing horses from all parts of America will perform in Chicago this season, 120 members of the new Chicago Driving and Riding club were assured last night at the Hotel Sherman, where they were assembled for a good fellowship dinner.

John W. Considine of Hollywood, J. I. Lyle of Plainfield, N. J.; Fred Egan of Florida, W. H. Cane of Goshen, N. Y.; W. N. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, J. B. Reynolds of Kansas City, and W. R. Hayes of Duquoin, Ill., told the Chicago sponsors of the new enterprise that their horses will be here to take part in the first program, which is staged on Memorial day.

Eight Races a Session.

So many horses will be on hand that it was decided to offer eight races in the afternoon of Memorial day and eight more at night. Another program of eight races will be offered on the afternoon of Saturday, June 2.

These will all be dashes in which one heat will decide each event. A race for 2 year olds that have never started or have never finished in the money will be offered on each program.

Expect 500 Horses.

It was also decided last night to start all races from the barrier which throws into the discard the old "scoring" starting system.

Horses will begin to arrive at the association's new half mile track on North avenue and River road within a few days and more than 500 will be quartered there before the first race on Memorial day.

Among the speakers at last night's banquet were Frank Flynn, president of the Chicago Equestrian club; Mr. Lyle, and Considine.

PRINCE ABBOT WINS

Bowie, Md., April 4.—[Special.]—Prince Abbot, a selling plater owned by H. P. Metcalf, shot down a nose in front of Corrymeela in the fourth race at the Bowie race track to provide the longest odds of the eastern racing season. A burst of speed in the final stages of the six furlong event gave the plater victory.

It was Prince Abbot's first start since last November. The attendance was kept down because of the dismal weather. Lough Port, owned by C. J. Eisenhart, finished third, three lengths behind Corrymeela, which was the favorite at 11 to 10. Prince Abbott paid $97.10 for $2 straight tickets and ran the distance in 1:14 3-5 over the slow track.

Jocky Silvio Coucci sent Corrymeela into the lead at the break and was closely followed by Vacillate, which faded at the head of the stretch. Jocky Jimmy Lowry, who kept Prince Abbot in the rear, then rushed and gained ground steadily on the outside, moving up alongside of Corrymeela to win.

NORTHWESTERN, DE PAUL BOXERS MEET TONIGHT

The De Paul university boxing team will meet Northwestern tonight at the De Paul auditorium, 2233 Sheffield avenue.

The main bout will bring together Ed Gallagher of De Paul and Ed Whalen of Northwestern in heavyweight division. This is the first year of competition for Gallagher, whose record consists of two victories and one default. The default was at the hands of Tom Keneally, the C. Y. O. champion. Whalen has had considerably more experience.

Other De Paul fighters who will perform tonight are Harry Curtis, junior welterweight; Jack Basko, welterweight; Frank Broccolo, middleweight; Al Phelan, lightweight, and Tom Flanagan, lightweight.

JONES DEFEATS RUTH AND BYRD IN GOLF MATCH

Atlanta, Ga., April 4.—(AP)—Bobby Jones scored a victory today in an informal foursome match with Babe Ruth and Sam Byrd, Yankee outfielders, and P. Hal Sims, bridge expert.

Jones toured the first nine holes in 36 strokes, one stroke less then Byrd. Ruth had a 39 and Sims professed a 41.

The match ended just before the Yankees' game with Atlanta was scheduled to start and Ruth scarcely had time to dress and reach his post in right field.

Jones, who is one of the officers of the Atlanta team, watched the game from the Crackers' dugout.

Cleveland Polo Team Defeats Detroit, 12½-2½

Fisher Gets 3 for Detroit.

Fisher was the only member of the Detroit team who was able to find the goal, scoring three times.

In the opening game the 122d Field Artillery defeated the Chicago Riding club's low goal team, 11 to 1½, thereby earning the right to compete in the semi-finals of the western tournament in the division for trios under six goals. The game also settled the junior championship of the Metropolitan league, for the Artillery and the Riding club had ended the regular season in a tie for first place.

Harrison's Leg Broken.

The Artillery team will be forced to do the best it can during the remainder of the tournament without the services of its No. 1 man, Lieut. Clift Harrison, who suffered a broken leg when his mount was jammed against the sideboards. He was carried from the arena and taken to St. Joseph's hospital.

JIRO SATOH ILL ON SHIP; WILL RETURN TO JAPAN

TOKIO, Japan, April 5 [Thursday.]—(AP)—Word was received today that Jiro Satoh, Japanese Davis cup player, became ill while en route to Europe for the summer tennis campaign and was taken from the ship at Singapore. The exact nature of his illness was not learned, but it was reported he would return to Japan.

Satoh's illness was believed here to have eliminated Japan's chances of winning the Davis cup this year since Ryosuke Nunoi, another veteran, did not accompany the team. Nippon will be represented in the European zone play by three college stars, all without experience in international play.

New York Race Track Bills Are Passed by Senate

Albany, N. Y., April 4.—[Special.]—The three bills comprising the Dunnigan plan for the rehabilitation of racing in New York state, passed the senate tday.

They are the bill of Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democratic leader, creating a new state racing commission of three members who, with three stewards of the Jocky club, are to have complete control of racing in New York state; the Crawford bill, legalizing betting immediately, and the Twomey constitutional amendment to permit pari-mutuel betting at race tracks.

The commission bill was passed by a vote of 45 to 1. Senator Leigh G. Kirkland, Republican of Randolph, was the only member to oppose it.

As soon as the bill passes the assembly and is approved by Gov. Lehman, Senator Dunnigan will confer with him on the membership of the commission.

ST. CYR BASKET TEAM WILL PLAY CAPLOW TONIGHT

Bob Gruening and Werner Frank will lead the champion St. Cyr basketball team of the Knights of Columbus league in its last game of the season tonight against the Caplow Boosters at the Medinah-Michigan avenue gymnasium. The game will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Several University of Chicago players, including Leo Oppenheim, will be in the Caplow lineup. Others on the squad are Sid Yates and Benny Budrick of the Fast Freights, Harold Preiss, Cecil Caplow, and Frank Cooper.

STOEFEN'S RALLY KEEPS HIM IN HOUSTON MEET

Houston, Tex., April 4.—(AP)—Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles, national indoor tennis champion, came within a game of being eliminated from the annual River Oaks tournament today by Bert Weltens, Texas student.

After beating Stoefen 11-9 and dropping a love set, Weltens took a 5-2 lead in the deciding series. The Californian came back strong, however, to win, 7-5.

In girls' singles Genie Sampson of Chicago beat Mary Louis Fitch of Houston, 6-3, 6-0.

NEW EDITION OF BIRD BOOK GOES ON SALE TODAY

Gives Tips on How to Fill Nesting Boxes.

BY BOB BECKER.

A new edition of The Tribune's handbook on birds goes on on sale this morning. Copies may be purchased at the public service office of The Tribune, 1 south Dearborn street. When bought over the counter at this office the price is 25 cents. By mail the cost is 33 cents.

This bird book [Birds and Bird Houses] has been revised for a new printing. Many illustrations, especially of water birds in Chicagoland, have been added.

Some Practical Tips.

The handbook this year gives attention to those species which the average bird fan will want to know about, and at the same time furnishes practical tips on how to attract birds around the home with nesting boxes. There is one chapter devoted to wren houses

INDIANS POUND HUBBELL, BELL; BEAT GIANTS, 7-0

Cleveland Scores All Runs in Third and Eighth.

Meridian, Miss., April 4.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians hammered Carl Hubbell and Herman Bell today to whip the New York Giants, 7 to 0, and take a lead of three games to two in the exhibition series.

CARL HUBBELL.

An error by Blondy Ryan in the third inning led to four runs for the Indians and a triple by Trosky with two men on the bases and a wide peg by Martin in the eighth gave Cleveland three more. Score:

Cleveland	004	000	030	—7	8	1
New York	000	000	000	—0	7	3

Batteries—Harder, Hudlin and Pytlak, Spencer; Hubbell, Bell and Richards.

PHILLIES, 14; NEWARK, 4.

Clearwater, Fla., April 4.—(AP)—The Phillies pounded two Newark pitchers for 16 hits today to trounce the International leaguers, 14 to 4, in their last pre-season training game here. Score

Philadelphia	470	100	011	—14	16	2
Newark	000	000	004	—4	11	2

Batteries—Holley, Grabowski and Holden; Duke, Brown, Chandler and Collins.

DODGERS, 9; RED SOX, 7.

Orlando, Fla., April 4.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers pounded three Boston Red Sox pitchers for 15 hits today and defeated their American league rivals, 9 to 7. Manager Casey Stengel's players scored six of their runs off Dusty Rhodes, former Yankee right hander, who pitched six innings.

Batteries—Rhodes, Merena, McCluskey and Ferrell, Hinkle; Beck, Leonard and Sukeforth.

TIGERS, 6; REDS, 3.

Tampa, Fla., April 4.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers made it two straight over the Cincinnati Reds in their six game series here today, beating the National league club, 6 to 3, largely through the hitting of Greenberg, Gehringer and Goose Goslin.

Paul Derringer, Reds' right hander, was the victim, weakening in the eighth to allow the Tigers four runs after Cincinnati had been holding a 3 to 2 advantage.

Doubles by Bottomley and Shiver, a triple by Koenig and a single by Hafey accounted for the Reds' three runs. Score:

Detroit	009	200	040—	6	9	0
Cincinnati	011	010	000—	3	9	0

Batteries—Frasier, Larkin and Hayworth; Derringer, Shaute and O'Farrell.

ATHLETICS, 16; CHARLOTTE, 3.

Charlotte, N. C., April 4.—[Special.]—Scoring in every inning but the sixth, seventh and ninth the Philadelphia Athletics pounded out an easy 16 to 3 victory over the Charlotte club today. Seven errors aided the American leaguers in scoring their overwhelming victory. Score:

Philadelphia	332	220	040—	16	16	0
Charlotte	000	100	000—	3	12	7

Batteries—Mahaffey, Kline and Berry; Lyle and Bistruf.

YANKEES, 10; CRACKERS, 5.

Atlanta, Ga., April 4.—(AP)—A homer by Lou Gehrig in the first inning with the bases loaded provided the New York Yankees with the necessary incentive to defeat the Atlanta Crackers, 10 to 5, today. Gehrig's homer featured a first inning attack on pitchers Maley and Thomas that netted the American leaguers four hits and six runs.

Babe Ruth, who had a bad day on the golf links, losing to Bobby Jones in an informal match, had an equally unsuccessful day at the plate, failing to get a hit. Score:

New York	600	010	030—	10	12	3

Batteries—MacFayden, Tamulis and Dickey; Kies, Maley, Thomas, Parker, Schmidt and Neisler.

BRAVES SEEK McMANUS.

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 4.—(AP)—While the Boston Braves were packing today, Manager Bill McKechnie was trying to think out a painless way of separating Marty McManus, last year's Red Sox manager and a competent second baseman, from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The tribe will move on to Orlando tomorrow and McKechnie has high hopes of getting McManus to compensate for the loss of Rabbit Maranville. Although the Dodgers have eight infielders, all of them younger than the 34 year old former American leaguer, McKechnie fears that Bob Quinn and Casey Stengel will demand one of his star pitchers.

The Braves tried to get Marty last winter, when he was let out by the Red Sox, but his salary terms were too high.

HORNSBY DRIVES BROWNS.

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 4.—(AP)—Disappointed with the St. Louis Browns' hitting in their last exhibition game with Buffalo, Manager Rogers Hornsby today drove his men through another long session of batting practice. Hornsby said Clift will continue on third base in the coming games with Brooklyn, indicating the Rajah will not enter the lineup himself during the series.

COLLINS FACES OPERATION.

Bradenton, Fla., April 4.—(AP)—James [Ripper] Collins, St. Louis Cardinals' first baseman, left for St. Louis today to undergo a minor operation. He is expected to be ready to play again when the season opens.

Charley Gelbert, short stop, who suffered a gunshot wound in the leg after the 1932 season, while hunting, is working out and says he'll be able to play by July 4.

SENATORS MEET MEMPHIS.

Biloxi, Miss., April 4.—(AP)—Washington's homeward bound Senators tomorrow begin a series of exhibition games that will keep them busy every day except one between now and the season's opener April 16. They will play at Memphis tomorrow and Friday and battle the Cubs in Chicago on Saturday and Sunday. Two other exhibitions are scheduled at Washington.

Pontiac Pair Sets Mark in A. B. C. Meet

Peoria, Ill., April 4.—[Special.]—Art Johnson and Bobby Allen of Pontiac, Mich., shot the high doubles game of the tournament in rolling into third place in the American Bowling Congress today. The Michigan bowlers opened with a mediocre 350 game and then came back with counts of 415 and 523. Allen hit 277 and Johnson 246 in the final game for the new high tourney mark and third best count in the history of the congress.

Reese Places in All Events.

Only one other major change was recorded among the ten leaders during the matinee sessions. After rolling 603 in the team event, Joe Reese of Middletown, O., came back with a 668 doubles count and a 644 solo series to pile up an aggregate of 1,915 for eighth position in the all events.

Though failing to penetrate among the "big ten," Chicago bowlers, who monopolized most of the tourney drives during the day, produced numerous money totals.

Fetz and Karkow Roll 1,229.

Gus Fetz, one of Chicago's golfers, scored 237, 200, 194, paired with Eddie Karkow, who contributed 151, 241, 222. This pair scored the second high doubles count of the day, 1,229.

Elmer Baumgarten, secretary of the A. B. C., rolled 621 in the singles.

PIM GOFF HALTS BADGERS; STATE NORMAL WINS, 5-3

Bloomington, Ill., April 4.—[Special.]—Pim Goff, left hander, held Wisconsin runless until the ninth inning and then halted a Badger rally to give State Normal a 5 to 3 victory today. Goff allowed only six hits, but three of them came in the last inning. He struck out seven. Score:

Wisconsin	000	000	003—	3	6	1
State Normal	020	002	01*—	5	6	1

Batteries—Baer, Williams, and Ross; Goff and Dohm.

Bull Curry, Hartford, Conn., light heavyweight wrestler, threw Alex Kasaboski of Toronto, Ont., in 10 minutes and 2 seconds of the windup wrestling bout last night at the Rainbo Fronton with a series of body slams. Other results:

Jack Nichols beat Dale Haddock 20:00.
Gorilla Parker threw Toots Estes, 25:20.
Al Williams threw Bill Jensen, 15:20.
Leo Arminelli and Rudy Kay, drew, 20:00.

Harley, Manager of Mills, Speaks on W-G-N Tonight

William G. Harley, manager of the Chicago Mills semi-pro baseball club for the last seven years, will be interviewed tonight by John Harrington on W-G-N, the sports review program. Harley has developed several players now performing in the major and minor leagues.

Maj. Wandle to Train Athletic Teams at Yale

New Haven, Conn., April 4.—[Special.]—The Yale Athletic association today announced the appointment of Maj. Frank A. Wandle of Louisiana State university at Baton Rouge, La., as trainer of athletic teams at Yale. Maj. Wandle has resigned at Louisiana State and is expected to report here next week.

He comes to Yale with an athletic career covering 30 years as player, coach, and trainer. He was a former football, baseball, and track athlete and went to Louisiana State at the instigation of Capt. L. M. [Biff] Jones, now coach there.

Cubs Capture Farce, 24-21, at San Antonio

Cubs got a safe lead in the tenth, five scoring on one hit and some comical San Antonio fielding and pitching.

Here's how Manager Grimm was sent squirming into the dust in the tenth: Bill Jurges cut loose a bulletlike throw and Grimm reached for it, but the ball whistled right through his hands, breaking the web of his glove and plunking him on the forehead. He revived in a few moments.

Jurges Starts a Rally.

Because of the punishment inflicted on Malone, the Cubs were well in arrears until the fifth inning, when they succeeded in landing on Hal Wiltse, a southpaw. Jurges started a six run rally by doubling. Hartnett's single scored him. Galan doubled and W. Herman singled, sending Hartnett and Galan home. Cuyler also singled and Klein doubled, W. Herman scoring. Cuyler and Klein were driven home by Grimm, who singled off Hillin, successor to Wiltse.

Because of Lee's wildness in the seventh San Antonio tied the count at 9 apiece, which necessitated another Cub uprising. It came in the eighth, seven Chicagoans scoring. Hits by English and W. Herman, passes to Cuyler and Klein, a single by Babe Herman and a home run by pudgy Babe Phelps over the right center field wall turned the trick. From then until Joiner relieved Ward with two out in the tenth it was just runs on top of runs.

Root, Tinning Pitch Today.

Manager Grimm has changed his pitching plans for the second of the series here tomorrow. He previously announced he would give Ward and Joiner a workout.

The latest bulletin sets forth that the pitching will be handled by Charley Root and Bud Tinning, the two fellows who thus far have been hit too hard to satisfy the many Cub bosses. Grimm's explanation of this sudden switch was that both men need the work. That's exactly what they need and after they get enough at least one of them may be O. K.

DUNLAP REACHES SEMI-FINALS OF PINEHURST GOLF

Pinehurst, N. C., April 4.—[Special.]—George T. Dunlap Jr., national amateur golf champion, advanced to the semi-finals of the annual North and South amateur tournament by defeating Jack Ryerson, Cooperstown, N. Y., former Yale player. The score was 4 and 2.

In the semi-final round tomorrow Dunlap will play Arthur Lynch, Maroneck, N. Y., who defeated Robert Lester, Orange, N. J., 1 up. In the other match Dick Wilson, Southern Pines, will meet Dick Chapman, Greenwich, Conn. Wilson eliminated H. J. Blue, Pittsburgh, 4 and 3, while Chapman routed Johnny Johnson, Lumberton, N. C., 5 and 7.

Hagenlacher Beats Hoppe; Regains 18.2 Billiard Lead

Eric Hagenlacher, German entrant in the 18-2 balk line billiard tournament which will end tomorrow night at the 131 South Wabash Avenue Recreation, defeated Willie Hoppe last night, 400 to 223.

ERIC HAGENLACHER.

The victory gave Hagenlacher sole possession of the first place with six victories and one defeat, permitting him to break a tie with Welker Cochran, who earned a share of the lead yesterday afternoon by defeating Kinrey Matsuyama, 400 to 181. Hoppe now is out of the running for the title.

This afternoon Matsuyama and Ora C. Morningstar of San Diego wind up their schedules. Hoppe is scheduled to play Cochran tonight, while tomorrow night Cochran and Hagenlacher will fight it out for the championship.

Two Fouls in Match.

Hoppe got away on the opening shot, running 35 points only to miss a cross table shot with one of the object balls in the middle of the table. Hagenlacher came back with 38. Then Hoppe added eight before he missed a simple draw shot. Hagenlacher piled up 50 points, which included two difficult masses in succession. In the third inning Hoppe miscued, the first incident of its kind during the tourney.

Hoppe took the lead for the first time in the fourth inning by a score 211 to 190. His run of 168 in this frame was the second best run of the tourney. In Hagenlacher's half of the frame he scored a 55, followed by a 70 which was concluded by the second foul of the tournament. After Hoppe added 12 more in the sixth inning, making his total score 223, Hagenlacher scored his high run of the evening, an unfinished run of 141 to go out.

Cochran set a new tournament record of 211 billiards in the third inning of the afternoon match. Matsuyama also came through with an impressive cluster of 122 in his last turn at the table to save himself from an overwhelming defeat.

Quite an Average.

Prior to the tournament old time billiard players were of the opinion the 200 mark would not be reached, due to the fact that the players have recently been competing in three cushion tournaments.

Cochran, in scoring his fifth victory, averaged more than 57 points an inning, second only to Hagenlacher's mark of yesterday, when the German star clicked off his four hundred points in six innings for the tournament record.

The Californian had only one scoreless inning, the first, when a kiss stopped him.

POLUX MAKES HAVANA HARBOR AFTER DELAYS

HAVANA, April 4.—(AP)—Only the awarding of the prizes remained to officially end the fifth St. Petersburg to Havana yacht race today as the entire fleet of 15 lay at anchor in the harbor.

The last of the fleet that left St. Petersburg Saturday noon for the cruise of 284 nautical miles crossed the finish line early this morning when Dr. Jose Alveres's 27 foot sloop, Polux, cast anchor under the shadows of Morro castle at 8:40 a. m.

Buffeted by southern gales for 40 hours, the Polux took 92 hours, 40 minutes to complete the journey. With a handicap of 5 hours, 18 minutes, she had a corrected time of 87 hours, 27 minutes, far back of the Lanaki, the winner of class B competition.

Prior to encountering the gales the little boat was becalmed off Tortuga for 24 hours and then blown at least 50 miles off the course. The heavy seas also damaged the rudder, repairing of which caused several more hours delay.

U. S. Sends Best Polo Ponies Over Sea to England

New York, April 4.—[Special.]—It has been 13 years since the last American polo team invaded England and when the S. S. American Banker sails Friday with a batch of ponies to be ridden by Uncle Sam's stars this summer it will contain a group of mounts that should graphically portray for the British the upheaval that has occurred in this country in that time.

Twenty-one ponies will be included in the cargo and half of them will be American bred. An equal number was sent at a earlier date. They will be ridden by the American side which includes Elmer Boeseke Jr., Harold E. Talbott Jr., Seymour Knox, and Billy Post.

The prize pony in the string is Elmer Boeseke's Red Ace, a big California bred chestnut gelding that won first prize as the best playing pony on the western side during the East-West matches and also took ribbons at the National Polo Pony show.

Boeseke also will have Clarence, a brown gelding of the same breeding, which also performed in the Chicago series.

Golfers Drill for Tourney at French Lick

French Lick, Ind., April 4.—[Special.]—Hunter Hicks, young Chicago golfer, may be the surprise in the Midwest Amateur handicap tournament to be staged here Friday, Saturday and Sunday. He has been here practicing daily since Monday and has been shooting close to par on the difficult hill course of the French Lick Springs hotel.

In his practice rounds here he is accompanied by Arthur T. McIntosh Jr., member of the golf squad of Northwestern university. McIntosh was a track man last year, but after a leg injury, gave up track to give all his time to golf.

A third young Chicagoan practicing here since Monday for the tournament is Bud Schlibers, who played impressive golf around Chicago for the last two or three years. Any one of these three early birds is liable to make it difficult for Chick Evans, George Dawson, Jack Westland, and many others who will play in the meet.

WES FERRELL NOT WORRIED; MAY JUST GO FISHING

Indians' Pitcher Holdout Says He Has Cash.

Greensboro, N. C., April 4.—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell, the Cleveland Indians' holdout pitcher, is keeping in condition on his 100 acre farm near here, but just where he will play baseball this season and how much he will receive are not among his worries, he said today.

"How about this baseball situation?" he was asked today as he sat on the running board of an expensive automobile at his home.

Hears Nothing of Evans' Visit.

"Well, I got an offer of $5,000 to pitch for the Cleveland club," he replied. "But—well, you see this old bus? How about going on a nice long trip, fishing and playing golf? I've got enough to keep me going for the next 30 years, and to run the old car, too. If things get too tough, I can pitch semi-pro ball for $200 or $300 per game."

Told it had been rumored that Billy Evans, general manager of the Indians, had visited him or planned to visit him for a talk on his relationship with the club, Ferrell said he'd heard nothing of it.

Doesn't Understand It.

Ferrell returned the contract Cleveland sent him, and recently he said he has heard nothing from the club.

"Frankly, I don't understand this baseball business," he commented. "You go out and win ball games, and they cut your salary.

"I have been informed the Cleveland club asked waivers on me, but Washington and Chicago in the American league, and Brooklyn in the National, refused to waive me out of the majors. Those waivers were nothing more than feelers. If the Cleveland club was willing to let me go at the waiver price, then why did they offer me my release for $35,000? I expect they have something in the air."

BONDS MOVE UP ON TREASURY'S FINANCING PLAN

Governments Lead Gains on Wide Front.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 4.—In a buying movement that derived its main motivating force from the treasury's April 15 financing announcement the bond market staged an impressive advance today. Paced by government issues, the entire list of high-grade bonds rose, while low-priced speculative types advanced from 1 to 2 points.

In the course of active trading five long-term treasury bond issues changed hands at new highs for the year before a supply of offerings was encountered. Because the treasury made no cash offering of the new 3¼s, a market was established for them today. They brought around 101¾, and called fourths and maturing 3s went at around the same price.

Corporate Issues Up.

Fractional gains ruled gilt-edge corporate bonds. Features of strength here included American Telephone sinking fund 5s, debenture 5s and convertible 4½s, Chesapeake Corporation 5s, Brooklyn Union Gas debenture 5s, Burlington 4s of 1949, Pennsylvania Consolidated 4½s and General 4½s, Duquesne Light 4½s and Norfolk and Western Consolidated 4s.

A feature in the lower grade bonds was the insistent demand for Milwaukee 5s of 1975, which advanced 2 points before they ran into larger supply.

Turnover Much Larger.

While the heaviest trading was centered in the government section, total transfers amounted to $20,358,000, par value, compared with $12,151,000 on the preceding day.

The majority of foreign obligations also improved, bonds of Argentina, Japan, North German Lloyd, Paris-Orleans, Rhine-Westphalia and Sao Paulo advanced 1 or more points. Less pressure was noted on the German issues and some of them rallied mildly.

HIDE FUTURES.

Trade in hide futures yesterday in New York aggregated 1,000,000 pounds. Prices were 5 points lower to 20 points higher. Closing bids: June, 11.15c; September, 11.89c; December, 12.35c; March, 12.85c.

HOLC BONDS.

Bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation were quoted yesterday at 99⅝ bid, 100¼ asked.

International Harvester.

Investors' Guide: I should appreciate your opinion on stock of International Harvester.—S. G.

Answer: Biggest of the farm equipment manufacturers. International Harvester company operates in all parts of the world. Earnings, however, fluctuate primarily with conditions of United States farm income.

Earnings during periods when farmers were prosperous have been substantial. During periods of low prices for agricultural products, however, the company has been unable to operate profitably. Low prices for farm products mean not only reduced sales but slow and doubtful collection of receivables.

Strengthening of prices for farm products in 1933 enabled the company to report an increase in sales of 5 per cent over 1932. Net loss totaled $1,886,000, against loss of $7,583,000 for 1932. Net income in 1931 was $1,347,000, equal to only $1.64 per preferred share, against net income of $25,703,000, or $4.55 per common share, for 1930. Net for 1929 was $36,780,000.

Current position at the close of 1933 was impressive. Current assets, including cash assets of about $52,000,000, were $232,329,000 and current liabilities were $19,506,000. There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 823,325 shares of $100 par 7 per cent preferred and 4,245,581 shares of no par common.

The future trend of profits is uncertain. Improved farm conditions have resulted in improved sales, and, of more immediate concern, better collections of receivables. Past experience indicates, however, that there must be comparatively high prices over a considerable period of time before farmers can be persuaded to invest in capital goods. Furthermore, activities of the federal government in encouraging farmers to reduce acreage may act as a check on sales of farm equipment.

In this industry the large scale manufacturer has a great advantage over the small producer. The small units are not able to offer a complete line of equipment to the farmer, their dealer outlet is necessarily limited, and many of them are in precarious financial condition. Large liquid resources are a necessity, due to the fact that most of the equipment is sold on long term credit.

The common stock pays 15 cents a quarter. The preferred is high grade. Ample liquid resources, dominant position in the industry and checking of the downward trend of earnings entitle the common to a fairly good rating.

GEN. MOTORS RAISES PRICES; FORD WILL NOT

Increases Run from $20 to $300.

Detroit, Mich., April 4.—[Special.]—Price increases ranging from $20 to $300 were announced today by General Motors on the cars in its various lines. At the same time Henry Ford, in an interview with a Dow, Jones & Co. representative, said that he would not raise prices on his automobiles.

HENRY FORD.

The General Motors action followed price increases announced on Monday by Chrysler and Studebaker. It was attributed to higher steel prices, increased wages, and reduction in working hours.

The increases, effective immediately, ordered by General Motors, are as follows: Chevrolet, $35 and $30 on passenger cars and $20 on commercial cars; Pontiac models, $20; Oldsmobiles, from $30 on the sixes to $65 on the eights; Buick, $65 to $130. Series 50, smallest Buick line, was given a flat increase of $65 on all models. Series 60 was raised $75 to $100 and series 90 was increased $100 to $130. Cadillac's increases ranged from $100 on the La Salle line to $300 on the V-16 line.

Increases Announced Monday.

Increases announced on Monday by Chrysler were: Plymouths, $35 to $45; Dodge, $45 flat; Chrysler six, $40 to $55 and on the airflow line, $100 to $130. Studebaker increases ranged from $25 on the Dictator and Commander lines to $50 on the President line.

In giving his reasons for declining to raise prices, Mr. Ford asserted that when prices go up business goes down. He warned that if prices for the supplies which he purchases advance further, he may expand his manufacture of his needs.

"Neither higher wages nor increased material costs can force us to raise prices," Mr. Ford asserted. "I have found that higher wages do not mean increased costs and if our material prices go too high we will start making our own. We are making a part of everything we use and from this nucleus we can readily expand to take care of any or all of our requirements if necessary."

Mr. Ford said that his company is operating "in the black" on a basis of present costs.

Predicts Million Unit Output.

Discussing the probable production of his plants, Mr. Ford said: "We will make all the cars people want to buy; I should think about 1,000,000 units.

"It is pretty certain that everybody will be looking for a plan to reduce prices before we can say that business is getting back where it should be. Higher wages are not an additional cost under proper management. Better paid workmen are more willing and more efficient. Better material is not necessarily more expensive. On the contrary it is always more economical."

Mr. Ford was asked if a wage increase which might add $500,000 a day or a week to his pay roll would have effect on the price to be charged for his product. His answer was:

"Last year at lower wages was more costly to industry than this year at higher wages because last year we were paying wages that produced nothing and this year our wages are beginning to give promise of a return."

Mr. Ford was asked whether this same logic did not apply to materials.

"It should be true all the way through," he replied, "but unfortunately it is not because when you get into the field of material supply you run up against the financial state of mind again. You meet a great top heavy corporation that practically controls some basic material and you find that the corporation's main interest is not in its commodity at all, but in its financial organization.

"Thinks in Tonnage Terms."

"Its prime interest is not in turning out whatever the commodity may be but dividends. It thinks in terms of tonnage and what it yields in money. Groups like that are the very first to press for a rise in prices. It's the only thing they know.

"They say business is good. Let's boost our prices. They boost their prices and business slacks off again and they are surprised and puzzled. They forget there is nobody who can pay the increased prices in this country except our own people and if the people haven't got the price demanded they simply do not buy. But this is all too simple for the great economic minds that direct our affairs.

"Prices should be coming down. During this slack period we should have learned more efficient methods and we should have acquired so much more skill as to give the world what it needs in greater quantity and of greater quality at lower prices."

Coincident with its announcement of price increases Chevrolet stated today that its production for the first quarter of 1934 was 223,010 units. The March output of 110,266 cars and trucks was the largest single month's production in nearly three years.

Strike Delays Action on Nash Motors Dividend

Kenosha, Wis., April 4.—[Special.]—The regular quarterly meeting of Nash Motors company, which was to have been held here today, was postponed until next Monday. Nash officials were engaged in a conference with union leaders at Racine and with members of the Detroit tribunal, seeking an adjustment of the points at issue in the strike of 4,600 employes.

Power Output Highest Since End of 1931

The largest total of kilowatt hours since December, 1931, was produced for the week ended March 31, it was announced yesterday. Volume was actually in excess of that for the corresponding week of 1929, though falling slightly short of the same periods in 1930 and 1931.

Aggregate production of electric energy in the country amounted to 1,666,650,000 kilowatt hours, or 18.8 per cent over the total of 1,402,142,000 in the parallel week of 1933. In the preceding week, when output totaled 1,653,389,000 kilowatt hours, the margin was 17.6 per cent. Last week's gain approached that of the week ended March 17—20 per cent—which was the best year to year increase on record, according to the Edison Electric Institute.

Percentage Gain Higher.

Electric output in Chicago held steady last week, according to the Commonwealth Edison company. The total was 100,356,000 kilowatt hours, against 100,665,000 in the week ended March 24. Improvement over the volume for the like period of last year was 13.4 per cent, against 11.3 in the preceding week.

Following are the output and percentage comparisons with last year for the Chicago district:

KILOWATT HOUR OUTPUT.

Week ended—	1934.	1933.	Pct. Incr.
March 31.....	100,356,000	88,502,000	13.4
March 24.....	100,665,000	90,526,000	11.2
March 17.....	99,500,000	87,583,000	13.7
March 10.....	100,710,000	88,388,000	13.9

In five of the seven territorial divisions the margin shown by output over that of the corresponding week of 1933 was larger than the gain in the preceding week. The improvement was particularly marked in the southern states and the Rocky mountains.

Improvement by Sections.

In the middle Atlantic states the increase was 14.4 per cent, against 12.7 in the week ended March 24; in the central industrial area, 27.4, against 27; on the Pacific coast, 12.7, against 12.3; in the southern states, 17.2, against 12.1, and in the Rocky mountains area, 12.1, against 18.4.

The lead was reduced from 19.2 to 17.3 in New England and from 11.8 to 10.5 in the west central region.

Production of electric power for March was about 13 per cent over that of the same month of 1933, compared with 13 for February and 10 for January, it was reported yesterday.

HARVESTER CLUB MEETS AGAIN; GAINS REPORTED

After having had its activities curbed for three years because of the depression the Harvester club met yesterday at the Stevens hotel. The organization is composed of employes of the International Harvester company with membership open to any one from office boy to president. It formerly held monthly luncheon meetings which were abandoned when the depression began to take effect.

Fowler McCormick, assistant domestic sales manager, spoke of the present business situation as "a spring" following a long "four year winter" of hard times. Mr. McCormick said there were evidences on all sides of reviving business. From a world point of view he found conditions somewhat spotty, although there is improvement.

Fowler McCormick's father, Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the executive committee of the company, and Cyrus H. McCormick, chairman of the board of directors, were among the 500 International Harvester employes who attended. Frank B. Schwarer of the company's legal staf is president of the club, which hopes to hold monthly meetings hereafter.

DOLLAR REVERSES TREND AND GAINS SUBSTANTIALLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 4.—The value of the dollar rose substantially against all leading foreign currencies today, reversing the downward trend of Tuesday.

In terms of the French gold franc the dollar was 14 points higher at 59.3 cents, the franc closing at 6.60 against 6.61½ the preceding day. The British pound was still weaker, losing 2⅛ cents on a final quotation of $5.16.

Further gold imports of $3,190,200 from England were reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Future gold imports from England will be unprofitable unless a reaction in sterling or in the London price of gold occurs, it was calculated today.

On the basis of the price of sterling prevailing at the time of the "fixing" of the London bullion price today, gold in London was priced at the equivalent of $34.87, the highest since the revaluation of gold here.

F. W. Woolworth March Sales 37.2 Pct. Above '33

Sales of the F. W. Woolworth company for March were $24,035,104, or 37.2 per cent more than the total of $17,509,000 for the same month last year. For the three months ended March 31 sales aggregated $60,032,926, or 21 per cent above the total of $49,599,511 in the like 1933 period.

RATE OF STEEL ACTIVITY RISES HALF A POINT

Orders Heavy Prior to Price Boost.

Profiting from the short interim of lower prices prior to the effective date of the new schedules, many consumers of steel have been contracting for the second quarter, according to the Iron Age. New developments have already begun to react upon the mills. Sharply higher operating schedules in finishing mills are expected by the middle of the month.

National operations have risen one-half point to 48½ per cent of capacity. At Chicago the rate remained at 47. In Pittsburgh it rose 3 to 35, and in the valley 2 to 54. On the other hand, mills at Cleveland curtailed output 7 to 56, and in the south 2 to 50. In other centers operations were held steady.

Defer Price Boost Results.

The effect of the anticipatory buying of steel, according to the Iron Age, is to deprive the industry, to a great extent, of the benefit of the higher prices until the third quarter. "In the meantime, producers face immediate absorption of higher labor and fuel costs," the review points out. "The only advantage they can expect to gain from the price changes this quarter is the operating economies that will result from the increased rate of output that will follow the current wave of buying."

With the exception of pipe, tin plate, and rails, practically all of the commoner steel products have been raised in price. On the basis of the increases so far made public, the Iron Age composite for finished steel is raised from 2.028 cents a pound to 2.184. The revised composite, however, is still substantially below averages for both 1929 and 1926, though basic wage rates have now attained about the same level as in the pre-depression period, according to the review.

May Raise Cost of Rails, Pipe.

The price of pipe may be raised; likewise the compromise quotation on rails, which expires on April 15. No revision on tin plate in the immediate future is expected.

Producers of pig iron haven't yet filed price changes, but the addition of higher fuel costs to higher labor costs may make such an action inevitable, remarks Iron Age, whose composite for pig iron is unaltered at $16.90 per gross ton.

"Coal operators have not yet been able to determine the effect of their own new wage setup," comments the review, "but they have temporarily advanced all grades of bituminous coal 25 cents a ton and both furnace and foundry coke 35 cents a ton. These changes are effective immediately, since all fuel contracts carry a wage clause."

Scrap prices have not been actually advanced, though in the important Pittsburgh market there are indications of stiffening. A further decline at Chicago has reduced the Iron Age composite for heavy melting steel scrap from $12.67 to $12.58 a gross ton.

REPORT HOURS, WAGES RISE.

New York, April 4.—(AP)—Continued improvement in the iron and steel industry was reflected in the February report of hours and wages made public today by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

The total number of workers receiving hourly piecework, or tonnage wages in February was 365,305, an increase of approximately 10,000 over the 355,292 reported in January. Average hours per week per employe increased from 29.3 to 31.9 in February, while the average hourly wage rose from 58.3 cents to 58.7 cents, the highest wage reported since the iron and steel code became effective last September.

Based on the February total of wages paid, the April 1 increase of 10 per cent will add over $2,700,000 monthly to the steel industry pay rolls, the institute said.

Since June, aggregate wage increases in the industry amount to approximately 26 per cent. Total wages paid in February were $27,394,221, against $26,737,896 in January.

GUARANTY TRUST NATION'S SECOND LARGEST BANK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 4.—The Guaranty Trust company, in its statement of condition as of March 31, reported deposits of $1,178,744,990, which gave it rank as the second largest bank in the country. The total compared with $1,169,981,220 reported for March 5 by the National City bank in its latest statement.

The Guaranty and National City for more than a year have shown totals of deposits and resources so close as to leave little choice between the two for the title of second largest bank. The Guaranty twice previously has reported larger resources than the National City, but never before has reported larger deposits. Its current statement shows larger totals for both items.

Mitchell Quit Bank Owing It 2/3 of Million

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 4.—Charles E. Mitchell left the National City bank last February, owing the bank $666,667, according to his testimony in Supreme court today. Mr. Mitchell implied there was no way in which the bank could ever collect this sum from him.

C. E. MITCHELL. [Murray Photo.]

The debt resulted from operations of the bonus system, or "management fund," of the bank and company, from which Mr. Mitchell and two others received $9,000,000 in nine years. The testimony was taken in trial of the $7,000,000 suit against the bank brought by stockholders. It was brought out by David L. Podell, counsel for the plaintiffs.

He defended the payment of his $100,000 a year salary today because "our entire organization was spurred to endeavor by the fact that I was receiving a substantial consideration for my services."

"We always tried to perfect plans which would bring about more efficient endeavor on the part of all," Mitchell said.

Tells of Overpayment.

Mr. Mitchell explained that in June, 1929, the "management fund" distributed $1,300,000 to the principal officers of the bank. At the end of that year it was discovered, however, that there were no funds available for this purpose. Since the fund was operated on a yearly basis, the June payment thereby became an overpayment of the full amount.

To take care of this contingency, the directors of the bank passed a resolution which provided that the June payments should be a debt of the recipients of the bank, but that payment should be solely from future disbursements under the management fund. There was no disbursement in 1930 nor 1931. In the latter year, however, an undistributed balance in the fund, left over from 1928, was distributed to Mr. Mitchell and the other chief officers. This payment was not used to reduce the debt of the officers.

No Other Payments Made.

Save for the 1928 balance paid in 1931 there were no management fund disbursements from the time of the 1929 overpayment until Mr. Mitchell left the bank Feb. 27 last year, when he resigned because of disclosures before the senate investigation in Washington.

Earlier in his testimony today Mr. Mitchell had explained how the losses which the bank sustained as the result of its Cuban sugar loans had not been reflected in the management fund of the National City company. Total losses are placed by the plaintiffs at $34,000,000. The sum discussed in today's testimony, however, was only one item of this total, and amounted to $4,100,000. When this $4,100,000 "asset" was transferred to the company, Mr. Mitchell testified, the capital and surplus of the company was reduced by that amount on the books, which increased the base on which the management fund was computed.

Bradstreet's Food Index Declines Again to $2.10

The Dun & Bradstreet weekly food index dropped 1 cent last week to $2.10. This marked the fourth consecutive weekly decline and brought the index to the lowest point in two months.

Bonds' Strength Fails to Hide Fear of New Dose of Inflation

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Recent strength in the bond market has partially concealed the fact that the financial world is still looking for another dose of inflation.

The upturn in bond prices has been due to two things: first, lack of new offerings other than federal issues and a few municipals; and second, increased buying. This buying, however, has been limited largely to banks, insurance companies and trust funds—in other words, institutions that may not legally buy anything but bonds.

With the inauguration of the guaranty of bank deposits the first of the year the pressure of potential runs was removed—at least temporarily—and bankers began to cease striving for absolute liquidity and started to invest some of their idle funds in order to get some badly needed income. Insurance companies found demands for policy loans receding and got back into the market for bonds.

* *

With the normal flow of new bond offerings dammed to a trickle of municipals by the new federal securities act, except for the treasury flotations, the demand has been greater than the supply. Banks and insurance companies have scrambled to get treasury allotments and when they don't get enough they find it necessary to go into the open market and bid for some of the better grade corporate issues listed on the exchanges.

The financial community, however, has not been misled by this peculiar strength in the bond market. It is not interpreted as an indication that investors' inflation fears have been lulled to sleep by the temporary stabilization of the dollar at 59 per cent of its former level.

* *

Banks and insurance companies, it is pointed out, have to invest in fixed income bearing securities. Furthermore, in so doing they do not expose themselves to serious dangers in the event of further inflation, because their liabilities as well as their resources are fixed. If the dollar the bank has invested in bonds goes down to 20 cents the dollar that the bank owes the depositor likewise goes to 20 cents.

The portfolios of leading investment trusts afford a better conception of the financial community's guesses on the nation's future monetary policy. In the management type of investment trust investments are usually a matter of choice. It is significant that where such choice exists the investment trend is still in the direction of equities rather than fixed income bearing securities.

This popularity of common stocks may, of course, be due in part to improved industrial earnings and the possibility of increased dividends. The swing to gold and silver shares and other "inflation" stocks, however, is unmistakeable.

Glass, Black Unite on Direct Reserve Loans

Washington, D. C., April 4.—(AP)—Divergent views on government loans to industry were virtually reconciled today and a new plan under which private enterprise could obtain its financing direct from the federal reserve banks awaited President Roosevelt's approval.

Senator Glass [Dem., Va.] and Gov. Eugene Black of the federal reserve board agreed in general upon a compromise, abandoning the reserve board's proposal that intermediate banks be established to handle such financing.

Black's approval of the plan was conditioned upon President Roosevelt's endorsement and he and Glass planned to call at the White House together after the President's return from his southern fishing trip to discuss the plan with him.

Could Take Long Time Paper.

As the measure now stands, the reserve banks would be authorized for the first time to rediscount long term paper with a maximum maturity of five years for any bank or financing institution in its district, with the proviso that the obligations so discounted shall have been "entered into for the purpose of obtaining working capital for any established industrial or commercial business."

In exceptional circumstances, the measure says, when "an established industrial or commercial business is unable to obtain requisite financial assistance on a reasonable basis from the usual sources," the reserve bank of its district may lend to it directly.

Reserve Bank's Authority.

The reserve bank, in such cases, would be authorized to "make advances to, or purchase obligations of, such business or may make commitments with respect thereto, for the purpose of providing working capital."

In addition the reserve banks would be authorized to "assist in developing and effectuating plans for the reorganization or refinancing of any such business." The government would provide the reserve banks with $150,000,000 for these purposes and the banks themselves would put up an equal amount.

SHARP GAIN SEEN IN GREAT LAKES SHIPPING TRAFIC

Cleveland, O., April 4.—(AP)—More freight tonnage will be carried this summer on the great lakes than in any year since the depression began, a survey indicated today. Estimates on the amount of iron ore to be shipped from the Lake Superior region ranged from 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 tons, compared with 21,000,000 last year and 3,500,000 in 1932.

H. M. Griggs of the Ore and Coal exchange said that coal tonnage will reach 40,000,000 this year against 31,000,000 last season.

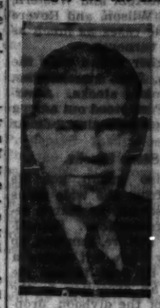
Only 40 blast furnaces using Lake Superior ore were operating last year; 76 are blazing this spring.

'BULK' SYSTEM OF HOLC LOANS IS BARRED HERE

Head Goes to Capital to Learn Reason.

BY AL CHASE.

Henry G. Zander Jr., Illinois state manager for the Home Owners' Loan corporation, is in Washington trying to discover why telegraphic orders were sent from the capital ordering the immediate suspension of the newly installed bulk system of handling HOLC loans. This was disclosed yesterday when it was learned that Washington refuses to allow Illinois to use the method which has placed Ohio at the top of the list of loan making states. Ohio, with approximately 118,000 applications for loans, has broken all records by making more than 18,000 loans through use of the bulk or group system.



H. G. ZANDER JR. [Kochns Photo.]

Meanwhile, despite the jamming of federal brakes to an activity which it is said promised promptly to clear up at least 10,000 distressed mortgage cases now in the big backlog at the Illinois HOLC offices, and care for thousands in the future, it was announced yesterday that at last production is being speeded here.

Speed Action Here.

During the month of March there were only 115 loans closed in the Chicago office. Last Monday forty loans were negotiated and yesterday forty more loans were paid out. H. O. Walther, Chicago manager, promised that this would be increased daily until by April 19 he expects a daily record of 100 loans negotiated.

It also was learned yesterday that much time is being wasted correcting in the neighborhood of 300 loans which were closed and paid out during the former Donne administration. Forty people for two months have been kept busy and still are working checking mistakes made before Zander succeeded Donne.

Details were made public yesterday for the first time regarding the bulk or group handling of loans. This is a plan which has been so successful in Ohio that Mr. Zander frankly copied it for Illinois.

The plan is to turn over to certain

STOCKS AGAIN CREEP HIGHER IN DULL TRADE

Preferred Shares Score Best Gain for Day.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 4.—The creeping advance which has been under way on the stock exchange for the last week or so carried a miscellaneous collection of issues to slightly higher levels today. Trading continued extremely dull, however, and the market as a whole was a pretty drab affair, with volume totaling only 1,588,740 shares.

Best gains were made in the preferred list. Senior issues of Baldwin, General Cable, Certainteed Products, Hanna, Dupont, Norfolk and Western, Radio B, Maytag, Wilson, and Revere Brass rose in some cases as much as 6 points on small turnover.

Fractionally higher prices were the rule for the farm, food, merchandise, tobacco, and chemical stocks. American Can and Du Pont stood out among the industrials, each mounting a dollar a share.

Sales Aid Store Stocks.

The merchandise group got its strength mainly from the wide gains over last year disclosed in March reports of retail organizations. Spiegel-May-Stern was a feature, running up 5 points to a new high, but easing a point or so from its peak toward the last. Macy was an exception to the general strength of the division, dropping nearly 3 points.

Building shares met with some demand under the leadership of American Radiator in early dealings, but faded out of the picture after a brief flurry.

Bull leaders tried to start something by bringing the motors forward, but the declaration of Henry Ford that he would not join the rest of the industry in raising prices put a crimp on the plan. Chrysler and Mack Truck were up fractionally at the close, but the rest of the group was barely able to hold its own.

Union Pacific Leads Rails.

The rails showed flashes of strength, but got nowhere. Union Pacific made the best showing. Iron Age's report predicting a sharp increase in milling operations failed to aid steel shares. U. S. Steel common wound up fractionally lower, while Bethlehem closed unchanged.

Desultory talk on inflation in one form or another focused some interest on the metals for a while, but U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Dome, and Cerro de Pasco all finished lower.

Most of the day's news favored the bull side. Uncertainties over pending events at Washington, however, kept traders in a wary state of mind and discouraged commitments of importance.

TESTIFY PEORIA LIFE HEAD USED CONCERN'S FUNDS

Peoria, Ill., April 4.—(AP)—Testimony was given at the embezzlement trial of Everett C. May today that he withdrew $13,500 from an account of the Peoria Life Insurance company and on the same day deposited an equal amount to his personal account in the Bank of Peoria. May was chairman of the life insurance company when it went into receivership Nov. 15, 1933. He also was president of the bank which closed the same day, a majority of its stock being owned by the insurance company.

Evidence of the $13,500 transaction, which occurred Feb. 9, 1932, was given by George Arthur Clark, former vice president of the bank. He also testified to talking with May prior to this date about an overdraft in his personal account.

CUSTOMS' RED TAPE CUTS U. S. FRENCH TRADE

Americans Suggest Ways to Aid Business.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 4.—Before France and the United States get down to the complicated business of swapping exports by negotiating mutual tarif or quota concessions both countries should proceed to a thorough overhauling of their customs regulations.

Investigation of Franco-American trade relations here reveals that in addition to the known tarif and quota barriers there is also miles of red tape which paralyzes trade between the two countries as effectively as the official customs laws. Impartial analysis reveals that the situation is just as bad on one side of the ocean as on the other, and that in cutting through this red tape the two governments would not be making mutual concessions, but would simply be benefiting themselves.

American Demands Listed.

American business men here want the French government to take the following measures without trying to represent them as "concessions":

1. Modify the present import license regulations so importers will know with a minimum delay whether or not they are going to get the quotas to which they are theoretically entitled.

2. Calculate duty on net weight for goods requiring heavy packing for ocean transportation. Continental competitors are able in most cases to ship with little or no packing, which gives them an edge on American shippers.

3. Reasonable application of mark of origin regulation so as to avoid excessive expense for manufacturers and also danger of damaging product.

Complain of Sanitary Laws.

4. Abolition of all sanitary and other administrative measures applied as an indirect means of restricting imports. American fruit has often been shut out on this pretext.

5. Adequate protection on American trade marks, names and marks of origin.

French business interests call on the American government to take similar measures and have several special grievances:

1. They want the United States to adopt specific customs rates as a substitute for the present ad valorem rates, which cause endless disputes due to contested declared values.

2. Recognition by United States authorities of certificates of authenticity issued by French authorities.

Hit Patent Medicine Rulings.

The evil of sanitary restrictions and the problem of protecting trade names have special importance to French business men. They claim that various countries, including the United States, have placed intolerable and prohibitive restrictions on French nursery stock, which used to be a leading item of export.

The French also claim that American patent medicine legislation is applied with unnecessary severity. The patent medicine industry in France is a flourishing one and its standards are high. Reputable French doctors rarely make out prescriptions for their patients, but rely on standard products.

Despite their recognized value, many French patents technically violate the American regulations governing names, description of curative qualities, etc. The French claim that the law is applied with much more severity against foreign medicinal preparations than against domestic patent medicines. If the law cannot be modified in favor of foreign patent medicines of recognized therapeutic value, the French would like at least to receive equal treatment with American products.

Trade Names a Touchy Spot.

The problem of protecting patents, trade names and distinctive names of origin such as "Champagne," "Cognac," "Sevres," and "Gobelins" is of the highest importance here. The French literally foam at the mouth when they hear that Americans drink "champagne" from California and "burgundy" from New York or Kentucky.

It is all the harder for them to understand because in France the right to use such names is strictly regulated by law. Sparkling white wine cannot be called champagne or describe itself as a champagne type wine unless it comes from rigorously defined geographical area.

The French consider that American wine growers are intentionally dishonest when they use the name of French wine villages on their bottles, even if they make it clear the wine is home grown.

Excuse for Debt Repudiation.

It is doubtful that the American government has realized the full seriousness of this problem. French opinion not only uses this American "dishonesty" to justify all sorts of sharp commercial practices by way of retaliation, but many simple Frenchmen believe it is a perfect justification for repudiating war debts as well.

It is also felt that French fashion creations are not sufficiently protected.

While these points seem largely technical, experts declare that such red tape difficulties cost both countries millions of dollars annually. It is emphasized that the uncertainty of being able to do profitable business is a greater impediment to international trade than any known tarif or customs barriers. A beginning in this direction opens a way out of the deadlock in Franco-American commercial relations, which is caused by France's insistence on improving her trade balance—which now favors America at a ratio of more than two to one—and America's necessity of protecting jobs of American workers.

U. S. TO RE-ENTER HOG TRADE HERE; PRICES ADVANCE

Cattle Also Move Higher; Lambs Hold Steady.

The trend of hog prices, which has been consistently downward recently, was abruptly reversed yesterday on a buying wave started by the announcement that the government will begin buying hogs again today. Slight early losses were quickly recovered, with the close strong to 10 cents higher than the opening. The general average for the day at $4 showed 5 cents advance.

Packers at Chicago, Buffalo, and Wheeling, W. Va., will buy hogs for the relief corporation at the rate of 3,200 daily for the next 20 market days. The Chicago quota of the order was awarded to the following packing houses: Hygrade Food Products corporation, 1,200; William Davies company, 1,000; Agar Packing company, 1,200; and the Illinois Meat company, 1,200. However, these houses were instructed to buy only half their quota daily until further notice.

Want 180 Pound Average.

On the new order packers will buy 100 to 310 pound hogs of medium or better quality to average 180 pounds or under, but none of the extremely thin hogs will be accepted, the grading to be determined by inspectors at the scales. As in previous buying programs, the government reserves the right to reduce or cancel the orders on a few hours' notice, and as the buying is to begin today at 50 per cent of the quota in the contracts, buying of "relief" hogs can also be increased to 6,400 head at the three points, or to 4,600 at Chicago should the corporation see fit to do so.

The government is also considering the purchase of 10,000,000 pounds of commercial pork cuts, but no decision has been reached.

The top sale which was made early at $4.20 showed 5 cents loss compared with Tuesday. Better grades of 250 to 300 pound butchers sold at $4 to $4.20. Heavy packing sows cashed at $3.15 to $3.25.

Cattle Prices Rise.

Cattle prices also swung upward, recovering some of the preceding day's losses. Considering the plainer quality of the supply the market made a good showing. Nothing good enough to test the top quotations arrived.

Prime 1,482 pound cattle brought $7.35, while the bulk of all beef steers cashed within a range of $5.35 to $7.10. In the realm of the big weights 1,637 pound cattle sold at $6.50 and 1,701 pound averages at $6. A small lot averaging 1,804 pounds brought $5.25.

A meager supply of sheep and lambs sold at mostly steady prices. Sales of native spring lambs weighing 38 to 60 pounds held within a range of $10 to $12.75, while the old crop of "fed" lambs cashed at $5.90 to $9.15. Lambs without fleece are discounted about $2 because of the high level of the wool market.

How to Become a BEAUTY EXPERT

What are you ambitious to be? An "ordinary" mediocre beauty operator, trained to "work only in the cheapest" shops at minimum wages? Or—wouldn't you rather be a genuine beauty expert, with sufficient training, practical experience and technical knowledge to qualify you for a good paying position in a high class shop?

Fees Are Lower

Unquestionably you want to be an expert and earn more money. DeLEE trains its students to be real experts. At DeLEE you will receive individual, personal instruction under Madame Louise. You will learn the really fine points of beauty culture and hairdressing in the shortest possible time.

Come in today and talk with Miss Stevens, the dean. Let her show you through this beautiful, light, clean, colorful school and explain the new low tuition fee plan to you.
